ELECTORAL DISTRICT OF YORK-SUNBURY

Liberal candidate — Lieut. Col. W. J. Osborne.
Committee Rooms, Sharkey Building (Over Lawlor & Cains Store). Open every evening.
All supporters of the party are welcome.

"The Liberal party stands for government of the people, by the people, for the people, as against the alternatives of autocratic government and government by class"—Hon. Mackenzie King.

HEALTH OF MIND.

Quietly but earnestly, a certain group of medical men is working to diminish insanity, crime, delinquency, poverty and a host of other disorders that society is heir to, by timely attention to "mental hygiene."
It is not strange that the earliest efforts to combat disease were directed to cure rather than prevention; nor is it any more to be wondered at that the first efforts at prevention were aimed at physical rather than mental disorders. The development of medical science has been in the natural order of tackling the more obvious problems first.
Preventive medicine, as applied to maladies of the brain and nervous system, is still in its infancy. And yet the knowledge of the specialists in psychotherapy has progressed much further than the public is aware. Children who behave strangely at home or in the school room—men and women who grow furiously angry over a trifle or who are always misunderstood and cannot adjust themselves to their environment—the experts in mental hygiene see in many of these cases the beginnings of nervous disorders that may eventually break down the patient and render him useless and perhaps a menace to society. The experts know that if they could have access to these cases early enough, they could restore the patients to normal health and save them from the misfortune which possibly awaits them if their condition is too long neglected.

A NEW HANDY MAN.

The handy man has had the chance to show what he could do in the new science of aerial transport.
After word came out of the Canadian northwest of the discovery of oil two aeroplanes were sent to Fort Norman. They made it as far as Fort Simpson. One splintered its propeller and damaged its wings in making a landing. The other suffered equally later in attempting to hop off again. A worthy plane was made out of the unhurt parts of the two. But both propellers were gone. One of the aeroplanists had the gifts of the handy man. Oak runners from dog sleighs were commandeered and glued together with material boiled from a moose hide. From this block of wood a propeller was slowly and painfully fashioned with impromptu tools. The work was so sound that the birdmen made a continuous flight of 800 miles across a barren and almost uninhabited country.
The bicycle repair man probably touched the ultimate heights of ingenuity with the contrivances turned out of the wreckage of salvaged parts. Some automobiles in commission today seem to be made up of familiar things rescued from cars of all kinds. The aeroplane handy man will have to strain resourcefulness pretty far to accomplish feats equaling those of the tinkers at bicycles and automobiles. Yet he has made a fair start. To save a machine with the help of dog sleds and a moose skin is a credit to mother wit.
Because of mine explosions during the war (as one expert declares), or because of the absence of wind (according to another), or for some other cause not stated, there is a shortage of herring in English waters, and British sea planes are being used to locate the schools and advise fishermen of their whereabouts. Any shortage of herring is a serious matter to Great Britain, not only because of the loss in foreign trade, but because it is a very important article of food in England itself. The kipper, the bloater and the one-eyed steak (as the red herring is lovingly called) is as common a breakfast dish in a working-man's family across the fater as bacon is here.

The Liberal ladies of Fredericton deserve a great amount of credit for the way they have carried on the campaign in the Liberal interest. It was very discouraging work in making a house canvass, to meet the unscrupulous canvasses of the Poison Gas Squad. But the ladies kept their balance and did not retaliate. One of these days the Poison Gas Squad will find they have cried Wolf too often. As truth and fair play always triumph in the end.

Mr. Lloyd George has settled the controversy between the Disciples and Baptist denominations, both of which claimed him as a member. They submitted the question to him to settle, and the premier replied that while he was a member of the Disciples' church he attended the Baptist chapel. Now you know how it happens that Mr. Lloyd George is premier of a coalition government.

Forty-eight of the fifty fat women who are being scientifically trained by the New York Health Department in an attempt to reach slenderness, rejoice when they step on the scales. But two lament. They are getting fatter instead of thinner. Nature just loves to hide some of the rules by which she governs her conduct. That's why the unexpected happens.

The consensus of opinion at Ottawa is that the Liberals will have the largest group in the new parliament being chosen today. They expected to take at least twenty seats in the Maritime Provinces, sixty-three in Quebec, twenty in Ontario and twenty-five in the West. If they do this they will have a majority over all other parties in the new Parliament.

It was Charles' wife who put him up to that job that resulted so disastrously in Hungary. Well, wives can't be right all the time. They have been responsible for so much high endeavor or on the part of husbands and have so frequently been crowned with success that one may be readily forgiven for a fizzle. Zita didn't get her crown but she probably meant well.

The Montreal Star's Ottawa correspondent says of today's election: The more predominant view on the inside here is that the Liberals will have the largest group; whether it will be sufficient to carry on is another matter.

THROUGH OUR SIEVE

Here's hoping Colonel.
All over but the shouting.
Old fashioned babies had no jazz loving grandmothers.
As for the ups and downs of life. The German mark seems to have a few ups.
Neighbor women expect to see the new widower flirt on his way back from the cemetery.
There is no absolute assurance that the persons looking for the missing link could recognize it.

"Idealism is a fine thing," remarked the Man on the Car "when supported by a solid concrete foundation."

Football develops school spirit even among young people who have been out of school for thirty or forty years.

In spite of the Poison Gas squad it looks as if there would be two kings reigning after today George and William Lyon Mackenzie.

It is well known that a leopard cannot change his spots. But why make so much of it? It is not probable the leopard wants to change his spots.

At this time, a friend advised me to try "Fruit-a-tives". After taking two boxes, I was greatly relieved; and this fruit medicine made me completely well. My digestion and general health are now splendid!"
