SLAYER OF HUSBAND CLAIMS SELF-DEFENCE

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 18—For the seventh time within twelve months a woman is to be arraigned in the Chicago courts tomorrow to stand trial on a charge of first degree murder. The woman is Mrs. Lena Musso and the indictment charges her with the murder of her husband.
She has been in jail the past six months and at no time has she appeared in the least apprehensive concerning her possible fate. Not unlikely her confidence in the future is based on the fact that of the six women tried on murder charges in Chicago recently four were given their freedom and the other two sentenced to prison terms.Peter Musso was shot and killed in his home on the second floor of a Larrabee street tenement house on the night of April 28th last. A fire followed the shooting and the body was burned. The police investigation led to the arrest of the slain man's wife, a blue-eyed, fair-skinned little woman of twenty-four, who was known in the neighborhood as the "Blonde Queen of Little Italy."Mrs. Musso admitted having fired the shot that ended her husband's life. Fear of her own life, she said, impelled her act. She insisted she loved the man whose life she took, and she blamed his frenzied jealousy for her own unhappiness and the final tragedy.The woman's story, as given out by the police, was as follows:"When my husband came home on the night of the tragedy he at once began to quarrel with me. He said I did not love him and he was very angry with me. We quarreled until about nine o'clock. He said he was going to kill me. But at nine o'clock he became quieter and I thought the trouble was over. My little girl went to bed in the room next to that in which I was with my husband. At two o'clock in the morning my husband awakened me by getting out of bed. He took a razor out of a drawer and took it to bed with him, holding it in his hand."He told me to get out of bed, as he was going to cut my throat. Then he opened the razor and started to get out of bed. I saw the revolver lying on a dresser in the room and I ran and picked it up. I held it close to my husband and fired three shots at him. Then I ran outside but returned to get my little girl. I did not set fire to the bed. The pistol must have done that."The accused woman declares that her husband was unreasonably jealous and that he would not even let her sit on the porch alone. On the other hand, the police elicited information from some of the neighbors tending to show that Musso may have had some ground for being jealous of his pretty wife. According to tenants in the same house, Musso was particularly incensed by the attentions paid Mrs. Musso by his cousin, Peter Noto. It was even gossiped about that the husband had surprised his cousin in the Musso home and that the revolver which caused his own death had been purchased by him with the declared intention of killing Noto.

NOTED MEN FACE FRAUD CHARGE

New York, Nov. 18—Julian Hawthorne, the well known author and journalist Josiah Quincy, former mayor of Boston, and several associated with them in the so-called Hawthorne mining interests in Canada, were brought into the United States District Court today for trial.
The indictment on which they are to be tried charges them with making fraudulent use of the mails in disposing of mining stock. Investors from many parts of the country have been summoned to testify at the trial.The New York State Federation of Labor is requesting all legislative candidates to pledge themselves to vote for a workmen's compensation measure in the next legislature.

CHIEF RIDEOUT

AN EASY WINNER

Moncton, N. B., Nov. 18—The police commission this afternoon dismissed the complaint of the provincial and other constables against Chief of Police Rideout. The complaint of the constables was that Chief Rideout was going outside the city to do work which should be done by constables.When the matter came before the commission this afternoon, J. C. Sher-ren appeared for the petitioners and alleged Chief Rideout had gone to Kent County and other points to do police work. Chief Rideout, in reply, stated he had been instructed by the attorney general to do the work complained of.Mr. Sherren didn't offer any evidence and the commissioners passed a motion to the effect that having heard the statements of a representative of the petitioners and the chief of police, they found no ground for the complaint and believed the work done by him outside of the city was no more than a police of Moncton should do.

BALL GOWNS AND DANCES

Boston, Nov. 18—Cardinal Farley, Archbishop of New York, denounces strongly low-necked gowns and certain dances of the day, which he described as indecent. His Eminence said:"I have more respect for the Indian squaw, with her blanket tucked round her neck and her bare feet, if she has no shoes, than the decolette woman of the ballroom. It is a horrible sight to see so-called Christian women in half nude attire clinging to men in the mad swirl of those indescribable dances which inflame the passions and are conducive to horrible laxity between the sexes, for men are but men and women but women."The Cardinal was much moved. His face was stern and his usual serenity of expression had disappeared.

ABHORS EVENING STYLES

"Tell the fine ladies how much I abhor their indecent dressing," continued the Cardinal. "Tell the working girls who imitate them the same thing. You cannot make my message too strong. No matter how strong you make it, it will fall short of my sentiments.""All American women are not like that," suggested the reporter."No," said His Eminence, slowly, "but too many of them are. It is time that this indecent dancing were put down. Painted women in indecent costumes—what could be worse?""Give our message and let our Catholic women take heed of the deadly pitfalls into which immorality in dress and dances are leading them—our Catholic women, who should be examples to the world; women of the faith, whose training should teach them differently. I feel ashamed to have to speak on such subjects."
