DEMOCRATIC VICTORY

On the basis of the latest returns early in the evening, with the votes of Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, South Dakota and Wyoming in the "doubtful" columns, President-elect Wilson had 387 certain in the electoral college; Colonel Roosevelt 89, and President Taft 12.

All of the doubtful states, except South Dakota, gave more or less certain indications during the night of landing in the list of Wilson electoral votes, while South Dakota's returns showed a general trend towards a Roosevelt plurality.

SUFFRAGETTES WIN FOUR STATES

A by-phase of the general election that became known today was the success of woman's suffrage in four of the five states where constitutional amendments were submitted to the people. The victory of the women was complete in Kansas, Arizona and Michigan; late returns from Oregon indicate they had succeeded there also; while from Wisconsin all returns showed the decisive defeat of the equal suffrage proposal.

Estimates of the popular vote polled by Governor Wilson ranged through many millions during the day. It was found impossible to compute with any accuracy the popular vote of any of the presidential candidates, and it will be a number of days until the counting of the three-cornered contest in the different states is concluded and an accurate tabulation of the popular vote made possible.

Assertions were made today from several quarters, where an effort had been made to gather preliminary popular vote figures, that Governor Wilson had not secured a majority of the votes cast throughout the country. Estimates ranged from a small majority of all votes, to figures nearly a million below a majority. The popular vote, however, will in no way affect his election, or his complete control of the electoral college, should it show his total to be less than that of the combined vote for Roosevelt and Taft.

MANY SURPRISES.

There were many surprises throughout the day and night. Early in the day New Hampshire, first credited to Taft, went definitely into the Wilson column, with a majority of about 1,500 for the Democratic candidate. Returns from Idaho, which came in scattering from early in the day, favored Wilson so strongly as to create the belief that it would give him its electoral vote, but late returns made it the third state to go certainly for President Taft.

The Roosevelt forces watch the returns hourly as they came from Illinois and suffered a scare as the down-state Democratic district reduced Colonel Roosevelt's plurality from Cook county until it promised to disappear. Late in the day a complete report from Cook county again swelled the Roosevelt majority in the state and seemingly made certain the control of the Illinois twenty-nine votes by the Progressive candidate.

Kansas, which had been conceded to Roosevelt by all interests on the preliminary returns last night, gradually slipped back during the day until it had become a question to-night whether Wilson or Roosevelt would control its ten votes.

Governor Wilson had the better of the situation in Iowa and Minnesota, where the counting still was in progress tonight with but a narrow margin between the candidates, while South Dakota, still a doubtful state, apparently had turned towards Roosevelt on the later returns.

Whether the Democrats, in the widespread victories of Tuesday, have secured control of the United States senate is a question that will not be settled for a day or two. In many states where counting still was going on tonight, the control of the legislature is in doubt.

NEW HAMPSHIRE LEGISLATURE IN DOUBT.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 6.—The question of the control of the state legislature, which next year will be called upon to elect a governor, United States senator and four state senators, was still undecided tonight. Returns for president and governor had been received from all but the town of Claremont. These returns show Governor Wilson's plurality in the state to be 1,828 and gave Falkner, the Democratic nominee for governor, a lead of 864 votes over Worcester, Republican.

There was no choice for governor, however, as the law requires a majority vote. The same conditions prevail in four states, senatorial districts. These elections will go to the legislature. Both Republicans and Democrats were claiming control of the legislature tonight, but unofficial returns and comparisons indicated a slight Republican lead.

SPIRITED DISCUSSION

Barclay Robinson contributed to the discussion.

Archdeacon Raymond said that while the members of the Cathedral congregation were under very heavy expense the members of the parish church were almost relieved of expense by heavy endowments. The natural result was that the former congregation had shrunk and the latter had grown until they were now seriously considering enlarging the parish church while the Cathedral had accommodation for all the people of Fredericton. He suggested that if a readjustment of the endowments were possible it might help to solve the problem.

Rev. G. F. Scovil drew attention to criticisms which he, a member of the committee, had heard. They were to the effect that the cost of upkeep was extravagant. While two clergymen were engaged in the Cathedral congregation of 110, a church in St. John with 500 families had only one clergyman.

His Lordship said that criticisms of extravagance would be dissipated by a comparison with the cost of upkeep of similar church buildings and that they could get along with one clergyman if he did as Bishop Medley had done, by spending most of his time in Fredericton instead of in the parishes where he felt that he was needed.

Rev. Mr. Smith of Gagetown said that he was moved to speak by the indignation which he felt owing to the unwillingness of the older clergymen give to the synod the criticisms which they voiced outside. He found that the laymen objected to contributing to a cathedral in which they were not made to feel at home when they worshipped there and that the clergymen would take more interest in the cathedral if they were asked to assist with the cathedral service once in a while. (Hear, hear.)

Rev. R. A. Armstrong said that it was hard to make people feel at home in a church on their first visit to it. In defence of the dean he said that he knew of the dean's unsuccessful efforts to enlist the services of other clergymen.

Mr. Cody said that in this material age the people were not interested in the cathedral because they felt that it was of no use or value to them. Regarding the lack of interest on the part of the clergy he said that a clergyman might grow gray in the diocese without being asked to take a service in the cathedral. For years he did not want it.

Dean Schofield said: "I say that Mr. Cody was asked to the cathedral

ROYAL GEORGE

It was not until daylight this morning that the Hackett company's tug together with the Old "South" and Lord Strathcona were able to go alongside on account of the shallow water surrounding the ship, which stood in some six feet of water and loomed up high in the air.

The Royal George reached a height of not less than sixty feet from keel up to her boat deck and unless her bottom is crushed, mariners can believe she is likely to topple over.

It is the general opinion of mariners, taking into consideration that the steamer was running over her course at the rate of 15 miles an hour, that she must have ploughed her way over the rocky bottom from stern to stern, and consequently allowed the water to rush into all her holds. There is another cause for alarm as far as saving the steamer is concerned, that is that the fall of the tides, the great tilt of the ship and the cargo on deck works etc., is likely to have a break in the basket of the vessel the same as happened the Allen passenger steamer Bavarian when she ran on the Wye rocks some years such circumstances. However the matter the result the occurrence is to be greatly regretted on account of age and broke her back under just the great injury the accident will cause the shipping interests of the St. Lawrence and cannot be attributed to anything less than careless navigation, not on the part of those in charge of the wrecked steamer but the company which tolerates the running of their valuable ships at such a high rate of speed in thick weather.

dral within the last year."

Mr. Cody "Yes, when the dean wanted to take a vacation." (Laughter.)

Mr. Kuhring said that it was hard to raise money for an $8,000 organ for the cathedral when the parish churches could not secure a much less expensive organ for themselves and when the $5,000 deficit was regarded by some as due to mere extravagance in construction and while the diocese had no control of the expenditures. He regretted that the whole problem has not been solved by the transfer of the Bishop to St. John.

Rev. Craig Nichols said that the parish church of Fredericton had not contributed to the cathedral fund.
