Moreover, Mildred Wayland was soon to arrive—the yacht was expected daily—and she would find him a failure. What was worse, she would find that Marsh had vanquished him. She would turn elsewhere—perhaps to the very man who had contrived his undoing. At thought of this a sort of desperation seemed to master him; he began to mutter aloud.

"What did you say?" queried Bolt.
"I said that you are right. The time is close at hand for some sort of a reckoning," answered Boyd in a harsh, strained voice.

"Good!"
Emerson was upon the point of turning when his eyes fell upon a picture that made him start, then gaze more intently. Out upon the placid waters, abreast of the plant, the launch in which Cherry had departed was approaching, and it was loaded down with men. Not only were they crowded upon the craft itself, but trailing behind it like the tail of a kite was a long line of canoes, and these also were peopled.

"Look yonder!" cried Boyd.

"What?"

"Cherry has got a crew!" His voice broke, and he bolted toward the door as Big George leaped to the window.

"Injuns!" wildly shouted the giant, and without stopping to stamp his feet into his boots he rushed out barefoot after Boyd and Fraser. Together the three men reached the dock in time to help Cherry up the ladder.

"What does this mean?" Boyd asked her breathlessly. "Will these fellows work?"

"That's what they're here for," said the girl. After her swarmed a crowd of slant eyed, copper hued Aleuts.
Those in the kayaks astern cast off and paddled toward the beach.

"I've got fifty men, the best on the river. I tried to get more, but—there aren't any more."

"Fingerless!" Fraser slapped himself resoundingly upon the thigh and exploded profanely. Boyd seized the girl's hands in his and wrung them.

"Cherry, you're a treasure!" The memory of his desperate resolution of a moment before swept over him suddenly and his voice trembled with a great thankfulness.

"Don't thank me!" Cherry exclaimed. "It was more Constantine's work than mine."

"But I don't understand. These are Marsh's men."

"To be sure, but I was good to them when they were hungry last winter, and I prevailed upon them to come.
They aren't very good fishermen.
They're awful lazy and they won't work half as hard as white men, but it's the best I could do." She laughed gladly, more than repaid by the look in her companion's face. "Now get me some lunch. I'm fairly starved."

Big George, when he had fully grasped the situation, became the boss fisherman on the instant. Before the others had reached the cookhouse he was busied in laying out his crews and distributing his gear. The impossible had happened: victory was in sight; the fish were running. He cared to know no more.

That night the floors of the fish dock groaned beneath a weight of silver sided salmon piled waist high to a tall man. All through the cool, dim lit hours the ranks of Chinese butchers hacked and slit and slashed with swift, sure, tireless strokes, while the great building echoed hollowly to the clank of machines and the hissing sighs of the soldering furnaces.

It seemed to Boyd that he had never felt such elation as during the days that followed. He trod upon air; his head was in the clouds. He joked with his men, inspiring them with his own good humor and untiring energy. He was never idle save during the odd hours that he snatched for sleep.

While the daily output was disappearing, Emerson drew consolation from the prospect that his pack would be large enough at least to avert utter ruin.

Up at the trust's headquarters Willis Marsh was in a fine fury. As far as possible his subordinates avoided him.

On the third day after Boyd's deliverance Constantine sought him out in company with several of the native fishermen, translating their demand to be paid for the fish they had caught.

"Can't they wait until the end of the week?" Emerson inquired.

"No! They got no money—they got no grub. They say little baby is hongry, and they like money now. So soon they buy grub, they work some more."

"Very well. Here's an order on the bookkeeper."

Boyd tore a leaf from his notebook and wrote a few words on it, telling the men to present it at the office. As Constantine was about to leave he called to him:

"Wait! I want to talk with you."

The breed halted.

"How long have you known Mr.
Marsh?"

"Me know him long time."

"Do you like him?"

A flicker ran over the fellow's covery face as he replied:

A MOTHER'S PRAISE OF BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Mrs. Wm. Sullivan, Main River, N.
B., says: "Up to the time my baby was three months old it cried almost continually day and night. I tried many things but got nothing to help it until a neighbor advised Baby's Own Tablets. I got a box of these and there was a change almost after the first dose and in a short time the child was in the best of health and is now a big, fat, goodnatured baby. I am never without the Tablets in the house and recommend them to other mothers." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr.
Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A PATHETIC MESSAGE FROM CAPTAIN'S WIDOW

London, April 18—The widow of Captain Smith the commander of the Titanic has written a pathetic message which was posted today outside the White Star offices. It reads as follows:

"My heart overflows with grief for you and is loaded with sorrow that you are weighed down with this terrible burden that has been brought upon you. May God be with us and comfort us all.

"Yours in deep sympathy, ELEANOR SMITH."

CARRIES DISTINGUISHED PASSENGERS

Paris, April 20—The steamship La France, recently completed at St.
Nazaire for the French Transatlantic line sailed from Havre today. She carries a large passenger list that includes many persons of distinction.
Among those on board are the members of the French mission headed by M. Honotaux, which is conveying to America the bronze bust of "La France" by Auguste Rodin, for presentation to the United States. The bust is to be placed at the base of the monument to be dedicated to Samuel de Champlain, the French navigator and explorer, on June next.

Robert Bacon the retiring United States ambassador to France and Mrs. Bacon are sailing on the new steamship also Arthur Bailly-Blanchard, hitherto first secretary at the United States embassy here, who has been transferred to Tokio. Other passengers on La France include an important French delegation to the Red Cross convention to be held at Washington next month.

Tory campaign liars told the farmers last fall that reciprocity would be of no benefit to the hay trade of New Brunswick as the hay grown here is of an inferior quality and therefore not suitable for the United States market. How silly such talk sounds today in the light of the fact that several thousands of tons of hay have been shipped from York County alone to the United States since the beginning of the present year.

WAS TROUBLED WITH Weakness
and Palpitation
OF THE HEART.

Through one cause or another a large majority of people are troubled, more or less, with some form of heart trouble.

Little attention is paid to the slight weakness of the heart, but when it starts to beat irregularly or intermittently, palpitate and throb, skip beats, beats fast for a time, then so slow as to seem almost to stop, then it causes great anxiety and alarm.

To all such sufferers Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills can and will give prompt and permanent relief.

They do this by their restorative influence on every organ and tissue of the body.

Mrs. John J. Downey, New Glasgow, N.S., writes:—"Just a few lines to let you know what your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me. I was troubled with weakness and palpitation of the heart, would have severe choking spells, and could scarcely lie down at all. I tried many remedies, but got none to answer my case like your Pills. I can recommend them highly to all having heart or nerve troubles."

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a girl I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair which was the envy of my friends and which attracted the attention and remarks of strangers, but as I grew older it commenced to come out. When my hair was quite thin and gray, I was induced by the many good reports I had heard of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur to try a bottle; and you can imagine my satisfaction when I found my hair was fast coming back to its natural condition. I continued to use Sage and Sulphur until my hair was as heavy, dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. It is now four years since I began using Sage and Sulphur and my hair is in splendid condition.

Sworn to before me this 18th day of July, 1902.
