CANADIAN SOLDIERS HAVE CHANCE TO FIGHT TURKS

Greek Sure Greek! Now you have it! Oyers have been made in Vancouver for the best drilled soldiery physiques in the Duke of Connaughts Own Rifles. These offers have been of five hundred dollars and upwards and the chance of mingling good, red British blood with Greek on the ruddy sand of some inept Armageddon in Asia Minor.

Greek merchants with an aversion to abandoning their thriving business here and taking the glorious chance of dying for their flag in the grim trenches of some stricken battlefield have made advances to men wearing the king's uniform to take arms.

Two of those to whom advances were made were Color-Sergeants Fred Curtis and Bryan, of the Duke of Connaught's Rifles. Color-Sergeant Curtis with his South African experience, during which he made the acquaintance of many Greek traders on the coast is well known among the Vancouver Greeks as "a first-class fighting man."

He was spoken to very earnestly about the matter by Greeks whose names the Sergeant prefers to keep private, respecting their confidence with a soldier's honor.

The offer was that he should accept a commission and serve with the Greek forces at the front. His fare would be paid so the seat of war. He was to have privileges above those of the rank and file going out from Vancouver, and his position in the army of Greece would be one of honor and responsibility.

APPROACHED OTHERS

Color-Sergeant Bryan was approached in similar terms, with similar inducements. He also declined the offer. Money inducements were held out at first to the N.C.O.'s, starting with Greek caution at three figures, and raised rapidly until put aside as needless effort by the officers. To how many more such offers have been made has not been learned.

It is given out among the inducements offered the Duke of Connaught's Riflemen that already a number of Scotch, Irish and English ex-soldiers have joined in Vancouver and other parts of Canada, some of $200 and upwards having been paid, it is stated for their services. For a military man wearing his uniform to approach groups of Greeks now means almost certain advances of this kind.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 9.—Today was the fortieth anniversary of the great Boston fire, and to commemorate the event a tablet was unveiled this afternoon on the site where the great conflagration started, at Summer and Kingston Streets. The fire raged two days and wiped out almost the whole of the business section of the city. Eight hundred buildings were destroyed and a dozen lives lost in the catastrophe. LOST CHILD FOUND BY INTELLIGENT DOG

St. John, N.B., Nov. 8.—Campbellton sends word of the finding of a little girl, daughter of Ernest Burlabo, in the woods after three days exposure to the severe weather. Search parties had failed to find her until John Cyr was led to the spot by his dog. The animal aroused him from bed and by strange actions showed that something was wrong. He arose and followed the dog which led him to a spot where the girl was found kneeling by a tree. She will likely recover.

CANADA WILL BENEFIT FROM DEMOCRATIC VICTORY

(Toronto Globe)

The opponents in Canada of the "Larger Markets" policy are now trying to vindicate their position by declaring that the victory of the Democratic party in the United States will give Canada the exporting advantages of the reciprocity agreement without what they call its importing losses. The declaration is without warrant either in fact or in prospect. The American duty against imports from Canada of live stock, wheat, barley, oats, and other farm products still robs the Canadian farmer of the very large profits that would now be theirs had the trade agreement not been defeated. One Ontario cattle dealer recently paid on one shipment to New York $2,400 in duty. Had he sold in Toronto he would have received $3,000 less than the New York price. Tens of thousands of farmers and dealers all over Canada know to their loss that they are still paying and must go on paying for the selfishness and folly of the trade restrictions.

The triumph of Governor Woodrow Wilson and the Democrats will make for trade freedom in the United States, and, despite the Tory maxim "No trade or truck with the Yanks," will have a beneficial influence direct and indirect, in Canada. But it will not mean free markets for Canada's live stock, wheat, barley, oats, and other natural products. Neither will it secure to Canada a free monopoly of the American markets. The trade agreement, which is yet open for Canada's acceptance not only offers Canadians that great and growing and nearby market free and untaxed, by it offers it to Canadians alone. If the Canadian Government allows that offer to become a dead letter it may be withdrawn. And certain it is when the Democrats come to deal with their tariff situation Canada will not be offered something for nothing, as the Ottawa tariff-thinkers declare. Both those advantages, a free market in which there would have been no competition from the Argentine or other wheat-growing countries, the trade preferences of last year would have secured for Canada.

An as for the alleged disadvantages the people of Canada are in no wise afraid of damage from more competition. The lowering of tariff taxes on imported foodstuffs did alarm the allied Canadian meat interests—"trust" is the American word—but the consumers of the meat would rather rejoice were freer competition allowed to regulate the now protected markets.

