Ever wondered what the Student Union is, what it's up to, or who's in it? Want to find a complete list of Clubs and Societies, see what the latest events are, or discover what the hot new topic of the week is? Wonder no more. Everything you ever wanted to know about the Student Union can be found in one place - su.unbf.ca.

That's right, any time of the week, day or night, you can go online and see your Student Union. It's got more information than you can shake a stick at, and it's all at your fingertips. The new website has many highlights but I would like to share a few of the major ones.

Have an issue about UNB? Have a concern or question? Well we've got something for you! We now have an online web log (or blog) where you can talk about what matters to you as a student. Have an open discussion with other students, UNB administrators and your Student Union representatives about major issues around campus. Not only is there talk, but if enough students agree on an issue, then talk turns into action. We want to get things done at UNB, and this is your chance to help us.

We're also going to have a calendar of events where we'll be posting everything from bands that are coming to UNB, to cultural nights, to great speakers. If it's happening on campus, we want to keep you informed.

We've also got a complete list and description of our services, of what our health and dental plan covers, and a list of other great resources you should know about. We have a history of the Student Union, minutes from our meetings, our budget, our bylaws and lots, lots more. We've even got polls so that you can vote on issues and topics everyday!

So, to sum it all up, the new Student Union website is awesome, amazing and is guaranteed to inform you about all that we do. The only thing you have to do now is check it out - su.unbf.ca

By-Election: Not just for the By-curious.

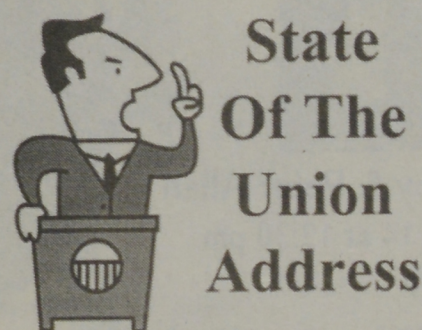

By Ryan Pollard, Chief Returning Officer, UNBSU 2004-05

Hey, there's a by-election going on! Get your name on the ballot and get campaigning!

Part of my job as Chief Returning Officer (CRO) is to publicize and administer campus elections. When I went before the Student Union Council to tell them what kind of job I would do as CRO, I said that I wanted to carry out the position in a dynamic way. I said I wanted to take the extra step, to build on the strengths we as a sophisticated body of voters have already demonstrated, and look for areas where both electors and candidates could be better served, and be better engaged with each other. Some of my ideas included ways to increase voter turnout, the number of candidates running, and the participation of women. I'll expand upon these ideas, and others, in future editions of the Student Union page.

By the time you read this, the nomination period for this by-election will be just about up. This by-election represents a tremendous opportunity, especially for first year students who have just arrived and are itching to show their chops. Getting involved with the Student Union is one of the best things you can do during your career as a student. You get practical experience, you get to engage with and work for your constituency, and you make a real contribution to the campus community. As I said that night at Council, I see involvement in the Student Union as a kind of 'gateway drug,' that leads to greater leadership in society at large. Just ask some of our current political leaders at all levels of government, a lot of them got their starts in campus politics.

If you have any further inquiries, do not hesitate to contact me, at cro@unb.ca. Here's looking forward to seeing your name on the ballot!

State of the Union Address

TONIGHT, Thursday October 14th

Time: 7:00pm
Location: MacLaggan Hall (N105)

You are all invited!

This year, YOUR Student Union will be hosting its first ever State of the Union Address. The Address is intended to inform members about their Union - what it is, what it has done and what it plans to do. There will be brief presentations on our Budget, Club and Society Funding, the structure of the Union, and its plans for this year. There will also be ample opportunity to ask your Student Union Executive questions about all of these matters and anything pertaining to the Union. Refreshments will be provided for all who attend.

This is your chance to get to see the big picture. To learn where your Union is, to learn where it is going, and most importantly to learn how you can get involved to help it get there. Bring your friends, bring your enemies, and bring that guy hiding in the library pretending to be doing his homework, the more of you the merrier. We want YOU to be informed and this is the first step.

We hope to see you there.

Need a job?

The Union needs a Drink Smart Coordinator.

Drink Smart is a student-managed awareness group devoted to:

1. Providing information to the students about alcohol-related issues;
2. Promoting responsible drinking while also providing alternatives to drinking;
3. Creating an atmosphere where students can have fun without feeling pressured to drink.

The role of the Drink Smart Coordinator is to facilitate these goals with the help of the Drink Smart committee.

For more information, or to apply, please contact Jeff Brewer at univaff@unb.ca or 458-7655. Application deadline: October 18th, 2004.
