

SEAT OF THE MUSES.

MARY.

ON the famed height of Lebanon, the proud,
I've seen the towering cedar kiss the sky,
And, waving far below, the humble crowd,
Gave to each passing breeze an envious sigh:
So MARY's form makes symmetry its own,
And in the Realm of Beauty rules alone.

Of have I gaz'd on Night's refulgent Queen,
While through the cloudless heaven she held her way,
With grace enrob'd, and majesty serene,
Shedding o'er half the world a milder day:
With matchless dignity thus MARY moves,
And in her train leads on the chasten'd loves.

Reclined beneath the oak's extended shade
I've oft inhaled the Summer's thousand sweets,
Which thro' bland Zephyr's airy ringlets play'd,
Who joyful bore them from their cool retreats:
A purer fragrance MARY's breath exhales
Than all the rich perfume of Summer's gales.

Hush'd was the tempest, whose destructive course
Scatter'd thick ruin on the Farmer's toils;
Slight sighs succeed its late triumphant force,
The setting Sun shines out with gladd'ning smiles:
So MARY, deck'd with splendor all-serene,
With smiles benignant cheers life's stormy scene.

The bolder pencil, that would dare to trace
The various beauties of MARIA's mind,
The throne of virtue, intellect and grace,
In never ending harmony combin'd,
On heaven-born inspiration's wings must rise,
And seek a parallel beyond the skies. X.

AN ECDOTES.

AN Irishman travelling in a street that was paved, a dog accosted him with a threatening growl; the traveller attempted to pull up one of the paving stones to throw at him, but it was fast. "Arrah," says Paddy, "what a country is this, where stones are tied and dogs let loose."

A Person bought a pair of horns, and brought them home; his wife asked him, "what he meant?" he said "to hang his hat on." "Good Lord," says she, "can not you keep your hat on your own head?"

A certain Italian having written a book upon the art of making gold, dedicated it to Pope, Leo X. in hopes of a good reward. His Holiness finding the man constantly following him, at length gave him a large empty purse, saying, "Sir, since you know how to make gold, you can have no need of any thing but a purse to put it in."

A HANDSOME ASSORTMENT OF BRITISH MERCHANDIZE,

Suitable for the Season—all of which they will Sell at VERY LOW PRICES.

FOR SALE,

A VALUABLE Tract of Land in the Township of MAUGERVILLE, fronting the River Saint John Ninety Rods, containing TWELVE HUNDRED Acres, with a comfortable Dwelling-House, good Barn and out-Houses, and an excellent Spring of Water that never fails. The situation is as pleasant, if not superior, to any in the Township, and about Five Miles from the Seat of Government. The back Land is of an excellent quality, well wooded, and not subject to be overflowed, which renders it much more valuable.—Also, an excellent Island Right, belonging to the above Farm, containing Seven and a half Acres, mostly cleared and under improvement.—Also, a complete well finished STORE, suitable for a Retailer in the Country, with a good Dwelling-House, and a large WIND-MILL, situated in the above-mentioned Township, opposite the mouth of the River Oromocto, well known to be the best land for any public Business in the Country. The Mill is in complete repair, and has never failed of bringing the Owner an income of One Hundred a year (when attended to) clear of all expenses. Any person or persons inclining to purchase, will be much better satisfied by viewing the Premises.

For further particulars apply to James Sayer, on the Premises, or William and Thomas Pagan, & Co. Merchants, in Saint John.
