Child's Narrow Escape

When a train which had left Otawa reached the bridge over a tributary to the Gatineau and just beyond Hull, the engineer noticed a small child on the track. Before he could stop his train the engine had passed over the child. When the train stopped the engineer descended from his cab to look for the youngster's body, when he found that the little one had lain down flat on the trestle work of the bridge where there was just room for the outer edge of the engine to pass over his body without hurting him. In this way he escaped uninjured. He was taken out by the engineer and sent safely home. He did not seem much frightened when taken from his perilous position under the train.

NEW WELSH SCHOOL

Agricultural Courses to Add to Wealth of Principality

In opening the Madryn Castle Farm School, the first of its kind in Wales, Mr. Runciman, President of the Board of Agriculture, said that no man had ever learned all that was to be known about farming. The Madryn Castle School would teach many things and he hoped that the advantages which it supplied would be put to the fullest use. The funds which enabled Wales to make progress in agricultural education were provided by the development commissioners, and he hoped that the day would come when it would call on them for more money for the furthering of the same purpose.

Carnarvon, said Mr. Runciman, could add $1,000,000 yearly to its wealth. He had noticed many patches of ground lying waste. Such a thing would not be tolerated in Holland, Belgium and Denmark, and he hoped that the same would soon be said of Wales.

Madryn Castle School will provide a course of dairying and poultry farming for young women, two summer courses in agriculture for farmers, extending over a period of five months, and a course in horticulture.

Thunderstorm Dangers

When clouds are driven past one another by wind currents, electricity of a frictional kind is produced. Lightning is caused by the passing of the electricity between the two clouds, or from a cloud to the earth. As it travels it expands and drives the air in front of it. When the lightning has passed the air that was driven away returns with a rush, and it is this rush which causes the noise of thunder.

It is not safe to stand under a tree during a thunderstorm, for the lightning usually strikes the highest object underneath it, so that the electric current may travel down the tree and strike the person who is taking shelter. The chief danger is standing under an isolated tree; to stand under one of a thick group in a wood is not so dangerous. It would be more dangerous indeed to stand alone in the middle of a field with no tree near, or in any isolated spot where we happen to be the highest thing amongst our surroundings.
