tion the sin of having kept he hon. minister out of the House.

The Prohibition Law.

Referring to the Prohibition Act he said he noticed that $60,000 was authorized by law for its enforcement. He conceded that it required a large sum to administer the Act, but it was not so much a question of money as of principle. The estimates passed by the House should be taken as a rough guide to the expenditure. When any legislation was passed it should be taken as a rule of conduct for the people of the province. The law said that penalties levied were not to be remitted, and if they were remitted the Magistrate himself was liable to punishment for an offense. The power that had been taken from the Magistrate had been assumed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council. In the case of Dr. Sullivan of Charlotte County, his fine had been remitted and the money returned to him with $12. in addition. What could be said of a government which remitted the fine imposed on one man for violating the law, and allowed another to be sent to goal. He believed all should be treated alike, and no man should have pull enough to have his money refunded while another was allowed to rot in goal. He would admit that the law was too drastic in one respect, wherein it cut out the right of appeal from a defendant. He had been responsible for that provision in the Act as he felt at the time that he had been in error. The law took away the right of appeal and treated as a convict every man who was accused. The House had power to make changes in the law, but up to the present had not done so. He had heard of a case in the village of Hampton, where a druggist named Campton was reported by an inspector for violating the law. In that case some parties in Saint John, who were probably known to hon. members sitting on the front bench opposite. He had also heard of a woman in Charlotte County, who was carrying on a drug store. She died and there was no one to carry on the drug store, but it went on just the same. He believed the Chief Inspector should be given full power and should not be interfered with by the Government. The law should not be set aside by the very men who are responsible for its enforcement. When the illiterate men discovered that the law was only for one class of people, that man was apt to become a rebel against society. He did not propose to refer to the double shuffle that was being carried on, but would say that the information was being carefully compiled and would be used in due time. When the matter came up for discussion the government would have to take the responsibility for violations of the law.

The Attorney General.

HON. MR. BYRNE said that while the hon. leader of the opposition had stated that he intended to refer to a number of cases he had taken good care not to do so. He had criticized the government and had endeavored to make the people believe that it was interfering with the enforcement of the prohibition law. He could say that while Rev. W. D. Wilson held the office of Chief Inspector he had in all cases so far as the government was concerned received every support that it was possible to give to him. The hon. member had tried to make it appear that the government had no right in a proper case to remit a penalty; that when a fine was imposed by a magistrate it must stand. The hon. member must know that that was not the correct position to take. He must also know that the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council had power to remit any penalty imposed for a violation of the law. The remission of the fine in the case of Dr. Sullivan had been properly made. He had before him the petition in the case, which set forth the facts. Dr. Sullivan was a reputable citizen of Saint Stephen and not a boot-legger. On October 29th 1919, he had filled a prescription for a man who had called at his office. The man complained of cramps in his stomach and the doctor prescribed twenty-four ounces of gin, which was to be used for strictly medicinal purposes. The law gave doctors the right to prescribe liquor if they believed it was necessary for a patient. In this case the man was suffering from a cold and the doctor felt that he needed the liquor. It was true that he was afterwards fined, but there was no evidence denying that he had issued the liquor for medical purposes. When the case came before the Governor in Council, he (Byrne), after reading the evidence had no hesitation in recommending clemency. The hon. member was now trying to make it appear that the government had exceeded its duty under the Prohibition Act. Dr. Sullivan being denied the right of appeal, and his sworn evidence being uncontradicted, he (Byrne) felt that the recommendation made in the case was right and proper.

to guard against in skin injuries, its germ infection. This is what causes the throbbing, shooting pain in your cuts, scratches and burns—it's the real source of blood-poison and inflammation. One touch of Zam-Buk will save you this peril.

Zam-Buk's powerful antiseptic properties make it the safe and ideal first-aid. At the same time as it allays the pain and irritation of a burn or a scald, Zam-Buk also drives out any poison or germ disease that may be in the broken tissues. It ends all danger of your wound or sore going "the wrong way."

In Zam-Buk there's no trace of animal fat or mineral impurity such as you get in ordinary ointments and salves. It's just the purest, safest and most concentrated healing substance ever discovered.

Mrs. S. Cliff, of Meleto, S.D., says:—"I gashed my fingers severely with a piece of tin. The wound became infected and swelling and throbbing spread right up into my shoulder. So long as I live I shall remember the wonderful relief experienced the first time I used Zam-Buk. Every bit of inflammation and poisonous matter was drawn out of the wound by Zam-Buk, and perfect healing resulted."

If you have not already tried this famous herbal balm a 1c stamp to Zam-Buk Co., Dupont St., Toronto, will bring you a free trial box.

ANOTHER EXPERIMENTAL STATION
WANTED BY F. & D. ASSOCIATION

The Committee on Agriculture met this morning. Harvey Mitchell, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, appeared before the Committee, and at the request of the chairman spoke on a number of subjects, including the demonstration work and the activities of District Representatives and other officials of the Department who went through the province for instruction purposes. Discussion upon the value of such instructional work followed, the opinions of the members of the Committee varying considerably.

A resolution passed by the New Brunswick Farmers' and Dairymen's Association at its last annual meeting, to the effect that the Federal Government should be requested to establish an Experimental Station on the North Shore, was placed before the Committee. Lengthy discussion took place upon this resolution. The general opinion was that such an experimental station was not necessary, but that greater attention should be devoted to elementary agricultural education, particularly school gardens.

On the motion of Mr. Young the Committee passed a resolution to the effect that the Committee did not concur in the Resolution of the Farmers' and Dairymen's Association, but was of the opinion that demonstration farms should be established throughout the province and that more attention should be devoted to school gardens.
