INTERNATIONAL
PEACE ADVOCATED
BY DR. VAN ALLEN

Emminent Boston Divine, Member of American Peace Society, Preached at Christchurch Cathedral Sunday Morning on Universal Peace

At Christchurch Cathedral yesterday morning the Rev. Dr. William Harmon Van Allen, rector of the Church of the Advent Boston, and an active member of the American Peace Society preached a sermon on the Movement for International Peace from our Lord's command in the Sermon on the Mount, "Ye have heard that it hath been said, 'Thou shalt love thine neighbor and hate thine enemy; but I say unto you 'Love your enemies.'"

Dr. Van Allen emphasized the absolutely authoritative nature of Christ's commands which allows of no exceptions or modifications. Universal benevolence according to the measure of one's opportunity is the Christian law; and although we are far from perfect obedience to it, the history of civilization from its dawn to the rise of Christendom is one of steady advance in that direction. The law of the jungle for the beasts was extermination of hostile species. The cave man of the stone age fought for his own cave against others with a club for argument. But he soon learned the value of larger co-operation; so the clan, the tribe, the nation each arose with interior peace preserved by legal institutions, the council of Elders and tradition embodied in law. The duel was the last survival of the older method and that is ridiculous today everywhere in civilization. The man in a civilized state who takes the law into his own hands is a criminal, an outlaw. Peace is presupposed the normal condition as affording at least the opportunity for living to all men. If I were to arm myself cap-a-pie to defend myself in a quarrel with my next door neighbor, I would be called a madman and justly.

APPLIES TO LARGER UNITS

But a universal precept applies to larger units as well as to smaller, to nations as to individuals. Nations if they have enemies must love them, so that the enemies may be turned into friends. That Christian nations glare at one another with the horrid paraphernalia of Rhodanese murder all around them is the greatest blot on Christendom and it is as useless a survival of savagery as it is wicked. Wars never settle any question of right or wrong nay, they never advantage even the victor. And the enormous waste of military

LATE COUN. COLTER'S
FUNERAL LARGEST
SEEN IN COUNTY

Interment Made at Mouth of Keswick Sunday Afternoon—Coroner's Jury Brought in Verdict of Accidental Death—Later Details

The funeral of the late Coun. George L. Colter which took place Sunday afternoon from the home of Hon. George J. Colter, Mouth of Keswick, father of the deceased, was one of the largest which ever was held in this county friends coming from far and near to pay a last tribute of respect to the memory of the deceased. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Ramsay and interment was made at the private family burying ground at Mouth of Keswick. The pall-bearers were, Coun. Harry Smith, W. B. Hagerman, Lloyd Stephenson, Charles Jewett, Roy Burr, Woodford Merrichew.

LATER DETAILS

Accounts of the unfortunate accident which caused the death of Coun. Colter received later than that published Saturday differ slightly in details. The body of the deceased was found between two large granite boulders. One soft-nosed bullet from the Savage rifle, .303 calibre, which Coun. Colter had taken with him on leaving home Thursday morning on a hunting trip had struck him just above the ear passing out the top of his head. Four undischarged cartridges were in the magazine and the safety-catch of the rifle was raised. The butt of the rifle bore marks of having come in contact with one of the boulders. Those who saw the body came to the conclusion that Coun. Colter had become aware of the presence of game and had thrown a cartridge in to the barrel of the rifle and lowered the safety catch preparatory to firing over one of the boulders. He evidently slipped from off the boulder and his rifle striking against the other had been discharged. There were also evidences that his death had taken place Thursday morning soon after he left home.
