He is spending $2,000,000

E. N. HINES is one of the road commissioners of Wayne County, Michigan, in charge of the highways leading from a prosperous farming district to the market in Detroit.

He has probably had more experience with concrete roads than any other road commissioner.

He told some of his experiences in an address in Chicago last May. He was road commissioner before he used concrete. He was not satisfied with macadam roads. In his own words:

"We decided that a change was not only desirable, but necessary; and we set out to find a more permanent and durable material which would approximate in initial cost that of a first class macadam.

"After thorough investigation, we decided that a concrete road would more nearly realize this ideal than other forms. The points considered as being in its favor were:

"Comparatively low first cost; low maintenance cost; freedom from dirt; comparative noiselessness; ease of traction for vehicles of all descriptions; and the small crown necessary to get rid of surface water."

THAT was several years ago. Wayne County farmers were so pleased with those first concrete roads, that they later voted bonds and gave Mr. Hines and his fellow commissioners $2,000,000.00

for more Concrete Roads

Their reasons are not hard to find. In the same address Mr. Hines expressed them as follows:

"I stand committed to the use of Concrete for country roads. I also believe concrete to be an ideal form of paving for village and city streets and alleys.

"This is not a statement born of enthusiasm on the spur of the moment, but a cold-blooded dollar-and-cents view, based on results attained and arrived at after careful consideration of all the facts available and experiences undergone."

THIS is only one county's experience with concrete roads. But it is representative of the experiences of many others.

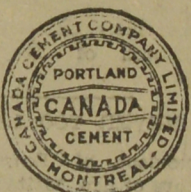

The sooner every town and county makes use of the information which these other communities have supplied, the sooner will its road fund be invested for permanent, satisfactory roads instead of being spent for roads that must soon be paid for, all over again, in the shape of annual repairs.

Will you use your influence for the purpose of hastening the adoption of this policy in your community? You know what good roads mean—to you and to your neighbors. If you have doubt of these claims, or if you desire more complete proof, let us send you the facts which we have gathered especially for that purpose. Just ask for "Good Roads Literature," and complete information will be sent free.

HOW MISS. BOOTH WILL CELEBRATE CHRISTMAS

New York, Dec. 23—Commander Eva Booth of the Salvation Army will be forty years old tomorrow, having been born on Christmas Day in 1872. She intends to "celebrate" the day by giving a Christmas dinner with 25,000 of the poor of New York as her guests. It is hardly necessary to state, however, that the dinner is an annual fixture of the Salvation Army and that it is given on Miss Booth's birthday is only a coincidence.

Tomorrow's dinner is expected to establish a record for the number of persons fed and the extent and variety of the menu. Tables will be spread in several of the largest halls and armories obtainable. In addition to this, thousands of well filled baskets will be distributed among the sick and others who are unable or disinclined to attend public dinners. Each basket will contain turkey, with bread, potatoes, cranberry sauce and plum pudding, sufficient to feed a family of four persons. Already hundreds of applications for the Christmas baskets have been received. Among the applicants have been cripples, blind men and women led by children, the aged and feeble, and children shivering in ragged clothes.

SANTA CLAUS AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24—Before their departure for Panama the President and Mrs. Taft made all necessary arrangements for the distribution of Christmas presents to the White House employees tomorrow. So the day will probably be a merry one below stairs in the old executive mansion, despite the fact that the apartments of the President's family will be dark and deserted at Yuletide for the first time in many years.

Upon returning from the Isthmus President's family will be able to enjoy a belated Christmas celebration all their own. For several days the mail carriers and express messengers have been delivering packages, big and small, at the White House, and there is on hand a collection from many parts of the world to greet the President and members of his family on their return.

W FAMILY AFFAIR

Mrs. Newlywed's mother was terribly perturbed. A little bird, who ought to have known better, had whispered into her ear that Mr. Newlywed was addicted to the awful practice of playing cards at the club.

