CO-ED CLAMOUR

In this month's issue of Harper's magazine, Dr. Milton Levine, an associate professor of Clinical Pediatrics at Cornell University Medical College discusses "Sex: The Problem Colleges Evade".

Some "colleges limit themselves to the role of policemen. They have a wide and rather comical array of regulations about who may visit a student dormitory, where (in downstairs lounges called 'passion pits', or in student rooms), when, and how (doors open, lights on, four feet on the floor). While the boys are given considerable (?) freedom, the girls' dormitories impose strict curfews—which occasionally backfire, as when girls stay out all night rather than be punished for coming in too late. A number of schools go so far as to out-law student-owned cars, at least for Freshman (sometimes for lack of parking facilities, as well as for moral reasons, to be sure). If nothing else, such restrictions may succeed in obstructing normal friendly relationships.

'You never have any privacy', a serious-minded Oberlin girl complains. 'So you change your whole concept of what should properly be done before other people . . .'

The futility of such attempts to abolish privacy is obvious. Young people who really want to have love affairs while they are in college will do so anyway."

This is the opinion of Dr. Levine, not a rebel, an idiot, nor a pious dictator, but an authority on sociology who has studied these problems.

CUCND

MONTREAL (CUP) — The Combined Universities Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament failed to fare well in a campus poll carried out at McGill University over the weekend. By a count of five to one, the McGill students opposed the methods and policies of CUCND.

Of 875 students polled, 139 supported CUCND, 649 were opposed, and 87 were apparently undecided. Strongest support for CUCND was in Arts and Science where 98 were pro-CUCND, 333 were against and 43 undecided.

The supporters of CUCND gave various reasons for their attitude. One expressed by a professor was "Canada cannot and should not be neutral. It is a question of the methods used to fight those who endanger us. In Canada's case I believe there are more effective methods than force, especially nuclear force. (Only five professors cast ballots and four of them supported CUCND).

Another CUCND supporter said "Canada must try to do something positive to counteract war psychology."

A more typical opinion, in that it came from a supporter of neutrality for Canada, was "Canada can help stop the spread of nuclear arms to other smaller nations by officially renouncing them, thus making total disarmament easier."

Many said that they supported CUCND "partially" or "to an extent." Of the 649 who did not support CUCND, there were several who accused the organization of being under Communist influences: "Cannot support Red CUCND" "CUCND run by Reds" "Anyone duped by this Commie group should have his head read."

The survey was carried out among the 8,000 students at McGill by the McGill Daily.

THE FOLLOWING IS THE ACTUAL POLL:

- 1) Do you support the methods and policies of the CUCND?
- 2) Place an "X" opposite those statements you agree with:
 - Canada should unilaterally renounce nuclear weapons
 - Canada should pursue a neutral course in the "cold war".
 - The U.S. should cease nuclear testing whether Russia does or not.
 - Effective disarmament depends on international inspection of both sides.

At the University of Toronto, local CUCND president Howard Adelman, charged Monday that "the McGill paper has always been antagonistic to the CUCND. Obviously, it has influenced its readers."

The Varsity has adopted the McGill poll, and is running the survey this week with the results to be published Friday. The Wallenstein Foundation has agreed to help the Varsity in conducting the poll.
