What does
Emily McGill
have in common with almost 100 other
Holland College
students?

She has a university degree.

"After attaining a bachelor's degree in Psychology and a certificate in Human Resources Management from St. Mary's University in 2004, I came to Holland College to pursue a career in Graphic Design. The program is perfect for me, because I am always learning new subjects and exploring art. I do not regret going to university, because my professors exposed me to many industries and taught me countless skills that I value. What I learned at St. Mary's is complementary to what I am learning now at Holland College. I am happy with where I am today."
