NEW TROTTING RECORD

BY UHLAN AND FORREST

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 11.—Another world's record was broken at the trotting meet here tonight when Uhlán, 6.58, and Lewis Forrest, 2.064 owned by C.K.G. Billings, were sent out to lower the record of a pair of trotters to a pole. The original record stood at 2.074 until this pair of famous trotters made the mile in 2.034, thus clipping off four and one-half seconds. The horses were sent away on the second scoring and it was evident almost from the first quarter that the record would be shattered. Not a break was made during the trial, both horses working like machines.

FOOTBALL NOTES.

Holan, a former Dartmouth half-back, is at Lehigh and expects to make the varsity eleven.

The Directors of the Navy squad are trying to form a rush line that averages 190 pounds from end to end.

Pennsy thinks she has found another Stevenson in Craig, the quarterback on last year's freshman team.

With Vaughan, Bomisler and Shevlin doing the coaching the Yale ends ought to be well taken care of.

Some of the football critics declare that the Princeton Tigers' attack is built too much around Pendleton.

Poster Rockwell, the former Eli star, is expected at New Haven soon to help coach the Eli quarterbacks.

Captain Jim Thorpe of the Carlisle Indians, is doing the same clever work this season that made him a gridiron hero last year.

Glenn Warner, the Carlisle coach, has just published a new book on football, but he does not diagram the Indians' successful plays.

Bill Roper, who is practise law in Philadelphia, has begun work as an official for the Pennsylvania football games on Franklin Field.

The Vanderbilt eleven which played Harvard No. 9, evidently have a scoring machine. The team rolled up 105 points against its opponents the first week of the season.

DIAMOND DUST

The Red Sox won every series in the American League this year except one, and tied the Cleveland Indians that one.

In Hess, Tyler and McTigue the Boston Braves have three good left-handed pitchers to start with next season.

"Jake" Daubert is without a doubt the most popular ball player that Brooklyn has had in its line-up in many days.

Washington fans are well pleased with the work of the Nationals this season, and expect Griffith's boys to cop the buntline next year.

Many changes were made in the line-up of the Highlanders during the past season. The team closed the season with six new men holding down regular berths.

Each member of Joe Kelley's International League champions was presented with a gold medal and a purse of money, at the close of the season, by Toronto fans.

The Chicago White Sox have signed Roy C. Wolfe, star batter of the Illinois-Missouri League. He is the only player in class D circles drafted by a Manager High Jennings, of the Demar league club.

Trick Tigers, believes that Pitcher "Dut" Klawitter is now ripe for his show. Klawitter, who had a trial with the Giants in 1910, is the star pitcher of the Portland, Ore., team this season.

STRAY TOPICS FROM LITTLE OLD NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 12.—According to the tax lists for the next year, which have been opened for inspection, the assessed values of real estate in Greater New York have increased by nearly $200,000,000 since last year. The greatest increase, as was expected, was in Manhattan, reaching $117,761,109. The highest personal taxes, amounting to $10,000,000, have been assessed against Andrew Carnegie, while those of John D. Rockefeller are only $5,000,000 and those of J. P. Morgan only $550,000. Senator M. A. Clerk's house is assessed at $4,000,000, Andrew Carnegie's residence $2,300,000. The valuations placed upon the magnificent residences of other multi-millionaires range from $1,225,000 to $1,750,000.

Some of the large office buildings and business blocks represent enormous assessment values. Grand Central Station is valued at $15,000,000; the Metropolitan Life Building at more than $12,000,000; then comes the Equitable Life Building with $11,000,000, the Mutual Life Building with $10,000,000, the Singer Building with $7,000,000, the Trinity Building with $6,500,000 and scores of other buildings ranging in valuation from $6,000,000 to $2,000,000.

