LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

Wednesday, March 13.

The House went into Committee of the whole in consideration of a Bill relating to a legal tender—Hon. Mr. Cunard in the Chair.

Hon. Mr. JOHNSTON said the Bill went to establish the value of the sovereign and British silver. The Spanish dollar was at a premium in the United States of from two to three per cent.; and officers and other persons who get their pay in such money, often go and get the premium from the broker, and the money is then sent to the States. He (hon. Mr. J.) considered Lord Stanley was arguing upon wrong premises, and had not sufficient information before him when he recommended that the sovereign should be received as a legal tender for 24s only. The New York market, as all mercantile men know, regulates the current value of money in this Province to a great degree, and in order that sovereigns and Spanish dollars be kept in this Province, he considered they should be made a shade higher than in the United States—say the sovereign 24s 4d and the Spanish dollar 5s 1d, the same as in Canada. If twenty shillings of British silver was allowed to pass current for 24s, he thought the sovereign should certainly pass for 24s 4d. He thought if British silver was wanted for a remittance to the United States, it would not be worth so much as the sovereign by seven or eight per cent. He certainly thought the amount should be limited as to making British silver a legal tender, for if persons were allowed to make British silver a legal tender to any amount, parties would not be able to make remittances to the United States at all, for if they applied to the banks for money, the banks would give British silver, which could not be sent without being subject to a very great loss, as the British shilling did not pass for more than 20 cents in the United States. New York did not only regulate the value of coin in this Province, but also the value of the rates of exchange.

Hon. Mr. HATCH thought the Bill was of very great importance to the Country. They should recollect that they were living on the borders of a great nation, and he considered it would be absurd to try to regulate a currency against the United States; if they wished to retain the sovereigns and Spanish dollars in the Country, they should be a shade higher than in the States, and the same as in Canada; so he would wish the sovereign put at 24s 4d and the Spanish dollar at 5s 1d. The reason why there were no Spanish dollars in the Country was, because they were at a premium in the United States.

Hon. ATTORNEY GENERAL thought if they passed a Bill to establish the value of the sovereign at 24s 4d, the Home Government would not sanction it, as they objected to sanction the Bill at 24s 2d., unless every information was given on the subject, and thought that a select Committee had better be appointed to report on the subject. He thought Lord Stanley argued upon false premises when he wished to establish the sovereign at 24s.

Hon. Mr. STREET would give every deference to the hon. Mr. Johnston, as no doubt he was much better acquainted with such things than he (Mr. Street) could be, but thought some attention should be paid to the petition which was signed by most of the leading merchants in St. John, and the Bill had passed the Lower House, who had taken the same view of the matter as the petitioners, and thought Lord Stanley would not listen to the opinion of a select committee of that house, as soon as he would to the views taken by the petitioners, in connexion with the Lower House, particularly when their views fully coincided with his own.

Hon. Mr. CHANDLER said the bill that went home last year went to establish the sovereign at 24s 2d, and it was disallowed; he considered if they sent him another one this year, to establish the sovereign at 24s 4d, without giving every information and very good reason, it would most certainly be again disallowed. He did not apprehend much difficulty in fixing the sovereign at 24s. He thought the currency should be fixed in such a way as not to be subject to alteration every year, unless it was so it would be injurious to the commercial interests of the country. If Lord Stanley's despatch was not in the way he would not object to having the sovereign fixed at 24s. 4d.

Hon. Mr. CRANE—It appeared to him that the currency of the country should be regulated, and it was highly important that it should be done in such a way as to advance the true interests of the country: he thought they could make Lord Stanley believe he was in error, as to the importance of fixing a higher value on the sovereign and other money than that mentioned in the despatch. He thought the sovereign should be a legal tender at 24s. 4d. and that the amount of British silver as a legal tender should be limited.

Hon. Mr. Johnston said he was always willing to give every petition its due weight. Last year a petition came from St. John much more numerously signed to establish the soverein at 24s. 4d., this year at 24s. and that they did not wish it to be higher, he considered there ought to be an established value for gold and silver, and that the rate of gold should come as near as possible to what it would bring in the United States, for if it was any thing lower it would all go out of the country.

