FLORENCE FAIRBANKS ON FADS AND FASHIONS

New York, January 27.—Materials of rough or at least slightly rough texture are exceedingly popular at the present time. This preference is reflected in a large percentage of the new tailor suitings which the merchants are showing since the first of the year. There are charming stuffs of this kind in all the light, spring-like tones, brownish tones ranging from deep ecru through buff and sand and light khaki tones, a flecking of white usually giving softness and character to the coloring.

All of these light brown, yellowish and ecru shades are, so rumor has it, to be greatly worn, and certainly the manufacturers have proceeded upon that assumption, for throughout all the new fabrics one finds these colorings frequently repeated.

The rough, white woollens are made up into fetching long coats for Southern wear, coats on the order of the heavier models in molleton, ratine, etc., which have been epidemic this winter, but of medium weight, and even the smoother serges are smartly fashioned into such ample cover-all coats.

For the white serge frock all degrees of fineness and all kinds of twills seem permissible, and one finds good looking one-piece frocks in the rougher, more loosely woven white woollens, but a very heavy frock material is always rather a mistake for the woman who has to be economical and cannot afford frocks of different weaves.

The new one-piece trotting frocks differ but little in general character from those which were worn this winter before and the winter before. They are, generally speaking narrow and straight of line, though in order to be on the safe side the designers have introduced into the skirt of almost every model some form of unobtrusive and demure plaiting, so that the actual skirt width is increased though the effect is still narrow. One hears from Paris of skirts close fitting at top but with decided ripple toward the bottom, but among the models shown here this month one sees nothing of this movement.

There are rather more long waists long sleeves and lines just a little curved at the waist than there have been, and it may be that the instance of certain great Paris-makers will bear fruit more generally in the spring than it has this winter, but on the other hand, there are hosts of models high of waist, short of sleeve and showing one variation or another upon the kimono sleeve.

The cassock or curata type of one-piece trotting frock has not yet been laid aside and many of the prettiest new things button straight down the full length of the throat. Tunic lines are also popular for the one-piece frock, but they are straight and narrow, and it is only among the more formal frocks that one finds the tendency towards more draped lines.

The taffetas seem predestined to great popularity in the spring. Paris has done much with them this winter and they have had some attention here, but nothing assuming the proportions of a genuine vogue. The changeable or chameleon colorings have been most in evidence and are undeniably lovely, but the thing that has given woman pause in this matter is that the only way in which this silk is made to subscribe to the modes of the moment is a way which produces effects far from being generally becoming. The changeable taffeta models is invariably quaint, prone to bound scallops and puffs and ruchings and shirrings and high waists and fichus, and the average woman looks a freak when she aspires to be quaint. With the increasing popularity of taffeta, however, particularly with the enthusiastic Persian endorsement of this silk in black and white models more adaptable will probably be evolved, and already good results are being obtained by using taffeta lavishly in connection with wool, as satin has been used during recent seasons.

Indian silks and embroideries have become the vogue in Paris within a few weeks, owing to the grandly successful and magnificent Durbar. Extreme oriental styles are particularly appreciated in millinery at present, and the old fashioned Indian bandage, twisted and draped into quaint cone-shaped toques, edged with fur, are among the present-day novelties. It is quite certain that Indian embroideries will be 'most recherche' this spring, also the 'famous Indian muslins, either plain or embroidered, in rich glowing colors.

The fichu craze is still in its zenith many evening and day gowns being prettily ornamented with this up-to-date old-time conceit. Indeed, all ages the artistic all lace or lace-trimmed kerchief is becoming and a charming and convenient accessory for an evening gown.

There is a slight tendency toward greater fullness in the latest evening dresses seen, a succession of narrow and very fine plaits of guingams or namenting the tunics at the back beneath the waist line with pretty effect, but only when the material is of the filmy or ethereal category, such as nylon, mousseline de soie, or point d'esprit. On the other hand stamped embossed, or brocade materials are drawn across the figure as closely enveloping as possible, and ornamented round the hem with a band of some soft dark fur, the neck or décolletage and elbow sleeves similarly trimmed. There is a demand for ivory velvet or panne, either plain or brocade, for evening wear, trimmed with skunk, the underskirt of filmy chiffon, finely plaited and generally lightly veiling the silken-clad left foot, with its new-fashioned sandaled chausseure which is quaint and picturesque for evening wear, but absolutely unsuitable for outdoor exercise.

A positive furore is noticeable now for flame color. The glowing red tones that are seen in the feathered decked hats of the winter season are repeated in the ballroom, where flame, carnation, rhododendron, rose cerise, and current shades make vivid splashes of color. In simple lustrous velvet softened about the bodice by silver lace or cream net those red frocks are especially effective for midwinter entertainments, and while the dowagers and young married women choose this fabric and satin the debutantes appear in chiffon and mousseline de soie that are equally bright, in some cases made up over white and usually touched with silver crystal or cut steel embellishments.

