Consistent play key to winning title

wound up a dismal 8-for-28 from the field in the first half, including just one three-pointer.

Anthony Breland of Maryland, the only American-born player in the tournament, was UCCB's only consistent threat, knocking down 22 points in 38 minutes of play (including a couple of crowd-pleasing jams), and adding six rebounds and five steals to seal a berth on the tournament all-star team after some sub-par shooting earlier in the weekend.

Myers, who had seven blocks, two steals, and 27 rebounds on the weekend, including 14 against Guelph, joined Breland on the all-star team, along with Goggin, McGill's Denburk Reid, and Guelph's Kyle Julius, who drained 17 three-pointers and had 29-point efforts against both McGill and UNB.

Julius, however, drew the ire of head coach Chris O'Rourke in the final seconds of Saturday's loss. After the Gryphons battled back to take their first lead of the game late in the second half, the previously red-hot Julius went ice-cold, making an untimely turnover on a terrible pass, having an easy basket taken away after an up-and-down, and missing his final two three-point attempts, including one for the tie on the game's last possession.

In arguably the most entertaining moment of the tournament, the rebound was passed back out to the arc for one last attempt, but no one was there except O'Rourke. In frustration, he threw up a shot from the sidelines, and drained it off the glass to the amazement of the hundreds in attendance.

Unfortunately for Guelph, coaches aren't allowed to score, and UNB went on to clinch the tournament.

Gillespie said that UNB's effort over the weekend proved the type of team they can be when they put in a consistent effort.

"I think, overall, we played more consistently than we had in the first half, over the course of three games, which was the goal. I think we can play with anybody in the country when we stay fundamental, we execute, we work hard, and we do that consistently. When we vary, we're very beatable."

Spink agreed that solid fundamental play will be key to any success the team will enjoy down the road. "Hopefully we're just gonna continue what we've been doing," he said. "Playing good team ball, rebounding well, getting the guys open shots, and hopefully we can just continue racking up some wins and secure ourselves a playoff spot."

The men continue their regular season this weekend with games against Acadia and Dalhousie.

Sink or swim?

(Ryan Burgoyne is the other), he leads the AUS in scoring, and he'll do anything it takes to taste national gold again in his final season.

There are no new players to work into the system:

UNB toyed with the idea of adding a player or two, in fact, Seymour says MacDougall had shown interest in him. But rather than put a new player on a steep learning curve, as they did last season with defensemen Jesse Ferguson and Mike Dombkiewicz, the Reds are standing pat with the players they have. "We had opportunities to maybe bring different people into the program, but I think we like the chemistry of our group right now and we've established for the most part roles in the team and guys that fit into those roles," said MacDougall.

As usual, MacDougall is concerned only with the game ahead. "We know it's a great challenge every time we play [St. Thomas]... We can't ask for a better game and we're certainly going to have to be at the top of our game."

Reds clinch Campbell title

played some solid offense, driving to the basket a number of times to increase the Reds' lead.

The Capers remained right on their heels for the remainder of the game. Despite valiant effort from both the offense and the defense, the Reds just couldn't leave the Capers in their dust. As the clock ran out UCCB closed the gap and trailed by only five with about a minute left. With less than a minute left, Jones took possession of the ball and attempted to drive to the net to better their 70-65 lead. She lost but it was quickly picked up by teammate Amber Lenihan only to have her foul and UCCB sinks both shots to tighten the gap to 70-67.

The Reds take the ball and try to slow it down a bit to prevent the Capers from gaining on them. Caper Heather Ross gives a penalty with 21 seconds left and Jones sinks them both to give UNB the 73-67 win as the clock finally wounded down.

McBride, Jones, and Emily Murphy led the Reds in scoring with 16, 11, and 10 respectively.

Lenihan was named player of the game for the Reds with eight points and Jones was named tournament MVP.

In other games on Sunday, McGill defeated Ryerson 58-48.

Friday night the UNB women played their tournament opener against Ryerson and picked up a 62-56 victory over the Rams. Jones led the Reds again with 14 points and was named player of the game for her efforts.

In the tournament opener, UCCB dropped a 62-60 decision to McGill.

On Saturday, the Reds had another close call, defeating McGill 58-55 in a very close decision. McBride was hot on the floor with 23 points, giving her player of the game honours. Lenihan was also strong, sinking 16 points in the effort.

In other games, UCCB pounded Ryerson 72-47.

The Reds will see action again this weekend when they travel for a double header in Nova Scotia with a game each against Acadia and Dalhousie.
