LIBERALS AIMING TO CARRY 65 SEATS IN QUEBEC

The Tories Are Putting Up Only a Sham Fight and Do Not Hope for More Than Four or Five—Even Montreal Seems to be a Hopeless Field for the Meighenites.

Montreal, Nov. 8.—With the beginning of registering of voters names the electoral machinery is definitely set up all over Canada. The number of new names in Montreal district will be very great, every woman, notwithstanding their natural loath for public affairs, will get registered. There seems to be a good ground aiding to get women registering: the defeat of the Meighen Government. Without that perhaps the entry of women in the political field would have been slower. There is not a woman who cannot understand dollars and cents. When Canada is now under the greatest financial burden that has ever been put upon her shoulders, the political situation is a matter of dollars.

The defeat of the Meighen Government is of even greater interest in the Montreal district than any question that can be brought about during the campaign, more important than the question of fiscal policy or the railway question. No doubt that four fifths of the electorate are determined to expel that self-formed, mandate-less Government. That is highly proved by the warm enthusiasm that attends every Liberal convention in the district and the cold impression created by the new Quebec Ministers of the Crown at their recent arrival in Montreal.

Liberals are Strong

The Liberal Party in Montreal cannot be better represented than it will be. This can only be but welcomed at a moment when Canada needs financiers to clear a fiscal railroad and financial situation that is far from being bright.

HOW "MOTHER" DRESSED.

Editor of The Daily Mail,
Dear Sir,—

I recall reading a letter in your paper condemning certain individuals for criticising, as she thinks the styles of mothers' dress in her younger days. I wish to inform the writer of this letter that most of the criticising has been of the girls of today for not dressing as mother did in her days. Apparently mothers' styles were popular, else why should they be given the preference.

Mother was not criticised but respected in her days in spite of the fact that she dressed in the prevailing fashions. True, her styles were not like they are today. Neither were they like her mothers' styles were in her days.

Every generation must have its styles and habits, and I believe that the styles of the present period are much more comfortable and economical, and even becoming, than the styles of yesterday. A number of older women will tell you this, as they have had the opportunity to try both styles and I know they like the styles of today much more than they did those in their younger days.

Most assuredly, mother was not dowdy as the writer of the letter mentioned claims has been stated, although I do not recall such a statement, and I am a steady reader of this column.

Neither are the girls of today dowdy, so why keep up the everlasting howl of "dress like mother." My mother wouldn't be at all pleased if I dressed like she did in her days—bustles, hoop skirts, etc., and I doubt if I put on such an outfit, except perhaps to go to a masquerade ball, if I would get out of the house, if mother was around.

There are extremes of course in today's styles, but the same is true in every style that ever prevailed. No, folks, I don't like hoop skirts, it is difficult to sit down, and I don't like bustles either, so I will take my skirts, bobbed hair, rouged cheeks in preference.

munity of the Montreal district and tion has stirred the electoral com over the whole province of Quebec.

Sir Lomer Gouin's nomination in Laurier-Outremont, was like a bombshell over Conservatives. It had long ago been rumored that the ex-prime minister of Quebec would be nominated here and there. Sir Lomer brings in to the federal Liberal party recognized capacities as elected in Montreal. The Liberal aim in Quebec is to get 65 seats and this does not seem to be utopia. The Conservatives aim at four or five. That seems to be very much.

It is complimentary to the Province of Quebec Conservative Party to call it a wreck. This is so true that not one Cabinet Minister dares to be a candidate in Montreal, with the unique exception of Hon. Mr. Ballantyne. Mr. Monty has decided to run in Beauharnois, where it is said he has got many friends. It will be seen on the 6th of December.

Those who answer the Conservative Party call, and they are but few and timid are, except two, unknown in political life and unimportant in the commercial affairs of the metropolis and the Province. This is not to say that there are no Conservatives in the Province, but they are hundreds of miles away from being Meighen Conservatives and the majority of this little and meagre flock will vote en masse against their chief and his administration.

In the 65 ridings of the Province 62 Liberal candidates are already nominated. There remains Hochelaga, St. Antoine, where the nomination goes to Hon. Mr. Mitchell, and Stanstead where it is understood that the former member, Mr. A. K. Baldwin, will be nominated.

Normand Already Beaten

In Three Rivers, Hon. Jacques Bureau is giving Dr. Normand a fierce fight. Mr. Bureau is a thorough fighter. His meeting at Shawinigan Falls was attended by over 8,000 people. At Three Rivers an enormous crowd was present.

Already Dr. Normand has lost all ground and his election is considered at the Tory headquarters in Montreal as lost. People say that the majority of Mr. Bureau will be nearly one thousand. The only way the Liberal Party can lose one or two seats in the Province is by putting up three or four candidates. In a few ridings some candidates will run only until the nomination day.

Conservatives have chosen candidates who won't run until the end of the melee.

FLANDERS' POPPIES