Mr. KINNEAR said the people of St. John wished to have an established currency. He would be willing to fix the value of sovereigns at 24s 4d, and the Spanish dollar at 5s 1d, and thought if something of the kind was not done, all such money would find its way into the United States. He (hon. Mr. K.) considered if they passed a Bill to establish the sovereign at 24s 4d, the Spanish dollar at 5s 1d, and laid proper information before the Home Government, Lord Stanley would be convinced that he had been in error, and no doubt would pass the Bill; and he hoped such a Bill would pass as would be for the true interests of the Country. He agreed with the hon. Attorney General that the subject had better be referred to a Select Committee.

Hon. Mr. OWEN said he wanted to get some money last year and had to pay five dollars each for sovereigns, and thought they always passed for that, he considered there would be no difficulty to establish them at 24s. 4d, every shilling of British silver that was taken to Eastport three pence was lost on them; and he frequently saw persons from that place who said, sir, will you not give me American paper for British silver? he certainly hoped some bill would pass to establish the currency up on a good basis.

The house went into a Committee of the whole on the consideration of a bill to facilitate the collection of small debts due the Crown, arising from the sale of timber and Crown lands.—Hon. Col. Shore in the chair.

Hon. Mr. CHANDLER said as the Bill had originated with the government, he as a member of the Government felt called upon to explain the object of it; he would inform the hon. members that it was to facilitate the collection of debt due for the sale of timber and Crown lands only: there was a vast amount due the crown from individuals through the Province and many of them did not exceed from five to ten pounds, and if they were put into the Attorney General's hands to collect, they had better be put into the fire at once as such a course would be ruinous. The Government had proposed to appoint a receiver in each County to collect the debts, and they would receive a certan per centage for all money collected. If something of the kind was not done the government would have to abolish them altogether, the receiver would be authorized to collect debts to any amount but would not be allowed to sue for a debt that exceeded £20, anything under that sum he would be authorized to sue before two magistrates; it is the object of the government to put the parties owing to as little expence as possible. He considered such a bill if it went into operation would be of great benefit to the Country.

Hon. ATTORNEY GENERAL said unless some remedy was provided the debts had better be abandoned altogether, there were thousands of pounds due the Crown which did not exceed in amount to each individual more than ten pounds.

Hon. Mr. HATCH—the object of the bill is to lessen the tax of the poor, there never was a bill brought before the House that gave him more satisfaction than the present one and if ever any measure originated with the government which called for the thanks of the Country at large this bill certainly did, and he hoped it would pass unanimous.

Hon. Mr. CUNARD—In addition to the advantages that would arise to the government he considered it would be a great bonus to the country at large as receivers would be on the spot to collect money due the Crown without putting them to expence.

Hon. Col. SHORE—the necessity of the bill arises out of the bad system that has been established, by selling lands to be paid for by instalments, he considered if a man was not able to pay for land as soon as it was purchased, so cheap as land was in this country, he had better remain a labourer; he was opposed to the bill in toto.

Hon. Mr. JOHNSTON said once he was opposed to paying for lands by instalments, but from the knowledge he had since he was convinced it was a good plan, as it prevented squatters in a great degree from settling down on lands, without any payments being made at all, he thought the present bill would work well.

Hon. Mr. SAUNDERS said there were thousands of pounds due the Crown which could never be collected, unless some simple mode was resorted to, as the present Bill went for; he thought with other hon. members, that it would be ruinous to put such small sums into the hands of the Attorney General for collection.

Hon. Mr. CRANE approved of the present bill, and if any hon. member knew of a better mode he would go for it, he considered that the price of land had been too high, he thought that unless some simple measure was resorted to to collect the debts due the Crown they would have to abandon them altogether, or drive the parties off the land.

Hon. Mr MINCHIN was in favour of the Bill, also for paying by instalments, he considered it would be better to give many able bodied men 50 acres of land, than not have the country settled.

On motion of the hon. Mr. Chandler the Chairman left the chair and reported the bill as agreed to without amendment.

The house went into a committee of the whole in consideration of a bill to authorise the Rev. Samuel D. Rice to solemnize marriages in this Province.

