

SHE FAINTED WITH THE AGONY

"Fruit-a-lives" Cured Her Kidneys

Miss MAGGIE JANNACK

MOUNTAIN, ONT., Dec. 14th, 1910
"I desire to let the world know the great debt I owe 'Fruit-a-lives' which saved my life when I had given up hope of ever being well again."

For six years, I suffered from dreadful Kidney Disease. My legs and lower part of my body were fearfully swollen. The pain in my side and legs would be so bad that I would faint with the agony.

Five different doctors attended me and all said it was Kidney Disease and gave me no hope of getting well.

A kind neighbor visited me and mentioned the case of Mrs. Fenwick who had been cured of a sickness like mine. I took 'Fruit-a-lives' and in a short time, I began to feel better—the swelling went down—the pains were easier—and soon I was well.

I have gained over 30 pounds since taking 'Fruit-a-lives'—and my friends look upon my recovery as a miracle."

(Miss) MAGGIE JANNACK.
"Fruit-a-lives" are sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c.—or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa.

ALABAMA STATE FAIR OPENS

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 3.—The Alabama State Fair opened today under conditions of motorcycle racing, a festival of music and a variety of other free attractions insure ample entertainment for the visitors. The exhibits in the agricultural hall are of the finest, and in the stock department the pens are crowded with blue-ribbon animals. The display of swine, sheep and poultry are above the average and the woman's department embraces articles from all over Alabama and some of the neighboring States. The fair will continue for ten days.

NERVY PROPOSAL MADE BY CANNERS

October, Oct. 3.—Reciprocity for the benefit of the manufacturers, but not for the benefit of the consumers, is the policy now being urged upon the government.

The canning interests are applying for a temporary removal of the duty on canned tomatoes and other vegetables imported from the United States, on the ground of shortage of supply this season in Canada.

But this suspension of the duty is to be for the manufacturers alone and not for the consumers. It is learned that representatives of the canning interests have been in Ottawa petitioning the government to allow the canners to buy their supplies in the States, bring them free of duty into Canada, already canned, and then place the labels of the Canadian companies on the cans for disposal to consumers.

The petitioners declare that owing to adverse weather conditions this year they will not be able to get tomatoes and possibly some other vegetables in Canada to fill their contracts. Consequently they would like a temporary enactment by order-in-council of a jug-handled part of the reciprocity proposals, but so guarded that the consumer will not get any reduction in the cost of living.

Comment on this request, in view of the anti-reciprocity arguments used by the canners and others a year ago, is hardly necessary. The representatives of the canning interests who have been here seem to think they have a good chance of obtaining their request from the government.

A MYSTERY WHICH IS NO MYSTERY

Belleville has a mystery. The Intelligence—over the destinies of which that consistent protectionist, Sir MacKenzie Bowell, presides—is deeply concerned over it, but sees no light. The Intelligence states the mystery in these terms:—"On Friday August 24 prime sirloin of beef sold in London for 19½ cents a pound and in New York for 28 cents per pound. Just at present meat prices are higher in the United States and also in Canada than ever before while the identical cuts that bring such high prices on this continent are sold in London for less. This despite the water haul of 3,000 miles and two rail hauls, first from Chicago to the Atlantic seaboard, and from Liverpool to London. The United States beef trust, of course denies having anything to do with boosting prices but these facts remain: A certain proportion of the beef sold in London is American cut beef. The beef sold there at prices so much lower than the New York prices is some of it American beef. There is the mystery. How does it happen that beef is carried across the ocean from the United States to England and sold in London at much lower prices than those charged in New York if prices are not extortionate?"

The Intelligence admits that the mystery is just as mysterious in Canada, where prime sirloin costs 22 cents although we too sell the animals from which similar meat is raised in Britain at 19½ cents.

The beef trust in the United States and the bigger market in Britain for cheap cuts are given as partial explanations of the mystery but the Intelligence is not quite satisfied with these explanations, for it says: "It is to be hoped that the Government will respond favorably to the Toronto petition—a petition which in every municipality in Ontario would do well to join—and appoint a Royal Commission to examine into a state of affairs as to which there is a universal protest in the country."

While Sir MacKenzie is groping about in the dark trying to catch the cause of high price how would it do for the rest of us to demand the repeal of all duties on meat? It is Britain's policy of free imports that gives her cheap food. Every producer of food animals in the world know that the British market is open duty free night and day for all food stuffs that all the world cares to send. The Belleville mystery is no mystery at all. Taxed food is bound to be dearer than tax free food. And as Sir MacKenzie is for taxed food every time, he ought to have grace enough to pay for his beefsteak without making such a row about it.

FAMOUS NOVELIST 75 YEARS OLD

London, Oct. 4.—Mrs. John Maxwell so much better known to readers of fiction as Miss Braddon, quietly celebrated her seventy-fifth birthday anniversary today at her home in Richmond, one of the loveliest spots on the River Thames. The author of "Lady Audley's Secret" and more than half a hundred other popular novels was born in Lonsom, Oct. 4, 1837. In early life she embarked upon a stage career. It was while performing in a theatre at Hull that she discovered that acting was not her forte, and wrote her first novel, "Three Times Dead." Before it was published the publisher, involved in difficulty, passed on the sheets to another man. This man considered the story "ribblish" and destroyed it but lived long enough to regret his action, when Miss Braddon sprang into popularity and he found that he had foolishly destroyed her first effort that might have been a gold mine to him.
