

NEWS FORECAST FOR THE COMING WEEK

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29—The first regular session of the Sixty-third Congress will be convened at noon Monday, at which time the life of the special session, which has been in session since April 17, will expire by constitutional limitation. As the two houses already are organized and the legislative machinery in running order it is likely that the regular session will lose little time in getting down to business.

President Wilson has signified his intention to read his annual message to the two houses. It is expected that the message will be much shorter than the country has been accustomed to in late years and that it will be confined only to the most important matters. It is confidently expected also that the President will give most attention to the subject of the trusts and will probably make plain his views concerning an anti-trust measure that he would like to see Congress enact into laws this winter.

The tenth annual convention of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress will begin its session in Washington Wednesday. The convention is expected to be of unusual interest in view of the agitation going on, not only in the United States, but in European countries as well, over the free toll of provision of the Panama Canal bill, and the 5 per cent rebate given ships flying over the American flag, and engaged in foreign trade. President Wilson will deliver the opening address at the convention and will probably make known the position he takes on matters relating to waterway improvement and their relation to the subject of transportation.

During the week Washington will also entertain the fourth national conference of the American Society for Judicial Settlement of International disputes. Among the subjects slated for discussion during the three days of the conference are the needs of an international court of justice, and direct diplomatic settlement between parties in controversy.

The first conference of the National Popular Government League will be held in Washington on Saturday.

I OWE MY LIFE TO
"FRUIT-A-TIVES"

They Did Me More Good Than All
Other Treatments Combined

MRS. H. S. WILLIAMS

PALMERSTON, ONT., June 20th, 1913
"I really believe that I owe my life to 'Fruit-a-tives'." Ever since childhood, I have been under the care of physicians and have been paying doctors' bills. I was so sick and worn out that people on the street often asked me if I thought I could get along without help. The same old stomach trouble and distressing headaches nearly drove me wild. Some time ago I got a box of 'Fruit-a-tives' and the first box did me good. My husband was delighted and advised a continuation of their use. 'Fruit-a-tives' completely cured me.

Today, I am feeling fine, and a physician meeting me on the street, noticed my improved appearance and asked me the reason. I replied, "I am taking Fruit-a-tives." He said, "Well, if 'Fruit-a-tives' are making you look so well, go ahead and take them. They are doing more for you than I can."

Mrs. H. S. WILLIAMS.
'Fruit-a-tives' are sold by all dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

This will be the first nation-wide non-partisan assemblage of men interested in promoting popular government ever held in the United States. Among the men of prominence who are taking a leading part in promoting the conference are Senator Owen of Oklahoma, Senator Norris of Nebraska and Congressman William Kent of California.

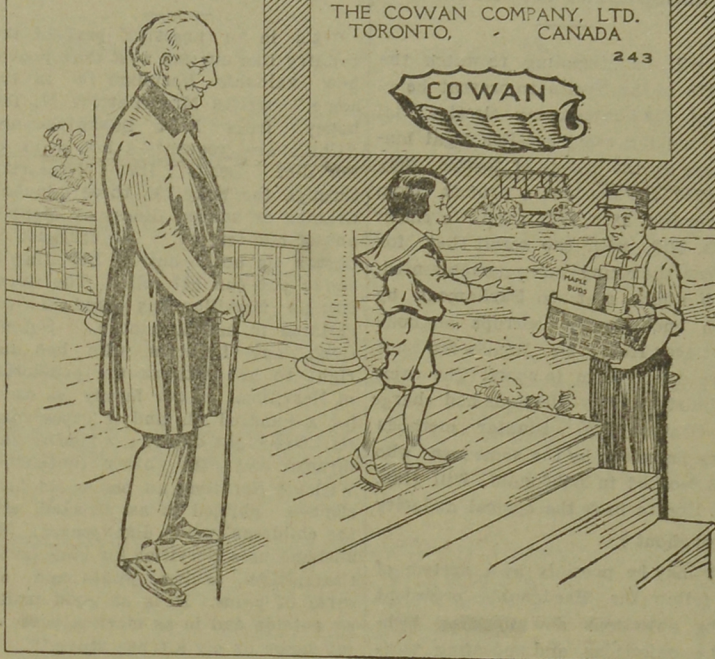

Other conventions of the week of more or less interest and importance to the general public, will be the Third National Conference on Housing, which will be held in Cincinnati; the annual meeting of the American Automobile Association, in Richmond, and the annual convention of the American Institute of Architects, in New Orleans.

CONGRESS SESSION
A LENGTHY ONE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29—When the present special session of Congress expires by limitation at noon next Monday it will have established a record as the longest special session in the history of the national legislative body. It was on April 7 that the special session convened, pursuant to the call of President Wilson, to revise the tariff and to pass a new banking and currency law. When adjournment is reached Monday, the session will have continued at work exactly 238 days, a record for length never before made since the establishment of the national government.

The longest previous extra session was held in the Sixty-first Congress for the enactment of the Payne tariff law. That session began on March 15 and ended on August 5, 1909, making a total of 144 days. When the special session of the Fifty-fifth Congress was called together by President McKinley it took 131 days to place the Dingley tariff law on the statute books, being in session from March 15, 1897, until July 24 of the same year. The special session of the Fifty-eighth Congress was called together Nov. 9, 1903, and remained at work until the regular session of that year, which met on December 7, continuing but twenty-nine days in all. On August 7, 1893, the special session of the Fifty-third Congress was called to meet and remained at work until Nov. 3, of the same year, being at work but eighty-nine days.

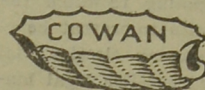

In reconstruction days, immediately following the civil war, there was an extra session which convened on March 4, 1867, and ran into the regular session, which began the following Dec. 2. This was a span of 274 days, and would have constituted an unbeaten record except that there were recesses from March 30 to July 1, and from July 20 to Nov. 21.

NO EMBARGO LIKELY ON CANADIAN SPUDS

Ottawa, Nov. 27—There has been no intimation that the United States authorities contemplating placing an embargo on Canadian potatoes on account of the disease known as powdery scab.

The existence of this potato trouble is known to both the Washington and Ottawa authorities as existing on both sides of the line. It has been the subject of discussion among experts at both the Canadian and American capitals who have exchanged views as to the best way of eradicating it.

However the question of an embargo has not been raised. The matter of correcting the disease is receiving the personal attention of Hon. Mr. Burrell and his experts.
