Deposed King of Portugal Weds German Princess

Ancient Royal Castle at Sigmasingia, the Scene of a Brilliant Imperial Event—Nearly all of the Royal Families of Europe Represented at the Ceremony—The Young Couple the Recipients of Many Magnificent Wedding Presents—The Bridegroom Comes in for a Plump Dowrie

MANUEL II, KING OF PORTUGAL

Sigmasingen, Sept. 4.—Princess Augustine Victoria, daughter of Prince William of Hohenzollern, and Manuel, the deposed King of Portugal, were married with the rites of the Catholic Church today in the ancient royal castle which has been the home of the bride since her birth. The religious ceremony that joined the couple in wedlock was performed by Cardinal Netto, the late Archbishop Patriarch of Lisbon. The bride was given away by her father. Four princesses, representing as many of the royal families of Germany, attended her as bridesmaids.

The marriage service was performed in the chapel of the castle. The spirit of the affair was solemn and impressive, while the costly gowns and jewels and the showy uniforms of distinguished personages furnished a regal stage setting.

ROYALTY REPRESENTED.

Only the close relatives of the two families and a few of the highest dignitaries found place in the small chapel of the castle where the ceremony was performed. The other guests, including several scores of princesses belonging to all of the royal families of Europe, were stationed according to their rank, in the various salons and halls through which the bridal procession passed.

A royal salute and a blare of trumpets announced to the waiting populace the conclusion of the wedding ceremony. A mighty roar of cheers went up from the enormous crowd that thronged the vicinity of the castle. In response, the newly-married pair appeared upon a balcony of the castle and smilingly bowed their acknowledgements. The bride was flushed and radiant as she appeared upon the balcony, led by the bridegroom.

MANY PRESENTS.

The wedding presents received by Manuel and his bride were so enormous that columns would be required to give a complete list of them. They included a magnificent set of table silver from King George and Queen Mary, a gold wine flagon from Queen Alexandra, pearls and diamonds from the King and Queen of Spain, an emerald and diamond necklace from the King and Queen of Italy and several costly articles of jewelry from the members of the German Imperial family. Other appropriate presents were received from nearly everybody present at the marriage. One of the presents from Manuel to his bride was a very old emerald ring which was once the property of Catherine of Aragon, wife of King Henry VIII of England.

The bride of today recently passed her twenty-third birthday. Her father is head of the second non-reigning and probably the oldest, branch of the House of Hohenzollern, of which Emperor William is head of the royal branch. The grandfather of the bride was Prince Leopold of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen, whose wife was the Infanta Antonia of Portugal. She was a sister of ex-King Manuel's grandfather, which makes the bride and bridegroom of today second cousins.

A DEPOSED KING.

Ex-King Manuel is of the same age as his bride. He was born at his mother's estate of Villavieosa, not far from the Spanish border. Before he was eighteen years old he served aboard the Portuguese man-of-war Africa as a midshipman. He was eighteen years old on February 1, 1908, when he succeeded to the crown of Portugal through the assassination of his father, King Carlos, and his elder brother, Crown Prince Luis Felipe. A band of men fired upon the members of the royal family while they were driving in an open carriage through the streets of Lisbon. The king and the crown prince were each shot three times. Manuel was slightly wounded.

The double assassination was the climax of internal troubles which had marked every year since Carlos ascended the throne in 1889. The political troubles of the country were due in the beginning to corrupt government and intolerably heavy taxes. The crisis came when King Carlos attempted to rule the nation by absolute decree, dispensing with parliament and abolishing the freedom of the press.

The discontent under Carlos was not lessened when Manuel came to the throne. Students of Portuguese affairs predicted that the monarchy would soon be overthrown, and the revolution of October, 1910, which ended in the flight of Manuel from Portugal, was not a great surprise.

When he was king, it was believed that Manuel would take an English bride. At the time of his trip to England, in 1909, it was said that he would ask the hand of Princess Patricia of Connaught or of Alexandra of Fife. The possibility that he might marry the daughter of Emperor William was also rumored while he was on the throne. But all of these rumors died away after he was deposed. Princess Augustine of Hohenzollern, the bride of his choice, brings to Manuel a plump dowry, which may be useful to the former king in the event that he attempts to stir up affairs in Portugal with a view to regaining his throne.

BOARD OF HEALTH SHOULD TAKE ACTION

Water Being Used by Bridge Employees Unfit for Drinking Purposes

The old party who carries water from a spring in the flats to quench the thirst of the men working on the highway bridge during the day time would be justified in putting up a kick. He is compelled to carry two pails at a time, while the fellow who performs this important duty for the night shift is only required to carry one pail per trip. Then again, the

PEACE SERVICE AT PORTSMOUTH

Portsmouth, N. H., Sept. 4.—The annual Peace Service will be held here tomorrow in Christ Church. The holding of the memorial began one year after the signing of the Peace of Portsmouth in 1905, which ended the war between Japan and Russia. Ever since then, on the same day and hour, five o'clock in the afternoon, a commemorative service has been held as much as possible like the original one.

INDIANS NOW LEARNING TRADES

Lawrence Kansas, Sept. 4.—Nearly 200 new Indian students from the five civilized tribes in Oklahoma enrolled today at the opening of the term at Haskell Institute. The number of newcomers is considerably in excess of any previous year and is taken as an indication that the Indians are beginning to appreciate the advantages of a vocational training.

OLD TIME POLITICIAN HAS PASSED AWAY

Death at Cody's, Queen's County, of Mr. Thomas Hetherington, Ex-M. P. P.

St. John, Sept. 4.—A prominent Liberal passed away yesterday, when the death occurred at Cody's of Thomas Hetherington, ex-M.P.P., and former Dominion immigration agent at Boston.

