A CHANGE OF JOBS.

A senior in Yale University is inviting a good deal of comment because of the manner in which he has chosen to spend his vacation. Since the classroom grind of the college year is not the enervating routine of the office or workshop, college students often take to remunerative employment during the summer months. In the absence of opportunity to take up the more gentlemanly pursuits they drift now and then into lines of prosaic endeavor. They have been known to go to work in factories and on farms during vacation season.

But this Yale senior seems, has gone most of his classmates one better in his quest for toil that is lowly and hard. He has become one of the pick and shovel gang in the army or men at work on the State Capital grounds at Hartford. He did not even offer the excuse that he has taken up this work to help him to a better understanding of economic or sociological problems; he did not even say that he has taken to pick and shovel in order to be the better able next fall as one of Yale's foot ball squad to smash Harvard's defense.

He wanted a job; on the State Capital grounds they needed welders of the pick and shovel; and so he took the job. And the chances are that when he returns to Yale next fall he will be the better off. For he will return to his books with a mental zest not acquired by his classmates who found softer berths during the vacation; he will have given his mind a real appetite for some of the material which he will get from his textbooks the coming year. He will have had time and occasion to think pretty seriously about some of the things on which his textbooks have been all too silent in the past.

Although he may not consciously acquire a great deal from the men beside whom he works with his pick and shovel, if he is the right sort he will carry back to his Yale associates in the fall not a little of which these boys stand in need. For even a three months' wielding of pick and shovel among the men with whom his lot is now thrown will add something to his experience. An occasional exchange of jobs might be a healthy thing for all of us.

GIRLS WILL BE GIRLS.

Mrs. Preble of Marblehead, Mass., 70 years old, declares that the young women of today are "brazen jades" with their short skirts and short hair and peek-a-boo waists, and goodness knows where the flighty things are headed for. Mrs. Packard of Brockton, 84 years old, declares that the short skirts are much more sensible than the trailing skirts she was bothered with as a girl, that the peek-a-boo waist is real pretty, and bobbed hair is both comely and comfortable. "People are just beginning to learn how to live," remarks this octogenarian. "When I was a girl there were always a lot of old folks standing around saying that girls shouldn't wear such clothes and carry on so, and they didn't know what was going to become of the brazen huzzies."

So there, as the philosopher says, you are. It is a difference in temperament. In some of us the moralist is predominant in others sympathy plays a greater role.

Many of Premier Melghen's parliamentary followers are greatly incensed over his action in bringing on an election before a redistribution can be made. The Premier in his London speech said that a redistribution was desirable but as it would be December 1st before the census returns could be completed and compiled it would be too late then to hold a session. The census returns have been pouring in at Ottawa since July and the Premier probably has had an opportunity to examine them. He therefore knows that the west is entitled to largely increased representation and a redistribution would put the government in even a worse position than it stands today. This is probably one of the reasons which influenced him in his decision to take the plunge.

The United Farmers of York-Sunbury are already getting in shape for the next political campaign. Yesterday a picnic was held at Mouth Kes-which and this afternoon another is being held at Maugeville. Sunbury County. A political speech by Mr. T. W. Caldwell, M. P. for Carleton-Victoria was an important feature of the Keswick gathering. He handled the Melghen Government without gloves and his address was listened to with great interest. Mr. Caldwell will also speak at Maugeville this afternoon. The splendid organization which the farmers now possess in the rural sections of this constituency makes them a political factor to be reckoned with.

The Fredericton exhibition which opens on Saturday the 17th instant gives promise of being the best ever. Entries are pouring in from all quarters and Secretary Hooper promises the greatest exhibit of live stock ever seen at a Maritime fair. An exhibition has great educative value and every farmer in Central New Brunswick should make plans now to visit Fredericton during exhibition week. An opportunity to see such a magnificent display of live stock may never occur again.

An Ottawa dispatch to a government organ says that Hon. C. C. Balfour, Minister of Marine is dissatisfied with the decision of Premier Melghen to bring on a dissolution of Parliament and will step down and out. Seven other Ministers are already slated to go, so it is plain that when the Premier gets through reconstructing there will not be much of the present outfit left.

It is believed in some quarters that the federal election will be pulled off late in November. Whether it is held in November or December makes little difference as the Melghen Government is already as good as beaten.

THROUGH OUR SIFVE

Loafers can't understand why the hustlers are always in a hurry.

Take heart. There is always an end to bad luck and vacations.

No matter how dull other lines of work there are always city streets to be torn up.