The managers of some of the large hotels in Manhattan, encouraged by the example of the coal dealers and meat packers, recently decided to give another twist to the thumbscrew by which they extort money from their patrons. Of course, the high cost of living was used as pretext. If the managers had simply raised the prices of the various food-stuffs on their menus, it would probably not have been particularly noticed. But their decision to extort an extra charge of ten cents a plate for bread and butter from every one of their patrons attracted universal attention and caused many indignant protests and resentment on the part of their patrons. It is a rather peculiar fact that even wealthy persons, who can well afford to spend from $2 to $5 or even more for a single meal and who willingly pay $1 tips to the waiters, rebel against petty extortion in the form of a 10-cent charge for bread and butter.

It would seem to take considerable courage for a man weighing 300 lbs. to entrust himself to so fragile and insecure a vehicle as an aeroplane, yet this feat was accomplished the other day. The heavyweight was not particularly anxious to take a trip through the air, but the chance of winning $100 on a bet proved an incentive strong enough to overcome his fear. As passenger in a daring aviator's biplane the 300-pounder made the trip from Mineola, L.I., to Rockville Centre in fourteen minutes. For the return trip, however, he preferred the railway.

Several months ago the son of a hotel proprietor in Japan came to the United States to study the ways and methods of American hotels. After his arrival in New York the young man tried to get employment in one of the big hotels, with a view of becoming thoroughly acquainted with the details of management. He went from hotel to hotel, but nowhere could he find an opening or even the slightest encouragement. He was willing to do any kind of work, even dish washing or carrying grips, but the New York hotelmen seemed determined not to employ a Japanese. The young man was compelled to find other employment and to make his studies of hotel methods in America from the outside instead of from the inside as he had expected.

A. M. Simpson, candidate for Assembly in the Second District of Queens on the Bull Moose ticket, had a rather amusing experience the other day. Accompanied by his wife

Mr. Simpson started from his home in Whitestone, to attend the reception which W. Bourke Cockran had tendered to Oscar Straus, the Progressive candidate for governor. After their arrival in Port Washington Mr. and Mrs. Simpson took a conveyance at the station to take them to Mr. Cockran's house. After a mile they were driven into the grounds of a fine mansion and greeted cordially when they entered the house. Not until they had nearly finished a sumptuous dinner did they learn that they were in the wrong house and that it was not the reception of Mr. Straus which they were gracing with their presence but a wedding celebration.

A team of burglars is making a specialty of the southeast corner of Madison avenue and 28th street and the tenants in that immediate vicinity have been robbed not less than four times within a single week. Property valued at many thousands of dollars has been stolen by the burglars, but the police authorities have not been able, so far, to find even the slightest clue to the perpetrators of these burglaries.

It may not be generally known that Fifth Avenue has its own special police force, but it is a fact nevertheless. The Fifth Avenue Association employs a large number of private policemen to protect that section of the city, regardless of the regular city police force. A short time ago there was a clash between the private police force and the city police and Commissioner Waldo issued an order prohibiting the private policemen from wearing uniforms similar to those of the regular force. It is reported that the Fifth Avenue Association intends to dress their policemen in a semi-military uniform, modeled after the dashing uniforms worn by the West Point Cadets. That will undoubtedly be quite picturesque, but will scarcely give great pleasure to the cadets of the military academy.

It does not require a great deal of imagination to understand and appreciate the indignation of a man who writes a tragedy, sells it to a theatrical manager and then learns that his tragedy is changed into a rather farcical musical comedy and thus presented to the public. This was the experience of Naham Rockow, a Yiddish dramatist of the lower east side. Some time ago he sold a tragedy which he had written to the managers of the Yiddish Theatre for $200. The managers changed the title of the play, changed it from a tragedy to a farce and had the piece set to music. Rockow was indignant when he learned of this. He considered himself insulted and seriously injured in his reputation as a writer of tragedies and serious plays in general and he applied to the Supreme Court for an injunction against the managers to prevent them from producing the piece in its new form. Strange to say the court did not agree with Rockow and refused to grant the injunction.
