Film confiscated by security chief not returned yet

Early this fall the Brunswickian lost a film to security police chief Barnett. All attempts to get the film back have failed.

The officers on duty at the Services Building made no comment Sunday.

"We give no statements to you people. All statements are made on behalf of us by Alan Pacey, director of information for the administration," they said.

"I am in the dark about this, chief Barnett has never mentioned anything to me about it. Certainly the administration hasn't either," said Pacey. Vice-president: administration, B. F. MacCaulay said, "I know nothing of any film."

The incident involved Brunswiwickan photographer, Henry Straker, arts 1, who was covering the SDS action at the campus library Sept. 20. Straker snapped the chief as he left the library. "He walked right up to me," said Straker.

"He told me I had no right to photograph him. The chief then took my film and told me if I made a fuss I would lose the whole lot." The chief and his men have told photographers several times since that they don't want their pictures taken.

Recent petitions to the administration have yielded no film. The Brunswickian was informed almost two weeks ago by a university official that the problem of the film was on the top of administration president Mackay's agenda. It would be settled in a few days.

After a few days, the official said that "something had come up and it would be at least two weeks before anything more was heard on the matter."

"The administration has had plenty of time to act," said Brunswickian editor-in-chief John Oliver.

"It was a pointless infringement of a photographer's public freedom."

Student Killed

Chris Dohler, a first year student at UNB was killed Friday, Oct. 25 on his way to see the football game at St. Francis Xavier University. Chris and a fellow passenger, Peter Johnson, also a UNB student, were on a motorcycle when they were struck from behind by a car. At this point neither was seriously injured.

As the driver of the first car and Johnson were attending Chris, who at this point was lying on the highway, a second car struck the trio killing Chris and seriously injuring the driver of the first car.

At last report, he was still in critical condition, having one leg amputated.

Chris Dohler was a resident of Comox, Quebec and was an active member of the Parachute Club. The Parachute Club is erecting a Chris Dohler Memorial Trophy in memory of the best prospected student jumper of the club.
