INDEPENDENT FORESTERS DISCUSS RATES OF OLD MEMBERS

(Moncton Transcript.)

About 175 Independent Foresters met in the new hall on West Market street last night and listened to addresses by High Chief Ranger M. E. Grass of St. John, and Mr. J. T. Hawke, representatives from the High Court of New Brunswick to the meeting of the Supreme Court, held at Toronto in August last. The subject under discussion of course, was the action of the Supreme Court in putting a lien of from $100 to $260 on every $1,000 policy held by members joining the order prior to 1899. Not only has every policy of the pre-1899 members a lien against it for the amount stated but unless the amount is paid in a lump sum at once, the member is called upon to pay interest of four per cent. on the lien.

Ald. E. A. Fryers, chairman of the I.O.F. Central Committee for the city presided at the meeting, and on the platform besides were H.C.R. M. E. Grass, St. John, and Supreme Representative J. T. Hawke and Hon. Judge Borden.

THE HIGH CHIEF RANGER.

H.C.R. Grass was first called upon and after some introductory remarks in reference to the matter in which the older Foresters especially, are so vitally interested, he pointed out that the order had existed thirty-nine years. He proceeded to detail the arguments in favor of their action. The executive claimed, he said, that those who joined the order prior to 1899 were paying a pretty low rate. The whole order up to 1899, he said, was paying an inadequate rate, and that went along until 1906, when the order came in for a searching investigation by the Royal Commission. They reported then that the order was actually insolvent and that the order must make good. In the year 1908 the executive prepared a program to meet the deficiency.

It was thought by the Supreme Court that the increase in rates at that time was sufficient but the executive did not think so.

The speaker pointed out that the

FIGHT ENDED IN STABBING AFFAIR

Chatham, N.B., Oct. 12.—James E. Harding, aged twenty-one years, son of James Harding of Tabusintac, lies in the hospital hovering between life and death as a result of a stabbing affray which took place at that place Friday evening after prayer meeting, and the alleged assailant was Freeman Edmunds, aged nineteen years, son of Thomas Edmunds, a near neighbor of the Hardings.

The unfortunate affair had its origin in a quarrel that occurred between the two youths some evenings previously, and was said to concern the speed of their respective horses. However, it grew more bitter and on Friday, according to Mr. Harding, Sr.'s story, the two met on their way to prayer meeting and Edmunds wanted Harding to fight then and there. The latter said he would not disgrace the prayer meeting by fighting there and told the other that he would meet him after service if he wanted to fight.

When the service was over the two drove about a quarter of a mile away from the meeting house and they fell to with fists, Harding, it is said, getting the better of the fist encounter, and then proceeded on his way. Edmunds, however, followed him up and Harding again got out of his rig to meet his opponent. The latter is said to have called out: "I'll do for you this time," and came on with something clamped in his right hand.

Headless of the blow that the other aimed at him, he struck twice, driving his weapon deep into the abdomen of his victim and then with a second swing of his arm, cutting a gash in his back, a full finger length in extent.

The unfortunate youth collapsed with hardly a groan and his cowardly assailant ran away. A number of men had followed the two and when the stabbing occurred they at once perceived the serious nature of the victim's injuries and did all in their power to rush the young man to the hospital here. John Murphy placed his automobile at their disposal and his son drove them to Ferry Road. Here they crossed in a boat late that night and soon had Harding in the hospital, where Drs. Marven, Duffy and Losier set to work to save his Peps What are they?

Peps is the name bestowed upon a new scientific preparation put up into tabloid or pastille form, which provides an entirely new and effective treatment for coughs, colds and lung and throat troubles.

Did it never occur to you as peculiar that when you have a cough or a cold, or any chest trouble, you should apply medicine—not to your lungs, but to your stomach?

Look at it the other way round. Suppose you suffered from some stomach complaint—indigestion or ulceration. How strange you would think it if you were asked to take a medicine which had to be breathed in, and which went—not to your stomach, but to your lungs and breathing passages?

Peps—this newest remedy for coughs, colds, and lung troubles—go to the lungs and breathing-tubes, direct. Peps are really pine fumes, and certain highly beneficial medicinal extracts specially prepared by a new scientific process and then condensed into tabloid form. It is like making a breathable gas solid!

You put a "Pep" on your tongue and let it dissolve. As it does so, the healing essences it contains turn into vapor, and you BREATHE them direct to your lungs and air passages!