Hon. Mr. KINNEAR said since he had gone to Carleton to reside he had became well acquainted with Mr. Rice, and considered him a highly respectable young man, although he was not a British born subject, he has stated he was so in affection. he had come to this Province but four years of age: his father had been naturalized and thought he should be entitled to all the privileges that his brethren were. He had married into a highly respectable family in Nova Scotia, he (the hon. Mr. Kinnear) would, if it were possible, get over this in some other way, as he was opposed to legislate for any individual, but as this was an extreme case, he hoped it would pass without a dissenting voice.

Hon. Mr. STREET said he had great objections to the bill—he was directly opposed to legislate for private individuals and thought there was no necessity for the bill as there were others in the same place of the same denomination who could solemnize marriage; if the law wanted amending why not bring in a general Bill, and not single out certain foreigners and make exceptions of them; he thought it would be establishing a very bad precedence, particularly as the law said they must be British-born subjects; he considered there was no case made out and should vote against the bill, and considered it was a most absurd way of legislating; there might be next year 50 applications of the same nature, and he would ask if they should make a separate law for each of them.

Hon. Mr. CUNARD, thought there had been a most excellent case made out, he considered this an extreme case—he did not believe there was such another in the Province; if there were 50 others who could make out as clear a case next year, he would feel in duty bound to go for them; he was well acquainted with Mr. Rice and did not know a more upright and deserving young Minister.

Hon. Mr HATCH said he would go for the bill; from what he had heard of Mr. Rice he believed him to be truly British, he had stated in the petition that his feelings were British, and he believed him. As to Legislating for single individuals when they had made out a good case he considered it their duty to do so.

Hon. Mr. MINCHIN said he had some knowledge of Mr. Rice and he knew him to be a young man of most excellent character, and should go for the bill. He would rather let the law stand as it was and when any person makes out as good a case as the present he should feel bound to support it.

Hon. Mr. BLACK would not make any very strong objections to the Bill, but considered there was no necessity for its passing, as there were other persons of the same denomination authorized to solemnize marriage in St. John.

Hon. Mr. CHANDLER said this was an extreme case, probably there was not such another in the Province. He was well acquainted with Mr. Rice, and knew him to be all that had been stated by the hon. members who supported the Bill, and he hoped it would pass unanimous. When he (Mr. Rice) applies for his license he will be asked if he is a British subject.

Hon. Mr. KINNEAR said it was a part of the rules of the persuasion to which Mr. Rice belongs, that Preachers cannot remain on a station more than two or three years, and although Mr. Rice is at present where there are preachers of the same denomination to solemnize marriage, yet he might be removed next year far from any of his Brethren; even if that was not the case, he thought the bill should most certainly pass.

Hon. Col. WYER was in favour of the Bill, and would like to see it pass unanimously. He believed Mr. Rice to be a very excellent young man—although he was not born a British subject, he (Col. Wyer) believed he was one. (Hon. Mr. Johnston—Colonel, were you born a British subject?) Yes, I was born where the British Flag waved over the heads of twenty thousand British soldiers!

Hon. Mr. OWEN would support the Bill on general principles, and he thought a very good case had been made out.

On the motion of the hon. Mr. Kinnear the Chairman left the Chair and reported the Bill as agreed to, and the house adjourned.

Being a Synopsis of the Diseases of Horses and Cattle, with their cause, Symptoms, and cure.

BY PETER BUNTING,

Veterinary Practitioner, St. John, New-Brunswick

THE Subscriber in offering this work to the generous and discerning public, would respectfully intimate, that it combines the experience of the most eminent veterinary surgeons and practitioners in Europe, and that the whole have been carefully revised by the author; and such alterations made therein as the peculiarity of the climate of New Brunswick required; for, notwithstanding the perfection to which the art has arrived in Great Britain, there are diseases known there, which have never been known to exist here, and vice versa; consequently an English Veterinary Tablet, would be found to be very imperfect indeed in North America. He would also beg leave to assure Farmers, and others, that with his Tablet before them, very few cases of disease would ever occur, which they would not be enabled to treat with perfect safety, by following the instructions there laid down.