Fashionable footwear of the present is as delicate, dainty and individual as millinery. Button gaiter boots are having a great vogue and are seen in one and two-color combinations. The leading effects is mastic or ecru gaiter tops, with black leather, usually patent leather forepart. Any number of new forms in gaiter styles are being shown, but there is a great preference for the gaiter shoe which buttons in a straight line on the outside, 'with top and quarter of cloth, the forepart alone being in leather.' Buttons on these boots are large and flat. The same gaiter forms are noted in low shoes, which also button on the outside, fastening with only three buttons.

The old-fashioned light-colored satin and kid slippers are no longer in use. Evening footwear is 'wholly in metal effects.

An English Chemist Has Discovered How to Grow Hair

In England the ladies have entirely abandoned wearing rats, which is due entirely to this new discovery.

It has been proven that Henna leaves contain the ingredients that will positively grow hair. That they contain this long-looked-for article is proven every day.

The Americans are now placing on the market a preparation containing the extract from Henna leaves, which is having a phenomenal sale.

This preparation is called SALVIA and is being sold with a guarantee to cure Dandruff and to grow hair in abundance. Being daintily perfumed, SALVIA makes a most pleasant hair dressing. Ryan, your druggist is the first to import this preparation into Fredericton and a large, generous bottle can be purchased for 50c.

U. S. TO CURTAIL NAVAL EXPENDITURES

London, Jan. 31.—The Daily Telegraph says today:

"There is every reason to anticipate that of all the great powers in the world, the United States will be the only one which will not begin the construction of an armored ship this year.

The decision not begin the building of any vessels will probably solve the existing difficulties as to crews. In this event the year's expenditure on the American fleet which for two years past has been reduced will show a further decline during the next twelve months, and a still greater fall in the following year. The result will be that the American fleet which now occupies the second place in gross effective tonnage, will sink in a few years if the policy of economy is pursued below the total displacement of the French Navy, now ranking fourth among the world's fleets."

If Manager Clarke, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, doesn't land a promising first baseman before the season opens he will be forced to place Wagner, Miller or one of the other regulars on the bag.

15 YEARS A DYSPEPTIC

Forced to Live on Stale Bread and Porridge.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" CURED HIM

AVONDALE, N. B., October, 15th. "I have been a great sufferer from Indigestion for fifteen years. I was forced to deny myself all such hearty foods as beans, meats, potatoes and could not drink tea or coffee. For the past two years, I lived on porridge, stale bread, etc. I had treatment from two doctors, and tried nearly every kind of medicine, but got worse. "Finally I saw a testimonial of "Fruit-a-tives" and concluded to give them a trial. I took nearly four boxes of "Fruit-a-tives" and they have made me feel like a new man. I can eat all kinds of hearty foods without suffering, and am no longer constipated."

LEMMUEL A. W. BROWN. Many people look on "Fruit-a-tives" as a miraculous medicine. It has indeed performed what have seemed like miraculous cures in hundreds of cases of chronic Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Constipation and Biliousness. "Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine in the world made of fresh fruit juices and valuable tonics. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c. At all dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

NEW YORK WOMAN CONFESSED CRIME

New York, Jan. 30.—With an eleven-hour confession that it was she who stabbed Charlie Muldoon, Mrs. Theresa Martin, aged 22 years, brought to a dramatic climax today the trial of her brother, James P. McDermott, who was accused of Muldoon's murder.

The woman spent a hysterical hour on the stand this afternoon, hesitating to tell more than that on the night of the murder, she had a quarrel with Muldoon and that during it she went to her home for a bread knife. Finally she was asked point blank:

"Who drove the knife through Muldoon's heart?"

"I did," she replied. "I did it." The woman collapsed as she left the stand and her brother wept but said nothing. The lawyers in the case went ahead with perfunctory summing up arguments and the case will go to the jury tomorrow.

UNIQUE YUKON GIFTS FOR SIR WILFRID

Ottawa, Jan. 30.—There are some Liberals in the Yukon still and they think a good deal of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Today they gave a most agreeable exhibition of their sentiments.

Just before the house met Mr. Congdon, who represented the Yukon in the last parliament with western Liberals waited on Sir Wilfrid and presented him with an address from Yukon Liberals, which was contained in a moose skin case with a miner's pick, shovel and gold pan spread up on the outside. Nuggets are being spilled from the pan and they are real nuggets of real gold. As a little birthday present there was a golden ink well with a fringe of nuggets about the top. There is also a paper cutter which has some class. It is a big one of solid gold from end to end and weighs about a pound. On the handle an artist has worked out a northern scene in solid gold. A platinum river winds down between hills of solid gold of varied shades with clumps of spruce growing while the midnight sun is rising above them. There are miners' cabins along the river and a big moose is moving down to investigate. The picture is framed in nuggets of generous dimensions.