Actively engaged in the affairs of his province for many years, the late Mr. Hetherington formed a wide circle of friends who will learn with regret of his death, and his followers in Queens county will mourn the loss of a worthy leader and true friend.

Particularly severe was the blow to the family, as Mr. Hetherington died on the day that his eldest daughter Mrs. Fred Perry, was buried and general sympathy will be felt for the survivors in their double bereavement. The late Mr. Hetherington would have celebrated his 83rd birthday on the 29th of this month and during his long, active career, spent principally in his native community of Cody's, he was recognized as an exemplary neighbor and a man of wide political knowledge.

Mr. Hetherington represented Queens in the provincial government for twelve years, being elected for the first time in 1882, re-elected in 1886 and returned by acclamation in 1890. In 1892 Mr. Hetherington resigned to provide a seat for the late Hon. A. G. Blair, who had been defeated in York. J. DeVeber Neales, a Gagetown lawyer, opposed Mr. Blair, but he was returned by a large majority. Mr. Hetherington was appointed Dominion immigration agent at Boston, later, and served with distinction for seven years, until removed by the Borden government, immediately after the Conservative party came to power.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Ross and children of Moncton, arrived here last night.

THE MARKET IS SLUGGISH

Canadian Pacific Takes a Slight Dip Below the 220 Mark

Leading Stocks Such as C. P. R. and Union Pacific Show a Downward Tendency

New York, Sept. 4.—For some weeks past the impression has prevailed that the underlying strength of the Stock Market was traceable in large part to the strong financial interests who sponsored the distribution of Southern Pacific stock to Union Pacific stockholders. While unofficial returns indicate that the underwriters will be called upon to take about 20 per cent. of this offering, it is a question if this residue has not been already disposed of through the medium of hedge selling. It remains to be seen therefore, how far the support of these particular financial interests for this specific purpose has contributed to the comparative strength of the market in recent weeks. Unbiased observers will watch with much interest the immediate tendencies of the leading stocks as indicating the broader trend of values for the near future.

Views Taken of Agricultural District and also of Residential and Commercial Fredericton

A C. P. R. Photograph car connected with the publicity and advertising branch of that railway, was in the city Tuesday and Wednesday, leaving today. HARRY THAW RELEASED ON HABEAS CORPUS

Judge Hutchinson Hands Down His Decision on Chief Boudeau's Application—Declared That the Sherbrooke Jailor Has no Authority to Detain Thaw—Immigration Officials Were on Hand and Re-arrested the Fugitive—Is Now at Coaticook

Coaticook, Sept. 3.—Harry Kendall Thaw, tried out of the Sherbrooke jail on a writ of habeas corpus obtained by a coup of William Travers Jerome, enjoyed three minutes of liberty this afternoon and was then seized by the Dominion immigration authorities and hustled by automobile to this little town, where tonight he paced the floor in the immigration detention room over the Grand Trunk Railway station.

Tomorrow morning a special board of inquiry will sit in his case and by night he may be thrust across the Vermont border as an undesirable alien. His lawyers have planned no procedure to resist extradition to New York, and the belief was current tonight that before many hours Thaw would be back in the Matteawan Asylum for the Criminal Insane, from which he escaped on Sunday, August 17.

The beginning of the end of Thaw's refuge in Canada came with dramatic swiftness. A writ of habeas corpus, sued out last Saturday at the direction of Mr. Jerome, with John Boudreau, chief of police of this village, as petitioner, was sustained at 2.45 o'clock this afternoon when Matthew Hutchinson, superior judge of the district of St. Francis, sitting in chambers at Sherbrooke.

THAW STUNNED.

Stolid, pallid, numb, Thaw sat not five feet from the judge as he read. When in the very last paragraph the court declared him a free man, whether he desired his liberty or not, Thaw seemed to crumple up in the lounge where he sat. A cigar stump fell from his left hand and scattered ashes on the floor; from his right hand fluttered two gay bits of ribbon a child had given him.

But he did not rise. W. K. McKeown of his counsel, leaned over and patting him on the shoulder, whispered. Thaw raised his big staring eyes and stood up. Immigration officers in the room, headed by E. Blake Robertson, assistant superintendent, moved near him and then Thaw began slowly to move to the door. At the threshold Mr. Robertson said simply:

SEIZED BY IMMIGRATION OFFICERS.

"Come with us, Mr. Thaw." And without a word, except a hoarse good-bye to the reporters Thaw obeyed.

Five minutes later a gray roadster streaked away from the court house. In the back seat was Thaw. He had not even been given time to pack his scanty belongings and voluminous correspondence in his cell. In an hour he was here in Coaticook, guarded in the detention room by two stalwart Dominion police. None but counsel were allowed to see him. The twenty-three miles' journey was without special incident.

Thaw expressed no surprise, evinced no grief. Behind him trailed his defeated lawyers. W. L. Shurtliff, the first to arrive, issued this statement: "If they have doctors all ready to pronounce Thaw insane, as I am informed they have, there is almost no hope of preventing his immediate deportation. I believe if we could find

RATHER BUY THAN RAISE POTATOES

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 4.—Despite the fact that central Alabama has a soil splendidly adapted to the growing of Irish potatoes, the late crop which is now being gathered is so small that it is not sufficient to supply the demand of the State for two weeks. Much disappointment is expressed at the State agricultural department, where the principal effort of the past year has been the preaching of the doctrine of diversification. Instead of planting a variety of crops the farmers generally have placed their entire reliance in cotton. Fortunately the cotton crop this year is good and no great inconvenience will be felt, as money will be plentiful and the farmers can afford to pay the price asked for northern potatoes. More general diversification is expected next year, however, as even the most sanguine cotton farmer does not hope for four big cotton years in succession.