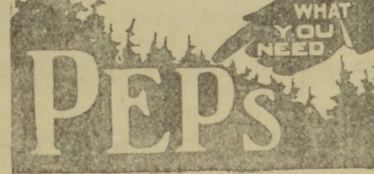

Just as the out-door treatment for consumption—the "breathing" treatment—is now admitted to be the only rational treatment, so the "Peps" treatment for colds and lung troubles is the only rational home treatment.

Peps cure catarrh, coughs, bronchitis, sore throat, tightness or aching across the chest, difficulty in breathing, night cough, hoarseness, asthma, laryngitis, smoker's throat, etc. Best for children, because free from opium, morphine, or any poison.

All druggists and stores sell Peps at 50c. a box or 3 for $1.25.

FREE TRIAL

Cut out this article, write across it the name of this paper, and mail it to Peps Co., Toronto, or 52 Princess Street, Winnipeg, enclosing 1 cent stamp to pay for return postage. A free trial packet of Peps will be mailed you by return. If you have a friend suffering from a cough, cold, or any throat or lung trouble, hand this on.

The wound, which had evidently been caused by a large jack-knife, had torn the abdomen in a terrible way and the physicians had to exert their skill to the utmost. The lad's father James Harding, came up with his son and was here Saturday and today.

Notes from the Rural Districts

KINGSLEY

Kingsley, Oct. 4.—The weather is growing colder, which remind us that winter is fast approaching.

The farmers are all busy digging out their potatoes, all reporting them to be a good crop this year.

Mr. Herbert White, of Everett, Washington, who has been visiting friends in this place has returned home to the West again.

Mr. Robert MacFarlane of Plaster Rock, arrived here on Friday with his bride, who was formerly Miss Della Hallett of Bairdville, Victoria Co. The bridal party arriving here from Plaster Rock about noon, coming from Fredericton to this place by auto where they intend spending a few days of their wedding tour at the home of the groom's mother, Mrs. Alex. MacFarlane. They were welcomed that evening by a large crowd of boys and girls who gave them a grand old charivari, which was both loud and long. The crowd was then invited in by the bride and groom who met them at the door. After the congratulations and best wishes from all their friends were bestowed upon them the guests were all seated and treats of all kinds was then passed around to them by the bride and groom. After spending a very pleasant evening the crowd began to depart for home, with their cow bells, and guns. Wishing Mr. and Mrs. MacFarlane a long and happy wedded life.

The Tale The Wagons Tell

My office window faces a street, close to the railway freight sheds.

All day long a steady stream of trucks and lorries lumber by—loaded with boxes, barrels and bales.

One truck I noticed the other afternoon was particularly interesting. No two boxes were the same, and stencilled on the end of each was the name of some well-known product—soap, tobacco, socks, breakfast food, cocoa, port, tea, chocolates, perfumery and baking powder.

Gathered there in prosaic wooden boxes were the results of thousands of hand's labor in all parts of the world.

The cocoa had been grown in Brazil, shipped to Bristol, transhipped to Montreal and finally distributed from Toronto.

The tea was gathered by swart-skinned natives of the romantic island of Ceylon; from sunny Portugal the luscious, big grapes had been gathered years ago, fermented, bottled and branded with a famous name; from Egypt had come the cotton and from South America the dyes that entered into the product finally stamped with the brand of a well-known hosiery.

There, behind that obviously prosaic truck-load of freight was the whole romance of modern commerce—the skilled production, the universal demand for food, drink and raiment, and the world-wide distribution of the things we use every day.

And then I speculated why we use these things every day, instead of some other things; and that brought me plump back to my own job of advertising.

The names of some of the boxes on the lorry were known everywhere to-day, but had been unknown a few years ago; and I saw then more clearly than ever before that Advertising is really a great channel digger. It is like the Panama Canal. You can sail from Montreal to Vancouver now, around the Horn. You can get there, but it is going to take months. A year or so from now you will sail through the Panama Canal and chop the journey to less than half. A new channel will have been dug.

The great names in commerce to-day are those of the manufacturers who have let modern advertising steam-shovel a channel across the isthmus of distributing difficulties.

The great names in the commerce of to-morrow will be those of men who widen and dredge this channel so that the greater traffic may pass smoothly and quickly from the source of production to the homes of the consumer.
