

Health care career fair at DECH

UNB Nursing Students helping out as tour guides

By Chris Wilson-Smith

On Saturday, November 3rd, between 10:00 am and 2:00 pm, Region 3 Hospital Corporation is holding a Health Care Career Fair at the Dr. Everett Chalmers Hospital.

Both high school and university students are invited to the fair, which will feature more than 30 displays from many fields in the health care profession. Students will also have the chance to talk one on one with an experienced worker, and take a tour of some areas of the hospital, such as Diagnostic Imaging, Occupational Therapy, and Physiotherapy. Corporation staff from all areas from critical care to home care will be taking part in the fair.

Last year, for those with an interest in the field of surgery, surgical procedures where performed on patient "pumpkin." Although the status of the pumpkin is presently unknown, something equally entertaining may be expected for this year.

"Through events like this career fair, we hope to make young people aware of the many careers open to them in health care, whether they are in high school or attending one of our universities in a general degree program. We also want them to know that when they finish their education, there will be a home for them at Region 3 Hospital Corporation," said

Joan Kingston, the recruitment officer for Region 3.

Kingston also mentioned how fortunate she has been to have the UNB Nursing Program as a partner in the career fair.

"We certainly appreciate their support; their participation last year was invaluable."

Nursing students will act as tour guides along with the existing volunteer group at the hospital.

The Departments of Engineering, Science and Kinesiology at UNB, as well as the Departments of Social Work and Gerontology at STU, have also been invited to attend the fair.

Bisson receives award for excellence in teaching

Professor presented with Allan P. Stuart Award at UNB Convocation ceremony

By Kevin Plummer

At the UNB Convocation ceremony on October 21, Professor Barry Bisson was presented with the Allan P. Stuart Award for Excellence in Teaching.

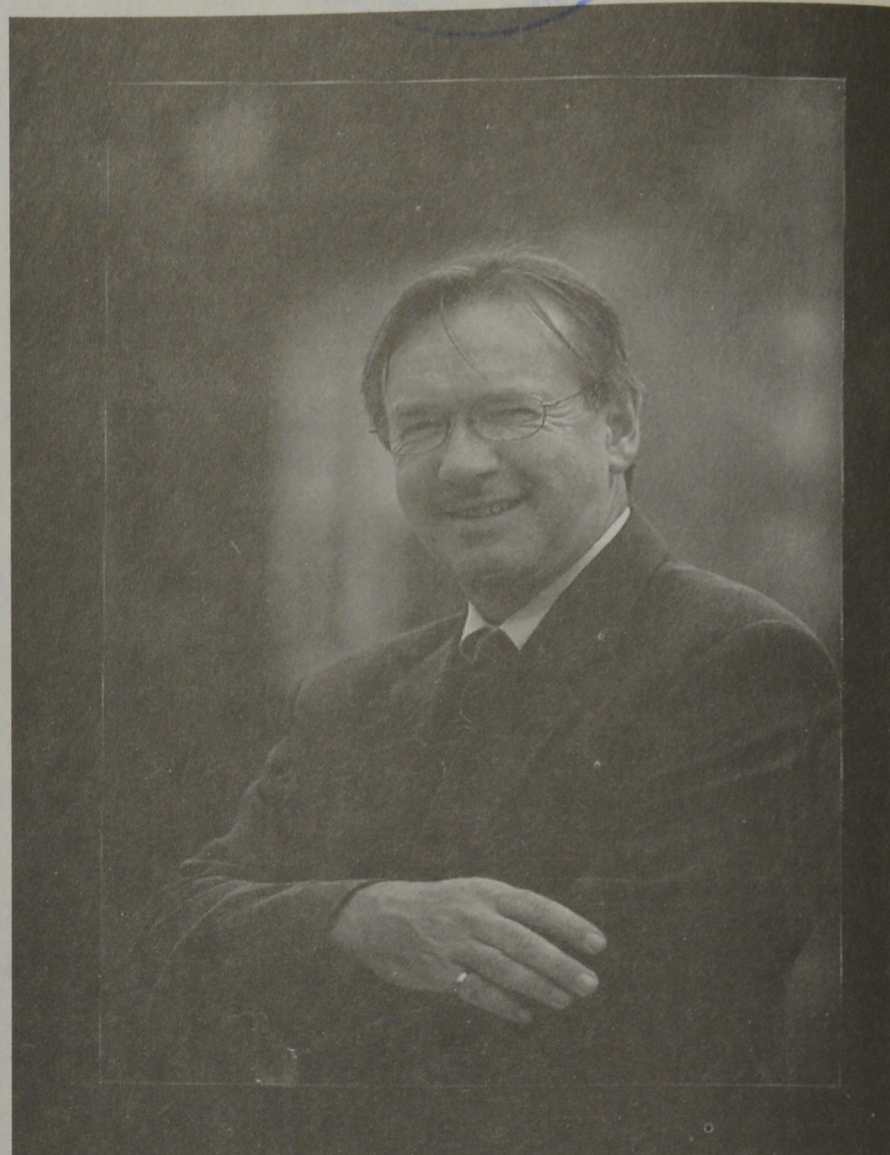

Prof. Bisson has been teaching business to engineering students since 1983. He currently holds the Dr. J. Herbert Smith ACOA Chair in Technology Management and Entrepreneurship.

