

ATTRACTION AT THE GEM

MISS ANNIE ABBOTT, THE FAMOUS GEORGIA MAGNET, WHO WILL APPEAR AT THE GEM TONIGHT.

EVIDENCE FINISHED IN SCOTT ACT CASES

Sussex, N. B., Aug. 27—Every available space in the police court was occupied this afternoon when argument was presented in the cases against four local doctors, who are charged with a violation of the Canada Temperance Act by illegally giving prescriptions for liquor. The large number present listened with rapt attention to the addresses of G. W. Fowler, counsel for the defence, and J. Arthur Freeze, who is conducting the prosecution. The argument of Mr. Fowler was particularly brilliant and was mixed with some bright pieces of humor, which brought out ripples of laughter at times.

The defendants, Drs. W. H. White, D. H. McAlister, G. N. Pearson and J. B. Gilchrist, were all present in court, but the face of the star witness for the prosecution, Anton Gjerde, was not in evidence.

The magistrate will hand down his decision on September 3.

THE STRAIGHT EDGE

One of the most difficult problems in practical mechanics is to make a straight edge. How difficult it is may be judged from an incident that occurred in the shop of a celebrated astronomical instrument maker.

A patron asked what would be the price of a perfect straight edge of glass thirty-six inches long.

"It cannot be made perfect," said the instrument maker; "but it could probably be made with a limit of error amounting to only a fraction of a wave length of light."

"How much would that cost?"

"About $40,000."

It turned out that the customer wanted the straight edge for a scraper, and that an error of one sixty-fourth of an inch would not bother him.

ROLL SAMPLE CASE

Samples Take up Little Room and do not Become Mussed

An ingenious case for dress goods and other fabric samples has been designed. It rolls up closely and makes a compact bundle, yet the samples are not wrinkled or mused in the process. A long piece of flexible material has a series of narrow straps removably attached at intervals along its inner surface. A number of clips form sample attaching elements, and these are removably fastened to the straps. The clips, for example, are run through a bunch of fabrics and hooked onto the straps. The bunches are mounted in the case in transverse rows, with room enough between them to permit of the free and smooth rolling of the strip without wrinkling or creasing the goods. If the salesman desires to remove any particular bunch of samples for closer inspection he can do it—and replace it—instantly.

To bleach celery without the constant labor required to heap soil about it as it grows a bright gardener invented strips of webbing, supported by large wire staples, to be placed about the growing plants.

Laying a Ghost

When we hear of anybody having seen a ghost our first impulse is to explain the matter away. There are more explanations of supernatural visitors than records of their visitations. We are not allowed to believe in ghosts, says the "Medical Press and Circular." A certain house was haunted in the best sense of the word. Horrid shapes and shrieks and sights unholy were its nocturnal lot. The inhabitants enjoyed a pleasantly terrified notoriety, and the reporters exulted. Enter a sanitary inspector. He found a defective flue which flooded the house with a malodorous mixture of sulphurous oxide, carbon monoxide, and other ingredients. The haunted inhabitants were suffering from a chronic intoxication that affected their bodily health and their imagination.

Advance in Lighting

Since the introduction of the incandescent lamp, over thirty years ago, the art of illumination has been as apt an example of meritorious study and its fruits as the world has had. From time to time during the interval from the great Edison discovery of the property of carbonized filament, up to the present, many additions of great utilitarian value have transformed the electric lamp from an experiment into a commodity upon which is dependent the health, comfort and general advance of civilization, and the commercial advantages of which alone have rendered possible an indeterminate production from accelerated industry.

BY NO MEANS THE FIRST.

A local contemporary announced yesterday that the split skirt made its first appearance in Fredericton Tuesday, being worn by a young lady from New England. As a matter of fact the split skirt in all its glory has been worn in Fredericton since spring, not only by visitors but also by ladies of Fredericton and vicinity. The split skirt also has been sold by local stores.

"In the Case of MY Little Girl—"

In choosing and using a soap for your "Little Fairy" you will find no soap so mild, so neutral, so agreeable to tender skins as FAIRY SOAP.

Being made from products that you could eat FAIRY SOAP agrees with even the tender skin of a babe.

FAIRY SOAP

is white—pure—floating. It comes in a handy oval cake. We could charge you five times the price asked for FAIRY SOAP and we could add nothing to its quality.

In higher-priced soaps you are paying for high-priced perfume and fancy wrappers—not better soap.
