TV 10 wants the interest of the university community. Assistant Director Greg Rogers said, "we want to begin training sessions in October".

Rogers said they are interested in training on a full-time basis. The station offers all aspects of television production including producing, camera, audio and lighting. What they would like, explained Rogers, is a student or students to produce and operate a student-based show. The show may be dealing with any concept.

The hours, Rogers stated, is any time that the students was to make it. "It's what they ask us for - they are the boss."

Transportation can also be arranged, added Brenda Levison, who is freelancing in Public Relations. "The work", said Levison, "is lots of fun and the experience looks good on resumes".

Rogers explained they would like to try and formualte a university club. CHVW, he said, is restricted in certain aspects. "We want to aim for the whole university population. We're community television and the students represent a large part of that population."

bruns staffer hard at work

Former acid guru Tim Leary says he has no hard feeling towards the cops who arrested him and his wife earlier this week. But he says the officers were mistaken about the drugs the two were said to be using and that reports of a fight in the Leary apartment were false.

Leary told a Los Angeles Times (newspaper) reporter that the (white substance resembling cocaine" seized furing the raid was actually ketamine, a powerful prescription tranquilizer sometimes given to psychotics. And the screams heard coming from his apartment? "We were making love," Leary said; "We regularly take extremely strong aphrodisiacs." (Newscript)