Prof. Bisson was excited to receive the award but also emphasized the rewards that teaching provides. He said, "There are rewards every day in observing young people enhance their skills, knowledge, and potential."

In order to enhance the teaching and learning process, his teaching philosophy revolves around a commitment to quality and innovation. He has brought business executives from across Canada and abroad into his classes, providing his students with real-world guidance.

Prof. Bisson has also been a leading innovator in enhancing learning with technology. He has developed a number of online courses and other internet-based instructional tools at UNB. "I want to push the envelope to develop new and more effective ways of teaching students," he said of his innovative techniques.

He has become involved in a new internet-based pilot project this term. Developed in cooperation with the University of Massachusetts and Aliant, Inc., he says, "The project includes the world's first online, real-time case study of a company." The program enriches the learning experience for students by allowing them to 'shadow manage' a high-tech firm.

The Alan P. Stuart Award for Excellence in Teaching is awarded to professors nominated by their students. Former students have spoken glowingly about Prof. Bisson.

One stated, "Prof. Bisson provides real-life guidance on business problem solving, analysis, and relationship networking."

The award is named in honour of Allan Stuart, a UNB chemistry professor from 1946 to 1973. Stuart was one of the first to receive an award for excellence in teaching at UNB.

Police seek help in solving local crimes

Woman sexually assaulted; two UNB flags gone missing

By Ben Conoley

Police are seeking information from the public relating to two crimes committed last week in Fredericton.

On Wed., Oct. 24th, shortly after 6:00 pm, a lone female jogger was traveling westward along the Lincoln Road walking path. She was approached by a young man who proceeded to block her path and grab her in a sexual manner. Striking her assailant, the woman was able to get away, as the suspect fled. The suspect is described as White, 5'5, fifteen years old, and with a thin build. He was wearing a gray hooded sweater and greenish-gray army style pants. He fled on a red bicycle.

The Fredericton police would like to remind the public to keep in mind that it is now getting dark earlier in the evening. Also, when walking or jogging at night, it is advisable not to go alone, and to stay in public, well lit areas.

In a second incident that same night, a lone masked male entered the Petro Canada at 569 Riverside Drive. Carrying a small weapon, the suspect demanded money from the employee. The suspect is described as being 5'9, medium build. He was wearing a Halloween mask, bandana, and gloves. The suspect fled on foot in an unknown direction with an undisclosed amount of cash. The employee was not injured in the robbery.

27 year old Malcolm Peterson of Fredericton was arrested on Tuesday afternoon and appeared in a Marysville court on Wednesday to answer charges relating to armed robbery, wearing a mask while committing an indictable offence, breach of probation and two other unrelated counts of theft. Peterson remains in custody and will reappear in court today for a showcause hearing.

On two occasions within a ten day period, between October 15th and October 25th, two University of New Brunswick flags were taken from in front of Sir Howard Douglas Hall. When Security went to lower the flags at the end of the work day, they were discovered missing. The disappearances occurred during daylight hours. Replacing these flags is costly to the University. If anyone has information as to whom might be responsible, UNB Security asks that they be contacted at 453-4830.

Anyone with information regarding the sexual assault is asked to call Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-tips or Detective Kim Quartermain at 460-2432. The file number regarding is 2001-20684.

Herwig to lecture at UNB

By Bruns Staff

Debates still rage over Adolf Hitler and his Nazi regime.

Academic debates that is. On Tuesday, November 6th, at 8:00 p.m. in the Wu Conference Centre, Dr. Holger H. Herwig will continue the debate by presenting a paper titled "German War Guilt 1914: Fritz Fischer Got it Right."

Fischer's theory was that Germany was responsible for WWI. He concluded there was a link between Hitler's Nazi regime and a long German legacy of aggressive militarism.

Herwig, a University of Calgary History Professor, has published over a dozen books on German naval and military history of the late 19th and early 20th centuries, including a critically acclaimed text titled "Hammer or Anvil?: Modern Germany 1648 - Present."

His text on WWI from the perspective of the central powers, "The First World War: Germany and Austria-Hungary 1914-1918," as well as his book that was published just this fall with co-author David Bercusson, "The Destruction of the Bismarck," have also been well received by critics.

The November 6th lecture is hosted by the UNB-F Military and Strategic Studies Program in honour of Remembrance Day.
