THE BLUNDER OF SAMSON

It is risky for a man to marry a woman of different nationality or different religion, so John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is reported to have told his Sunday school class. This statement was elicited by the story of Samson, whose failure in life was the direct result of his marriage with a woman of the Philistines.

The New York Herald thinks that Mr. Rockefeller is in a degree right. Marital happiness is apt to depend upon a complete understanding between man and wife, and couples do not so easily maintain understanding when they have to cope with differences of race, language, customs and religion. Yet the records hold many instances in which all these barriers were overcome and conjugal bliss attained.

The strange and romantic case of John Rolfe and Pocahontas illustrates the possibility. We gain a clear realization of the gulf between the savage Indian girl and the English gentleman by Rolfe's own statement. "I am not ignorant," he said, "of the inconvenience which may arise to be in love with one whose education hath been rude, her manners barbarous, her generation accursed. (But to Pokohuntas) my heartie and best thoughts are, and have a long time bin so intangled, and intrahled in so intricate a labyrinth, that I am awearied to unwind myselfe thereout."

A real love match this, a match which brought happiness despite the barriers of custom and race. It is true that Captain John Smith insinuates in his history that Pocahontas from the first was in love with him, and that Rolfe won her hand only by the lying statement that Smith was dead. But it is very doubtful whether the boastful Captain was so great a heart breaker as he would have us believe, while his proclivity to inaccurate statements is only too well known. Despite his success in coupling his name for centuries with this famous Indian Princess, it is certain that not he but her husband had her sincere and wholly undivided affection.

Although the untimely death of Pocahontas brought to a tragic end this strange romance, it is none the less a striking proof that love often can bridge the widest chasms. Samson's mistake lay perhaps not so much in marrying a Philistine as in marrying a Delilah.

WAGES FOR WIVES

The home economics department of the Nebraska State University has found that a farmer's wife earns $4000 a year, her pay being computed at the rate of wages paid to hired helpers. As most farmers do not make $4000 a year over expenses, the university figures out that they would go broke if they tried to pay their wives at current rates for the work they do.

Whatever the income of any man happily married may be, it is not enough to pay his wife for what she does for him. It is a fortunate thing for contented husbands that their wives do not make out itemized bills for their work.

That a good woman feels herself more than repaid by her husband's love for anything she can do for him is one of the reasons why a troubled world gets along as well as it does. No husband of such a woman needs a university survey to tell him his wife is underpaid. And of what use is such a survey as that made by the Nebraska university? The inquirers might just as unprofitably spend their time speculating on how many dollars a son ought to pay his mother to square up for everything she has done for him.

An important bill having for its object the prevention of fires was agreed to in committee of the House yesterday. It provides for the appointment of a Fire Marshal, and also for an investigation into the cause of all fires. There is an enormous loss from fires in the province each year, and it is only right that everything possible should be done to check this great economic waste. While there is insurance carried on many properties destroyed by fire yet there is always a heavy loss which somebody has to bear. Undoubtedly much good will result from the legislation which the House enacted yesterday.

A bill to provide for the appointment of women to the Board of Censors for moving pictures, was introduced in the Legislature yesterday by Premier Foster. When the bill comes before the Committee of the Whole there will be a discussion on the merits and demerits of moving pictures which should prove interesting. Women give a very liberal patronage to the movies and there does not appear to be any good reason why they should not be represented on the Board of Censors.

Mr. R. T. Hayes, M. P. P. for St. John City, has been appointed chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means, which means that he will preside over the deliberations of the House in the absence of Hon. Mr. Speaker. The new member for St. John has had a lot of experience in municipal affairs and gives promise of becoming a very useful member of the House.

THROUGH OUR SIEVE

There ought to be some way to keep good intentions for the morrow from souring over night.

Much is written against the blondes but it is our guess that most people love 'em.

Scientists say the world will last 99 million years, and they may be right. It isn't showing much wear yet.

We have had war taxes for six years or more, but it will take twenty years longer to go used to them.

It is almost time to take the old straw hat to the cleaners and get the annual excuse for buying a new one.

Few women would enjoy going anywhere if it wasn't for the pleasure it affords them to talk about it after they return home.

Shaving is said to cause neuralgia, but most men would rather have neuralgia than suffer from their wives' criticism of whiskers.

After March comes April and its showers, then May and the flowers and finally June and the fools who persist in rocking the boat.

