

Rules Proliferate On Acadia Campus

WOLFVILLE (CUP) — At Acadia University students recently stayed up five nights in a row to create snow sculptures for the annual winter carnival.

The day before the carnival began, and while students were in class, one sculpture (a toilet bowl) was chopped down by university officials.

The action was typical of the administrative control exercised over student affairs at Acadia. It served to enflame a prolonged battle between students and the administration stretching back to the fall term, and highlighted by the co-ed calendar censorship at the University last month.

It is a strange conflict, pitting the administration against the student council, the student newspaper The Athenaeum and a large section of the faculty

One result of this fight has been a surprising amount of public attention focussed on the small Nova Scotia university, and a severe battering of the university's image which was just recovering from the attempt by the region's Baptist Convention last summer to prevent all but Christian professors from teaching there.

A great deal of the problem has to do with student resistance to an overwhelming number of rules, written and unwritten, set up to control rigidly the lives of students.

Students maintain that such rules have no place in the academic community; University officials claim that the university has the responsibility to act in the place of the parents.

The result is that students —especially females—find themselves saddled with far more restrictions than they ever had at high school or at home.

There are rules for everything. Quoting at random from the women's residence by-laws, we find; "Students are expected to sign out whenever they leave their residence to be out later than 7:30 p.m. . . ."

"As university organizations provide adequate forms of entertainment on the campus, women are not permitted to attend public dances . . ."

"Women may send long distance calls with charges reversed or over pay telephones. There should not be any outgoing or incoming calls on any telephone after 11:30 . . ."

"Baths and showers shall not be allowed after 11:30 . . ."

"Any young woman having a car on campus must register it with the Provost and the Dean of Women."

"Young women are not permitted to visit men's residences nor their apartments."

And girls are not allowed to live off-campus while attending Acadia, unless they are post-graduates. Girls have been expelled from Acadia for violating these rules.

There is an elaborate leave system set up for co-eds which reads like this: "Seniors are allowed late leaves after 7:30 any night; Juniors three Sophettes two; Freshettes one, besides Saturday and Sunday nights. Dance leave on Saturday night does not count as a late leave.

"In addition, Seniors may have a 12:00 leave either Wednesday or Friday night of each week and a 12:30 leave on Saturday night providing there is not a dance leave. Juniors may have two nights during each month. 12:00 leaves on Saturday Sophettes may have one 12:00 leave on Saturday night during each month."

There are ways of getting after 7:30 and not having it counted as a late leave. Students can work on certain organizations or sit on council and not have it counted as a night out; yet, if a student wished to go to the Library she would have to use a late leave. This means, for example, that freshettes are permitted, by university regulation, to go to the library JUST ONE NIGHT A WEEK.

And the rules are sometimes dangerous.

Every night, as soon as the leaves are over, each women's residence is locked up tighter than a drum. Not only is it impossible to get into the women's residences after hours, it is impossible to get out.

Since some of the residences are very old, and since none of them has firebars on the doors, there is a serious fire threat to the lives of the girls locked up in the residences night after night.

For the men, rules are less restrictive. Men are strictly forbidden to drink alcoholic beverages, must "agree to obey the existing regulations governing student activities," and must conduct themselves in a manner that will "be of credit to the university."

The university impinges on the prerogative of the law in some cases.

One rule, printed in the university calendar, states that "all occupants of student bachelor apartments shall agree to inspection of their apartments by a member of the administrative or provost staff if such visits are found necessary or desirable by the latter party in the best interests of the university."

"If it is found that in the opinion of the administration conduct in any student bachelor apartment be found to be detrimental to the interests and good name of the University, said student occupant(s) shall be ordered to vacate the apartment under penalty of the occupants being dropped from the roll of the university."

There are signs that things are changing at Acadia, however.

When Dean of Women Ethel V. Kinsman had a girl's motor scooter impounded this fall and announced a new rule that girls were forbidden to ride them, pressure from the student newspaper forced an immediate rescinding of the rule.

The incident sparked a petition signed by over half of Acadia's female students asking for permission to rewrite the women's constitution, and brought to the forefront two girls who took over the fight for women's rights on campus.

One, an American, became disillusioned and left campus. The other, a Quebec girl, has

(SEE page 7, column 1)

IS THERE
A FAST-GROWING, DIVERSIFIED,
CANADIAN COMPANY
YOU CAN JOIN
NOW?

THERE IS: DOMTAR.

Domtar Limited is one of Canada's most vital and diversified companies. It produces a world of products for a world of people:

pulp and paper, building and construction materials, chemical products, packaging products, products for the home and kitchen.

University graduates in the engineering fields, in the sciences, business administration, and in commerce and finance will find ample opportunities for their initiative and imagination within the modern Domtar operations. 21,000 Canadian employees develop, produce and market Domtar's wide range of consumer and industrial products in 121 plants, mills and laboratories from Victoria to Halifax. In addition, there are Domtar facilities in the United States, the United Kingdom, Europe and the West Indies.

A Domtar representative visits Canadian universities throughout the school year. He'll be happy to discuss career opportunities available today at Domtar. If you would like a booklet describing the opportunities within Domtar, write to: Recruitment Services, Domtar Limited, 2100 Sun Life Building, Montreal, Quebec.

DOMTAR
LIMITED