CATARRH OR COLDS NEVER QUICKLY CURED BY SWALLOWING DRUGS

Cough Syrup, Tablets, etc., go to the Stomach, Perhaps Sicken It, But Don't Kill the Germs of Catarrh

THE DIRECT BREATHING CURE IS BEST

To cure an ailment in the throat, or chest, to rout out Catarrh or Asthma, it is essential that the medicine be conveyed direct to the affected parts. This is why no other remedy has achieved such world-wide success as Catarrhzone, which alone can be breathed in one second to every air cell in the breathing organs. The healing vapors of Catarrhzone mix with the breath and descend through the throat, down the bronchial tubes, to the deepest air-cells in the lungs—all parts are saturated with the rich piney essences that ease, heal and cure.

"No one ever contracted a more obstinate attack of nasal catarrh than I suffered a month ago," writes Mrs. G. E. Root, a well-known resident of Bridgetown, N.I. "My head ached terribly, I sneezed about every three minutes but still my nostrils were entirely closed and I could not breathe through them. Ten minutes inhaling Catarrhzone gave me a little relief, so I continued to use Catarrhzone every hour and before the day was out I had improved. Catarrhzone quickly cured me. I am well ever since."

There is no remedy so certain and safe as Catarrhzone, but being a good remedy it is imitated. Beware of the substitutor. Large Catarrhzone lasts two months, price $1.00; smaller sizes 25c. and 50c. At all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhzone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

SIGHTS IN CHINATOWN

The Chinese Lend a Picturesque Touch to Vancouver Streets

It is hard to tell whether the Chinese and Japanese settlers that are so numerous on the Pacific coast should be called Westerners or Easterners but they claim the latter term themselves. You meet them in Vancouver wherever you go, said a visitor to British Columbia. The most picturesque figures on the streets of Vancouver are the Chinamen you occasionally meet in a blue blouse and umbrella-shaped hat with a long pole across their shoulders from which baskets of vegetables hang at each end. It is only in Chinatown that one sees Chinese women, and even these are very rare.

On entering a Chinese store you are transported for the time being across the seas. The silks, embroideries, basket-work, carving and china, all in Eastern designs, either beautiful or strangely intricate; the display of rich color and the haunting smell, suggesting sandalwood or the sickly, sweet perfume of opium, all makes you feel you are in another quarter of the globe. There is also a profusion of toys and knick-knacks, the prices of which seem surprisingly small compared to the amount of hand-work necessary for their manufacturing.

These stores of general merchandise are found on the main business streets where they attract the eyes of tourists and English-speaking residents, but the shops that cater to the needs of the Chinese population are found in a crowded section of the city known as Chinatown. Some of the buildings are distinctly Chinese in character and they all are ornamented with picturesque signs. There are barber-shops—and sometimes the barber is a woman; there are tailors who make garments of European cut, preferably in a fine cloth of light blue or purple; there are food shops where the most interesting variety of cooked foods is sold, and there are many restaurants labelled "Chop Suey," some of which are well patronized by the British population.

Of course here, as in China, the chief food of the people is rice and there are rice mills in Chinatown where the rice is separated from its barley-like hulls by being pounded in a stone jar operated by the treadmill power of a patient Chinaman.

In Victoria the Chinese settlers are even more in evidence, forming one-sixth of the total population of that city and the buildings here are more picturesque and more evidently Chinese in character. Some of the Chinamen live in house-boats, others have little houses in the country and seem very successful in intensified farming.

A free telephone office for the use of pilots and ships' officers has been opened on Platte Fougère, the unattended lighthouse guarding the rocky approach to St. Peter Port, Guernsey. The instrument, which calls up Guernsey, is gained by climbing a forty-two-rung ladder.

The Country of Vineyards

France is the greatest wine-producing country in the world, but its vineyards are slowly declining. None the less, no fewer than a million and a half Frenchmen still are proprietors of vineyards, and between them they own well over 4,000,000 acres.

much of his time with her. Witness had frequently pleaded that he give up the other woman but always had met with a refusal. She finally had left him, taking her daughter with her.

The defendant conducted a successful butchering business which brought in a yearly profit of $2000 at the least. He owned property in Sussex consisting of dwelling, barn, slaughter-house and eighteen acres of land that were worth $5000. At Swift Current, Sask., he owned two lots worth $3000 and a $1500 interest in property at Coal Branch, Kent County.

Rev. R. S. Crisp proved that he had married the plaintiff and defendant at Moncton while pastor of the Central Methodist Church there in 1888.

Edwin Fenwick, brother of the defendant, and Walter Hatheway swore that he had had illicit intercourse at Mrs. Perry's near St. John.

In making argument Mr. Fowler pointed out that the plaintiff was educating her daughter and had no personal means. He thought $700 or $800 per year would be suitable alimony.

CASE VS. CASE

In the suit of Edgar Case vs. Eva Case the parties in which lived at Burton Mr. Guthrie called witness to corroborate and support evidence of alleged accomplices to the infidelity of the wife. His Honor on the previous occasion having declared that he attached no weight to such evidence as was given at that time.

Mahalia Cochrane wife of Roy Cochrane of Victoria, Sunbury County, swore that while she had stayed at the Case home in June 1911 the defendant who was sleeping with her, had got up and gone to the room of Henry McDougall in another part of the house and gone to bed with him. Witness had followed her and heard them. On another occasion Mrs. Case had asked McDougall to go to the milk-house with her to get a cup of cream. They had been gone an hour and had come back without any cream.

Mrs. Prudence Martin swore that she had seen Mrs. Case in compromising situations and also that she had told her of being in similar situations. Recalled to the stand, witness said that she and Mrs. Case both had worked at Kelly's Hotel, Oromocto after plaintiff and defendant had parted. Mrs. Case had gone driving at night with a man who was engaged in railroad construction and after coming back had told witness of certain details of the drive. Witness while at the Case house, had seen Mrs. Case curling Ezra Brown's hair with her fingers.

Ezra Brown, the next witness, denied that he had ever had improper relations with Mrs. Case or that he ever had told her husband or any one else that he had. Witness had never been caught at the Case house by the husband, never had run to the woods and never had been driven away by Case.

Once he had gone there and talked to Mrs. Case and after remaining an hour had gone away walking up the road, Case came along with others. Witness had seen him coming. Witness had come to Fredericton on the same steamer with the defendant. They had been together about the city by day but not at night. They had not stayed at the same place. Mrs. Martin's statement concerning him was not true.

The case then closed.

MERRY WAR ON

An influential element of the party favor holding the seat open until after the federal election is held. They take the ground that if Mr. McLeod has opposition he will never see Ottawa as an M.P. and the way should be left open for him to re-enter the local field.

In the meantime the merry war goes on. Mr. Pinder and his friends are making a bluff at supporting McLeod, but are praying that he will have opposition and get the worst licking ever administered to a candidate in York County.
