The Tories of York have about decided that shoes at $20 a pair are a luxury.

Friday night's storm kept some delegates at home, but our old friend James K. was not among the number.

OUT O' ORDER STOMACHS

Indigestion, Acidity, Sourness and Gases ended with "Pape's Diapepsin"

The moment you eat a tablet or two of Pape's Diapepsin all the lumps of indigestion pain, the sourness, heartburn and belching of gases, due to acidity, vanish truly wonderful!

Millions of people know that it is needless to be bothered with indigestion, dyspepsia or a disordered stomach. A few tablets of Pape's Diapepsin neutralize acidity and give relief at once—no waiting! Buy a box of Pape's Diapepsin now! Don't stay dyspeptic! Try to regulate your stomach so you can eat favorite foods without causing distress. The cost is so little. The benefits so great.

The democracy and bone and sinew of York seemed to be up a snuff on Saturday.

Sturdy voters from the body of the county seem to have swung things for Hanson on Saturday.

AWFUL LOSSES BY FIRE IN THE UNITED STATES

(Philadelphia Ledger.)

No nation has a right to pride itself upon its civilization that permits so appalling an annual waste of its substance as is shown in the statistics of fire losses in the United States prepared by the National Board of Fire Underwriters. It is a current impression, but a wholly delusive one, that insurance in some way replaces the annual fire losses. A moment's thought will show that the money spent in insurance is a direct tax upon the business of the country, that the property destroyed is not replaced, and that the greater portion of present losses could be prevented were proper precautions taken.

The mere figures of the waste due to revelations of our indifference and carelessness upon this subject. The last statistics show that during the five years from 1915 to 1919 the losses aggregated nearly one and a half billions of dollars, or an annual average of upward of $283,000,000. Especial point is given to these figures in the light of the housing shortage all over the country by the statement that had that sum been devoted to construction, instead of being wasted shelter could have been provided for 283,000 families in homes averaging in cost $5,000 or to a population equivalent to that of the entire State of Connecticut!

These losses are tragic not merely because of the improvidence they indicate, but because of the actual loss of human life that so frequently attends the fires that caused the losses. Common humanity, if economic prudence is absent, ought to arouse the American people to a realization of their own shortcomings in this direction. It ought not to be necessary for the underwriters to plead with the supposedly hard headed business men of America to put an end to a system involving so vast an economic waste.

It has been estimated that the fire losses of the United States are 700 per cent, greater than those of any other country! This estimate alone is proof, if no other proofs were available, that a large proportion of this loss is preventable, or partly preventable, and it is the absence of proper precautions that constitutes the indictment against our civilization. A careful analysis of the fire records has shown that nearly a quarter of all the fires are strictly preventable, and a third of the remainder probably preventable. This leaves only 40 per cent unaccounted for or where the causes are unascertained. It is no mere guesswork to assume that a very large proportion of the losses from fire are therefore preventable and hence can be classed as the result of criminal indifference and carelessness.

Remedies for the conditions which permit this annual waste are to be found in educational propaganda as to the real economic relation of insurance to fire losses, stricter laws looking to preventive methods and to holding to a more rigid accountability the owners of properties not properly safeguarded, the enactment of better building codes in every state, strict regulations for the storage of explosives and the installation of electrical devices and the perfection of the existing agencies for fighting fires.

It ought not to require great conflagrations to arouse our communities to the necessity of a radical reform in these matters. Every consideration of self-interest and ordinary business horse-sense demands immediate attention, and the formulation of measures to remove the reproach of reckless improvidence that is contained in the statistics of the fire underwriters.

DEAD MAN CALLED BACK BY SCIENCE

Chicago, Feb. 14—Charles McMahon an interior decorator, is said to have passed for a brief instant into the great beyond here today at the Heriot Hospital and lived to tell of it. The man was dead for several minutes, according to physicians, but science was called in to bring him back to life.

"Yes, I was dead," admitted McMahon. "I suppose I was not dead long enough to have impressions. I was conscious of my soul leaving my body for a brief instant, but I cannot remember well. The stuff they revived me with must have acted too quickly. However, I was conscious of a burning fever and a terrible thirst. Maybe I was going to the other place." And he smiled grimly.

McMahon was operated upon at the hospital by Dr. Thomas W. Parsche, assisted by several internes. The operation was for double hernia and four teeth were extracted and adenoids and tonsils removed.

Ether was administered as the anesthetic, and while McMahon was under the influence of it he sank to the dividing line between life and death. His heart stopped beating. The "healing" of lungs, stimulated by the ether, grew faint, and then stopped entirely, and all the breath left his body.

Life apparently had become extinct. A mirror was placed to the man's mouth—the old test of life—and no moisture gathered.

But the physicians would not give up the fight for the man's life. They resorted to oxygen. While death was already in possession—or hovering to claim the body—the three surgeons and nurses fought the dread specter.

When McMahon was finally wheeled into his room at the hospital and opened his eyes, the first thing he said to his wife was:

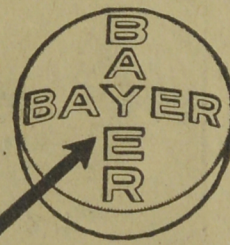

"Am I still alive?"

Then he said later: "They didn't think they would ever bring me back here. They expected to see me downstairs, you see."

"I am sorry that I cannot solve the question of spiritualism, but I am thankful to be alive, you can bet."

ADVERTISING INCREASES THE HEIGHT OF A MOUNTAIN

HOW MANY PEOPLE know the names of the highest mountain peaks in the world?

FOR INSTANCE, "Kinchinjinga" is the name of one of the highest mountains in the world. It is 28,156 feet high.

PIKE'S PEAK is only 14,108 feet high—but it gets credit for being higher because it is advertised.

ADVERTISING will bring many unknown things into prominence during the coming years.

NOW IS THE TIME, when so many articles and commodities of trade are flooding already overstocked markets, for the man with goods to sell to let the people know all about it.

THE BEST WAY to let the people know is to advertise in the newspapers.

YOU HAVE SEEN THIS in the Daily Mail—let the public know what you have to sell through the advertising resources of this newspaper.