"Yes," remarked Mrs. Newlywed to her mother, "it's quite right, Frederick plays every night, but it doesn't matter, for he gives me all his winnings."

"But, my dear Cissie—"

"Oh, it's all right, mother, dear! He nearly always plays with Mr. Nextdoor."

"But what difference does that make?"

"Well, you see," explained the her husband give her all his winnings young wife. "Mrs. Nextdoor makes too. Then we just change over. I give her all Frederick's winnings, and she gives me the winnings of her husband."

"Oh," remarked ma, rather pained "Thus you see," wound up Mrs. Newlywed, both Mrs. Nextdoor and myself get more out of our husbands than we could possibly hope to do by any other means."

CHICKEN FLIP CHAGES TURKEY TROT AWAY

The Chicken Flip, invented by Eleonora Sears, and demonstrated by her and Reginald Vanderbilt at the Cropley-Plaza to celebrate Harvard's football victory over Princeton, has displaced the famous Turkey Trot.

Not only in the city, but in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and other places where the fashionable set had become turkey trotters, the new dance has been received with expressions of delight.

The fact that the Flip was invented right here in prim, puritanical, staid old Boston has resulted in many conservatives putting their thinking eggs on to see why it should be 'so. As you perhaps know, the young people of the present generation have gotten tired of the cotillions, square dances and other et forms of the terpsichorean are, and hence comes the revolt that has shown itself in tangos, fandangos, glides, slides and giddy dances galore.

Do you want to know how the Chicken Flip is danced?

Of course you do.

First it is essential to have the right sort of music. It's got to be lively. Slow, conservative music won't do. It must be the sort of music that makes you want to trip—lightly, get the blood to tingling and the feet to moving restlessly.

A partner is more necessary than the music. So get your partner ready now—

You can signal the pianist or other musicians.

Now, ready—go!

First is the close posit on. This is where the dance resembles the Grizzly. Then come a few steps forward. Dance then like a combination of the Grizzly and the Bunny Hug.

Put all the life in the dance you want to. Remember how the chicken walks about the barnyard—make the dance true to the chicken part of its name.

The Grizzly-Bunny combination finished, the couple separates. Now step away from one another in time with the music swaying in an exaggerated fashion. Keep swaying and swinging the body. One two, three, four, five—now stop, sway forward and move together again.

Now together, and at the start. The next part of the dance combines the intricate steps of the Grizzly, Turkey Trot, Bunny-Hug, the Salore and others. You must know them all in order to put the right spirit into the Flip. The movements are keener, more striking than in any of the other glides, tanfos, or trots.

The intrinsic steps finished, you can begin at the beginning again, and repeat. Do this as often as you like.

That's the Chicken Flip.

MRS. BRITTON DOES NOT FIT WELL IN BASEBALL

(Brooklyn Eagle)

Mrs. Britton, who owns the St. Louis National League Club and was going to suffragette the whole league instantly now complains that she never had an idea that men could be so contemptibly mean, not to say coarse, and even more mean. Her general impression of the male insect in baseball is that they will not do at all. Furthermore she is convinced that they are not fit to be comforted intelligence to the Albany hikers. We are convinced that Julius Caesar, George Washington, the Duke of Wellington, Alexander the Great and Ty Cobb, were also females in disguise. Otherwise according to present-day doctrines we cannot understand how they ever arose to eminence or were able to earn more than $10 a week. One of Mrs. Britton's reasons for deprecating the wearers of breeches was that when she inherited the ball club one of her first announcements was that she would re-establish ladies' days. That met not with the approval of the other magnates who were so brutal as to treat the matter as a business proposition. They could not understand in this free and equal age, why women should get into the ball park rees, especially when the league had passed a contrary rule several years before. To what extent she got by with the free days has not been disclosed, but she did get by with the dismissal of Roger Bresnahan, the most competent manager the St. Louis Club has had for ten years. The American League is said to have a tacit or written agreement that none of its clubs shall ever fall into the hands of women owners; wherefore it is suggested that another march to Albany be started right away at once and before breakfast.