It takes a clever man to raise hell for others and keep out of it himself.

Baseball and football each has its day, but passing the ball is a sport for all seasons.

Charlie Chaplin's next play is to be sad. But the audience probably will laugh from force of habit.

Criticism never changes any styles. The best it can do is to bring about a modification of extremes.

That movie actress who says she is looking for a perfect man, to marry him, is a smart little advertiser.

There is too much that is favorable to knicker-bockers being written. To get the girls to adopt a style, criticize it severely.

CHARMING WEDDING AT ST. DUNSTAN'S

dress of duchess satin, untrimmed, with an overdress of French sequins.

Among the out of town guests were Mrs. Wilbur Smith of Westmount, aunt of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Bullock and Miss Bullock of St. John Miss Arthur Shatford of Dartmouth, Mr. and Mrs. A. Sterling Johnson of Alabama and Miss Thompson of St. John. On their bridal tour the bride and groom will go to Kawartha Lakes, Ontario, after which they will reside in London, Ont.

The groom has a wide acquaintance in the province. He served overseas with the Royal Canadian Dragoons and other units.

Keyes-Young.

A wedding of interest took place today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Young, Oromocto, when their daughter Amy became the bride of Herbert Keyes of St. John. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Tedford of St. John in the presence of a large number of invited guests. The young couple will make their home at Oromocto West.

A local man for failing to drive to the left of the centre of a street was convicted and fined in the police court Wednesday. A fine of three dollars with costs was imposed.

UN SOUND AND VICIOUS VAGARIES

Denominational Fund. A District License to preach was granted to George Sharp, Scotch Settlement, who is a now student at Acadia. Mr. Sharp has been preaching this summer at Pembroke and Newburg. A very encouraging report was given by Rev. G. C. Warren concerning the moneys contributed to Missions through what is called the Denominational Fund. The delegates from churches whose allotment has not been paid in full went home determined to get their churches to look after this important matter before the 30th day of September, when the books of the Treasurer close for the year. The Churches of the third district have made a fine showing spiritually and financially this past year. The additions have never been so large by baptism and the contributions so large.

The date of the annual meeting of the third district was fixed for the second Tuesday in June.

Women's Meeting.

The United Baptist Women's Missionary Union held a very interesting session on Wednesday afternoon. The leaders were Mrs. Havelock Coy, Mrs. R. D. Burpee and Mrs. J. Hunter.

At the closing session addresses were given by H. T. Brewer on Evangelistic Effort in the Third District; Rev. W. D. Wilson on the Temperance Situation and the Coming Referendum, and Rev. E. S. Mason on Home Missions.

Resolutions.

The following resolutions were heartily and unanimously passed:

1.—Thanks for the kindly entertainment of the delegates by the Pastor and the Church.

2.—Resolved that this Third District meeting of the Baptist Churches of the County of York, hereby desires to emphasize the importance of all Baptists standing firm and true to the principles of the Baptist denomination, which stands for the full truth of the New Testament. And further resolved that we warn all the members of our churches against the unsound and vicious vagaries of the so-called Holy Rollers and Go-Preachers.

3.—Further resolved, that we as a District Meeting, express our appreciation of the splendid service which Rev. W. D. Wilson is rendering as Secretary of the N. B. Temperance Alliance, and further resolved that we pledge our hearty support in carrying on the laborious work of organizing the temperance forces of this province for a great victory on the tenth day of next October.

Further resolved that we hereby express our emphatic approval of the keeping of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes out of the province through importation and transportation and that we as Baptists not only pledge ourselves to vote on October 10th against such importations and transportation, but also to use our influence to make the vote as large and emphatic as possible.

Attracted Many Bidders

The auction sale of furs, firearms and traps seized by game wardens throughout the province, held Wednesday at the Department of Lands and Mines attracted many bidders. Some of the firearms were withdrawn because of no bids. James Doohan bid in 2 bear skins, 15 muskrat elts, 15 skunk pelts, 3 mink pelts, 1 roon pelt and 1 bob cat pelt for $31. J. Gullison bid in thirty beaver trs for $12.25. J. Vermeeren was the chief purchaser of the lower grade firearms. The highest bid for a rifle was $25.50 by J. F. Tweeddale for a .303 Savage. R. B. Woodcock bid $20.50 for a .33 Winchester. J. Vermeeren bid $24.25 for a Winchester. Other Winchesters brought varying prices. Forty one guns, revolvers, pistols and rifles were offered.