M'DONALD COMMITTED

Edmund McDonald of Vanceboro, who was defendant in the charge of theft of liquor from the C. P. R., the jury disagreeing at the trial before the York County Court, was fined two hundred dollars Tuesday afternoon in the Fredericton Police Court for giving liquor at a place other than his private place of residence. McDonald made no appearance in person nor by counsel and the case was proven against him Harold Harris one of the witnesses against McDonald in the theft case was the person to whom the liquor had been given.

Conviction on Local Case
 In the case of George Chase of Fredericton from whose premises two cases of liquor were taken by officers a few days ago, conviction also was made, the charge being having liquor at a place not a private dwelling. A portion of the premises consists of a store now occupied by another family as a dwelling, thus preventing the place from being classed as a private dwelling.

Fines Imposed on Boys
 In the case of three boys charged with stealing from James Vermeeren's second hand store in Regent street conviction was made and fines of twenty dollars each were imposed. In addition one boy was required to make restitution. The parents were the object of some caustic reference by the magistrate who suggested that boys of the age if not at school should be at work.

ATTRACTIONS AT THEATRES

Vera Gordon, who became famous over night as the mother in "Humoresque," is featured for the first time as a star in "The Greatest Love," to be seen at the Opera House today and tomorrow. It is the story of an immigrant family who come to the United States to find fortune and who find troubles and losses which only the love of the mother of the little tribe can pull them through. Ray Dean, Bobby Connelly and Sally Crute are in the cast.

The Wednesday-Thursday picture at the Gaiety is a Drury Lane melodrama called "Hearts are Trumps" with an all star cast. Pathe News, Topics of the Day and a comedy are also on the programme.

INDIAN YOUTH SHOT AND KILLED ACCIDENTALLY

Edmundston, March 30.—Percy Francis, an Indian boy six years old, accidentally shot himself this afternoon at the Indian reservation. Percy was playing with his sister, aged three, in a bedroom at the home of their grandmother, Mrs. Gabriel Francis, with whom they lived, when the little girl found a revolver in the bed, which Percy took from her and while looking at it pulled the trigger, the bullet entering his chin, severing the spinal cord. Dr. Simard was called and said death was instantaneous. An inquest was considered unnecessary.

N. B. FRUIT GROWERS ASSOC.

 Mr. Hubbard and seconded by Mr. Dunphy.

Spraying and Dusting
 George P. Walker, of the Dominion Entomological Laboratory, Annapolis Royal, N. S., read a very interesting paper on Spraying and Dusting in which he pointed out that the controlling of biting and sucking insects and fungus diseases constituted the most important single operation on the fruit farm.

Liquid sprays for the control of orchard pests had been in use for fifty years and the last decade had seen liquid spraying developed to a high degree of perfection. In New Brunswick the standard sprays recommended for apples were 3-10-40 Bordeaux with 1½ lbs arsenate of lime applied at the pink bud stage; 1 lb. soluble sulphur to 40 gallons water applied just after blossoms fall—and the first spray repeated ten days after the second and later is required.

Dusting is without doubt one of the liveliest subjects of discussion among orchardists today. Some of the advantages of dusting over liquid spraying were greater speed and better timing of application, less waste of time, lower cost of machinery, lighter weight of outfit to be hauled and less liable to breakdown.

Copper arsenic dust gives better fungus control than sulphur lead arsenate dust and as good control as liquid spray. In 1918 Copper arsenic dust was devised by Mr. G. E. Sanders and 100 lbs. was used for experimental purposes. In 1919 ten tons was used mostly by Mr. S. B. Chute of Berwick and Mr. E. H. Johnson of Wolfville. In 1920 three hundred tons were used in the Annapolis Valley. For 1921 the United Fruit Co's have already ordered enough materials to mix six hundred tons. These figures look as if dusting would altogether replace spraying in Nova Scotia.

Quebec Experience
 Father Leopold of Oka Agricultural Institute, La Trappe made a short address to the convention detailing his experiences with sprays and pointing out the special conditions existing in his province which were not met with here or in Nova Scotia.

Efforts Commended
 Col. O. W. Wetmore, M. P. P. commended the efforts of the Provincial Horticultural Division for efforts made and results obtained in marketing the fruit crops. He also stated that there was a great and profitable opportunity to further the growing of strawberries. A Resolution and Nominating Committee consisting of H. H. Smith, chairman, A. G. Dunphy, W. W. Hubbard, Allen Dingee, Harry Smith was appointed. W. B. Gilman and S. B. Hatheway were appointed as auditors.