The Ottawa political beneficiaries of the defeat of the "Larger Markets" policy pretend that more freedom "to buy as well as to sell secured not by treaty but by concurrent legislation, would have involved Canada in "entangling alliances with Washington," but that lesser and one-sided freedom would be safe for the innocent "Little Willies" of Canada. The farmers and the unprivileged can take care of themselves and of their loyalty if the Big Interests with their privileged wealth and the present Government elected by their power will withdraw the special privileges from the protected few and give to the many the equality of opportunity for which Woodrow Wilson fought in the United States. But that will not be done by the men who sit blindly in a Fool's Paradise.

TRIAL IN HEADLESS WOMAN MYSTERY

Providence, R. I., Nov. 9.—The case of Henry Deslovers, who is charged with the murder of the woman whose headless body was found in the Black stone river last June, will come up for trial in the superior court here Monday. The victim of the murder is supposed to have been Angèle Delmarle, but the failure to find the missing head, has prevented positive identification. The Delmarle woman disappeared shortly before the discovery of the body and witnesses testified that she had last been seen walking toward the river with Deslovers, with whom she lived. Both man and woman were Franco-Belgians and were employed in the mills at Woonsocket. A week or so ago Desire Capart, a friend of Deslovers, was arrested as an accomplice in the alleged murder. He was given a preliminary hearing in court today.

LO DON SEES LITD MAYOR'S SHOW

London, Nov. 9.—The streets between Guild Hall and the Law Courts were lined with enormous crowds since early this morning, attracted by their desire to see the Lord Mayor's Show, which promised some particularly interesting features this year. The buildings along the line of march were handsomely decorated with flags and bunting and presented a festive appearance. The procession was formed at Guild Hall and the neighboring streets and started on its march at half past ten in the forenoon.

The procession was headed by a detachment of city police and then came the band of the Royal Artillery mounted. In the military division of the procession were contingents of London Territorials, regular troops, the band and the boys of the Marine Society's training ship Warspite. Then came the city companies or guilds, with their banners and beards and historical emblems, large delegations of the various trades associations of the city, accompanied by their bands. A large body of Boy Scouts attracted considerable interest and enthusiasm along the line of march, more in fact than any other feature of the procession. The floats with representations of historical scenes, were also well received.

Upon reaching the Law Courts, the new Lord Mayor, Sir David Burnett, took the formal oath of office and was invested with the insignia of his position. The inauguration day closed with the customary big banquet at Guild Hall, which was preceded by the official inauguration reception by the new Lord Mayor and his former colleagues in the Common Council.

Had Pimples on Face

And Back Was Literally
Covered With Them.

Bad blood is the direct cause of pimples breaking out on the face and body, and it is impossible to get rid of them unless you cleanse the blood of all its impurities.

Burdock Blood Bitters is without a doubt, the very best medicine for this purpose.

This old and reliable remedy has been used for over thirty-five years, and has a reputation unequalled by any other for purifying the blood.

Mr. Peter La Pierre, Assistant Postmaster, Touchwood Hills, Sask., writes: "The fall before last, I was very much troubled with pimples on my face and back. My back was literally covered with them, and I could not lie on it at night, they were so painful. One day my sister advised me to use Burdock Blood Bitters, so I got two bottles, and before I had taken all the first one, the pimples had nearly disappeared, and now I am completely cured."

Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The new Lord Mayor was born at Dalston in 1851, was educated at the City of London College and is an auctioneer and surveyor. He was first elected to the Common Council in 1888, became Chief Commoner in 1897, was elected Alderman in 1902 and in 1907-8 served as Sheriff of the city. He is a prominent Freemason and in politics a Conservative.

COMMODORE COMMENTS

Commodore Stewart in the Chat-ham World comments as follows upon the recent Mavor-Steeves wedding at Marysville:

The Result of Brains, Fluck and Industry.—Mr. J. Stewart Mavor worked his way through college and into the legal profession, supporting himself by doing whatever came to hand, and then went West, putting up his shingle in Bassano, Alberta. After eleven months of practise he felt rich enough to return for the Marysville girl he loved, Miss Frances I. Steeves, and back he came. The marriage was celebrated this afternoon. Mr. Mavor is on the high-road to success in life.

Ada Rohan is back in this country after a stay of eighteen months in England.
