The UNB Ironmen B-side travelled to play the Woodstock Wildmen on Saturday in the New Brunswick Men's 1st Division consolidation playoff match. The UNB ruggers entered the game seeking for revenge of their last encounter with the Wildmen earlier in the season which the Ironmen fell in a tightly fought affair.

post a 12-0 lead at halftime. Luck was on the Woodstock side as a phenomenal run by outside centre Allen Furlong crossed the Wildmen try line. However, it was called back, as the beleaguered opponents barely inhibited young Furlong from touching the ball down.

not to be denied another try as he crossed the line untouched. Despite courageous efforts from experienced eight-man/second row Louis Chartrand and winger Matt Kinnie, the Wildmen withstood the UNB attack to win 24-5.

Men on their way to AUS playoffs

lucky that I hit [the free kick]. I've hit a few before but I'm just lucky to get the chance in the games. You don't usually get too many at that spot. It's perfect for your left foot."

"Brad is someone that is just hobbled up a little bit, so it's just a matter of how much time I was going to use him," said Reds head coach Miles Pincet of the decision to hold MacDonald back until the second half. "I look brilliant because he played very well as soon as I put him in and it made the difference for us for sure," he added.

Moncton's strategy seemed to be to drop like they'd been shot every time a UNB player spoiled a chance with a hard tackle, and while it did give them a number of free kicks, they were not able to convert. Fifth-year player Abderrahmane Boughoufala's display was particularly embarrassing, falling to the ground as Greg Gillis got all ball to take his chance away, then jogging back into position after writhing in apparent pain for several minutes.

"You can't control that stuff, so I was just impressed that the boys didn't get too much wrapped up into it," said Pinsent of the Moncton tactics. "And they're definitely... I've got nothing to say," he laughed, not wanting to complain after getting the three points.

UNB kept loose during these injury breaks, and reserve goalkeeper Chris James, among several players making their first on-field appearance for the Reds, posted the shutout in his first action of the season, although the Blue Eagles did not test him often. Moncton wasted the majority of their chances, but James did have to come up with a highlight-reel save to preserve the clean sheet in the second half, tipping a free kick over the left of the bar with just over five minutes remaining.

"I was kind of caught off foot, and I just got a little piece and I guess I got enough to get it over. It was kind of lucky," said James of the save. "It's great to get in [to the lineup]," added James, who also spent a season in front of a smaller net with the St. Thomas Tommies hockey program, "I've been waiting all year to play a game, so it's good today."

The loss was a disappointing nail in U de M's last-place coffin. Their 2-9-1 record was worst in the league, and they finished in the AUS basement for both offense and defense. The Blue Eagles were shut out in half of their games, and managed to score two goals in a game just once. Legault called the loss "pretty much indicative of the whole season... There was not too much consistency this year, but it's something to build on for next year," he added, although it was the final game of the former STU player's career.

UPEI and UNB both sit atop the West Division with 25 points, but the Panthers edge in head-to-head play gives the defending AUS champs a bye into the second round of the post-season tournament. The Panthers will likely meet the nation's 8th-ranked team, the Dalhousie Tigers, as no one gives UCCB much of a chance against the Halifax powerhouse in the first round. Dal shut them out 4-0 in their only meeting and UCCB's hardly impressive total of four wins came against the three weakest teams in the league.

UNB takes on St. FX Friday, with the winner going on to meet St. Mary's, who host the tournament after finishing with the most points in the AUS. Pinsent hinted that some of the players who cracked the lineup last weekend may be ready to take on bigger roles immediately.

"It'll all just depend upon what gets dictated to us by who we'll be playing against and what we're going to need to put on the field," said Pinsent. "The guys that got put in there, they stepped up today and showed me some things, so you're going to keep that in the back of your mind going in to the playoffs."

Pinsent said he was particularly impressed with the play of backs B.J. MacPhee and Geoff Marshall. Although Duncan Gillis has been an integral part of the UNB backline, he struggled with X's Daniel Adelman in their last meeting, and may end up cheering from the bench for at least the first game of the tournament.
