

WASHINGTON MARCH

dian October 21 Mobilization headquarters in Toronto. It is impressive when a fairly small school like UNB-STU-TC sends as large a number of marchers as great a distance as we are going.

The International Mobilization is now beginning to pick up momentum. Women Strike for Peace has already carried out a major picketing operation at the Selective Service System headquarters in Washington. The Resistance will launch a major confrontation with the American conscription system on October 16. On that day, hundreds of young men in various U.S. cities will return their draft cards in public ceremonies; they will be joined by wives, girlfriends and others ineligible for the draft, who will sign statements of noncooperation with the Selective Service System. Both the young men and their supporters will then be liable for a 5 year prison sentence.

The October 21 Washington action looks to be large, impressive and effective. Informal gatherings and meetings on Friday, and throughout the weekend, should provide a very efficient method of organizing ourselves for sustained grassroots peace programs during the months after the October 21 action is over. The Saturday march on the Pentagon is particularly appropriate now, because the Johnson government is currently under intense pressure to stop the war, both from Americans and from the other countries of the world. Perhaps the march will provide the little extra push required to tip the scales in favor of peace.

Promises of support for the October 21 Mobilization have now come in from all over the world, including Edmonton, Toronto, Montreal, Halifax, and cities in Scotland, England, Sweden, Holland, Belgium, Germany, France, Italy, Ireland and Spain.

Plans call for 3 white and 3 black speakers at the Wash-

Dr. Norman Strax, seated in the booth at the Student Centre, where anti-Vietnam war literature is being distributed. Also here tickets for the Washington March are being sold.

Toronto Teach-in Seeks Former Rhodesian PM

TORONTO (CUP) The third international teach-in organized by university of Toronto students is getting static from the Ian Smith regime in Rhodesia.

Teach-in organizers have invited former Rhodesian Prime Minister Garfield Todd to address the gathering, but Ian Smith's government might prevent him from leaving his country.

In 1965 they confined Todd to his farm for a full year when he tried to leave the country to speak at a similar teach-in.

Mr. Todd said he was recently warned by the government he would be similarly restricted again if his activities became a "threat to the nation."

Teach-in organizers have also asked his daughter Judy an outspoken girl, living in London, to speak in his place if he cannot attend.

The theme of this year's teach-in is the role of religion in international affairs.

Other speakers will include Canon John Collins, leader of the British Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament; Trevor Huddleston, a Tanzanian priest and author of Naught For Comfort; and several other international political and religious leaders.
