vernment (meaning, as he said, the petticoat one) saying in his usual happy strain, that he would endeavour as heretofore to combine toasts and sentiments, and giving—

The illustrious Lady who rules over our destinies, Queen Victoria, and the selection of her heart Prince Albert.

His next toast was another union, the United Service, here the gallant Colonel enumerated the deeds of valor that had been performed in the month of June by the united service, beginning with Lord Howe's victory in 1794, and ending with the immortal field of Waterloo, in 1815, and finishing by proposing—

"The Army and Navy of England."

His third toast began by presuming, that the month of June could never pass, as long as this nether world existed without the immortal deeds of His Grace the Duke of Wellington being talked of. He then gave—

"The unconquered and unconquerable Wellington!"

His first toast we give verbatim—

"Mr. President and gentlemen, I now rise to propose the toast which I feel assured you will all most cordially and heartily respond to we have already drunk the Queen and her illustrious consort, the selected of her heart, and I am now about to propose the health of Her Majesty's Representative in this Province; whilst giving the prefatory toasts to this the principal one of the evening, I endeavoured to show that the present month is one celebrated in the annals of our country, by deeds of arms and days of rejoicing, and I trust it will not be deemed inapplicable to the present occasion, to state, that the 1st of June is also marked by an event that will long be cherished and remembered in this loyal Colony. As the day on which His Excellancy the present governor now our distinguished guest, arrived and assumed its government, for I think the loyalty, the festivities, and the enthusiastic expressions of friendship, attachment, and good feeling exhibited during His Excellency's recent visit to St. John and elsewhere, will bear me out in what I have advanced, and gentlemen we have all reason to rejoice at this event, especially my friends and fellow soldiers of the 36th Regt.

As that fortuitous occurrence has placed us almost ever since we touched the shore of British North America under the command of one, whom we all love, honor and obey, one who has ever proved himself the soldier's friend, as I have often before stated, and never more so than on a recent occasion. I now beg leave to propose the health of His Excellency Major General Sir John Harvey with all the honors.

After these few words were uttered, His Excellency immediately rose, and spoke in flowing and eloquent language of his admiration of the Regiment he had just inspected, emphatically saying that the 36th if possible had surpassed themselves, alluded to his having been the soldier's friend for the last forty-eight years of his life, and repeatedly said that he had identified himself with the 36th Regt. whose healths with that of their Commanding officer, Lieut. Col. Maxwell he begged leave to propose.

Upon this the Lieut. Colonel once more got up, and was about to burst forth into a torrent of eloquence, when in a most amusing strain of mimicry he pretended to be checked by a vision which appeared to enter at the door, and forbid him utterance, it was the vision of one from whom his duty to his country, has long seperated him, but whom he tenderly loves, and the same which warned him, as we have been credibly informed, to abstain from speaking at the Temperance Soiree, on the celebration of Her Majesty's nuptials, when His Excellency honored the entertainment with his presence, the Commander of the Grass Greens had a subject allotted to him, to address the meeting upon, on that occasion, which we have no doubt he would have handled well, but not surpassing the masterly manner in which his friend Capt. O'Halloran performed his part. The gallant Colonel then sat down after expressing his warmest thanks for the flattering manner in which His Excellency had been pleased to speak of the Regiment under his command. The remainder of the evening passed off in peace and quiet, enlivened by the most agreeable conversation, which was only interrubted by the exquisite music of a very superior Band.

The 36th Regiment are undoubtedly favorites with all classes of this community, the gentlemanly deportment and upright, honorable bearing of the officers, as well as the excellent and admirable conduct, of the under officers and privates, securing to them that good will and esteem which it seems to have been their anxious endeavor, ever since their arrival amongst us, to merit. Crime in this well reputed corps is unknown, drunkenness but of rare occurrence, and a general tone of politeness and civility pervades all ranks. "Desertion from their colors," which has been carried on to such an alarming extent in these Provinces of late, through the instigation and assistance of the vilest and most infamous of mankind, has not been able to take any root in this noble corps. A few misguided, weak-minded, or abandoned wretches will of course always be found, upon whom the poisonous lies and promises of the seducers will have their effect, but such is the abhorrence in which the crime is held by all ranks, that the officers have at great expense, succeeded in bringing back with one or two exceptions, the few who have made the attempt, and the Non-commissioned officers have entered into a subscription to defray the expences of any of their comrades who may be sent in pursuit of them—no aid whatever being given by government to check this growing and serious evil.

FOR THE SENTINEL.

MR. WARD,

Will you have the goodness to acquaint the public, that there are existing at present some few demoniacal miscreants, who traverse the Streets of Fredericton at late hours in the night, and destroy property and the peace of their neighbours. I am sorry to state that these wretched demagogues have torn down the Sign of my Hotel, and deposited it in some street; they have been guilty of such and other tricks some time; I suspect the villains, and will endeavour to watch them, with something to accompany me, in order that they may be well paid for their trouble.

H. JACKSON.

Fredericton, June 12, 1840.
