Ontario Grand Division.

Thomas Webster, G W P, has recently appointed the following Deputies;

J J Smythe, Rideau Division, No 175; G E Evans, Bonnie Doon Division, No 22; Rev J A McCannus, Lakeside Division, No 285; Rev W Johnson, Forest P O, Prov D G W P.

Lakeside Division, No 285, was instituted at Gore's Landing, by J Arlington Cook, Prov D G W P; on 26th Sept. Henry Waldin, W P; Rev J A McCamus, R S.

Mount Zion Division, No 38, received an official visit from the Grand Scribe on the 1st inst.

Welland District Division meets at Port Robinson on the 17th inst and York District Division at Woodbridge on 9th inst.

Death has recently taken three well-known members of our Order. John McCaffrey, P W P; died at Box Grove on Aug 30th. He united with the Order about 35 years ago, and has been during that time devoted to its interests. He was many years the D G W P of his Division and became a member of the G D several years ago.

On the evening of Friday, Sept 27, L M Tye, D G W P of Brampton Division, No 148, and Co D G W P, of Peal County, attended his Division as usual, and took an active part in the proceedings, appearing to be in good health. On leaving the hall about 10 o'clock at the close of the Division, he called at a store, while there he was stricken down with paralysis, and never rallied. He died the following morning at 4.30. Bro Tye was a most active, enthusiastic and devoted member of the Order, a true friend and brother, always seeking the welfare of others. The Church, the Division and the community have lost a useful and honored member. He was a member of the G D for several years, and was G Con in 1887.

Mrs Andrew Hall, wife of the veteran and devoted D G W P of Oshawa Division, No 35, died suddenly on Oct 1st. The deceased lady was for many years an active member of the Order, and always expressed great pleasure that her family, most of whom are married, took deep interest in the Division. She will be greatly missed in Oshawa Division.

Thus noble, earnest workers are passing away, but the work being owned and blessed of God, must go on.

Deep sympathy is everywhere shown towards the families of the deceased members.

What We Are Doing.

Our efforts to make the world sober is attracting some attention, and in it we are winning the confidence of more than we at first hoped for at this early date; now in order to further increase this confidence we here add, that our policy in detail, turned to practical uses, we leave to these editoral utterances, and solicit your hearty co-operation, until we, in our united successes, reap a harvest in which editors and their constituency may rejoice together.

To hasten and solidify success, in addition to careful prepared matter, we propose to furnish original and selected poetry, recollecting what one has written, "let me make the ballads of a nation and I care not who makes its laws"; to illustrate—the weary home sick soldier can do his duty better, as he listens to the familiar strains of martial music—that tells him, that if he be faithful—not only will victory be doubly assured—but he will come in for a share of honor, given him by his grateful country in that he was true when the army was small—untrained and ill-equipped. THIS HONORED DAY WILL be at the overthrow of debauchery, and in its place—giving full praise to PRACTICAL TEMPERANCE.

Whether we labor or forbear, the work will go on steadily till our heart's desire is fulfilled, as the masses groan under the heavy burden of a national drink bill, and are fully determined if man or God can give them help, to accept it on reasonable terms whatever, and so with bold forethought, it is ours to sow broadcast our simple CURE-ALL, and behind our teaching shall be tens of thousands, who will leave want and misery behind; for the future (if they only follow) will be as far beyond the present as the electric motor is better than the sorriest plow-horse in any of our western counties. In fact man shall in part be Restored to his unsinning state,

To love's sweet paradise.

As our attention is more and more directed to this subject, we believe that as prosperity unexampled in its character and extent dawns upon us, the physical and moral world shall bud with beauty, as a wild waste-land under skilled labor were changed into a magnificent harvest-field, enriching the steady toiler, so the church, family and State, in new departures, in renewed strength shall go forth,

CONQUERING AND TO CONQUER.

Then life's uses, re-conveyed through legitimate channels only, will give patronage to trade which, no longer taxed by unfair pauperism and crime, will supply our needs better and cheaper, and more the book and newspaper, no longer the luxury of the few, will be the teacher and thought-leader of our age.

The greatest sufferers, more to be pitied because innocent, the hitherto drunkard's wife and child, appreciating the change will hasten to make our home gladsome, our social gatherings to be magnetic centers of interest, whilst they, our natural helpmeets help us we shall become men of renown, giants indeed, with life's cup of happiness, filled to overflowing.

Angel-land will then be separated from earth with a veil so thin that we can almost see through it, needing only the gentle hand of Christ to lift it; then our common enjoyments shall not only be akin to what is pure, but the kingdoms of earth and heaven shall forever be one in LOVE, PURITY AND FIDELITY.—Temperance Banner.

Talks by the Way.

THE SCOTT ACT AND SUCH LIKE.

Yes, Cornelius, I have a few minutes leisure today, and will be pleased to have a chat with you again. I am glad, my son, to know that you are feeling the better of the advice I have been giving you. It will be well to remember, my boy, that it is not always the advice you have to pay the most for that generally does you the most good, although Cornelius, people more readily follow the advice they have to put down the solid cash for, notwithstanding it is often a nauseous dose. As there is evidently a desire to let things simmer in politics just now, Cornelius, we will direct our attention this week to the Scott Act. This is a wery obnoxious law to some people, my boy, a wery obnoxious law, but it is a law my son, that if one has a pull on it affords considerable revenue. In this city, Cornelius, the VanWarts, spelt with a capital W. but not two words, my boy, and the P. M. (short for Police Magistrate) seem to have the biggest pull, though they do say the police do have a little pull my boy, but this is all hear say, of course, and would not be accepted as evidence before Coroner Berryman. I know it is wery inconsiderate of the people to talk so, my boy, but people will talk, and the more pretentions one makes, why of course, Cornelius, the more people feel inclined to talk. Now they do say, my boy, that it is wery convenient to be sick, sometimes, particularly a lawyer, when the court is in session, and when certain cases are up for argument, and when it is wery necessary, pending an election, that they should not be argued; of course, Cornelius, a lawyer that was a Sunday School superintendent, would not be likely to get sick on such slight provocation, but still my boy, —— people will talk, particularly as it would, not be convenient for the parties to go to jail just now. And just here Cornelius, we will work in a little advice again for to day. You will find, as you move through the world, my son, that money is a wery convenient commodity. It helps people out of all kinds of scrapes, and will buy them into some kinds of society. There are also many ways of getting money, my son, some of which are questionable, but when taken in connection with the individual, elicit no comment. But Cornelius, if it should ever be your prerogative to achieve any little success in this life, and your fellowmen begin to look upon you as possessing some common sense, and a degree of christianity, don't let the love of money run away with your sense, and kick over all your christianity, in twenty-four hours. Remember too that it is by slow, and toilsome paths that a character is built, and that one wrong-doing goes far to upsetting a life work, and that there are always plenty to stand around and criticise, find fault, and say I told you so. And lastly, Cornelius, don't you fool around with a rumseller, or have anything to do with him. There may be some little money in the operation at first, but there will sure to be friction and loss of self respect to end with.
