STOVALL SAYS FEDERAL LEAGUE IS AFTER PLAYERS

Expects That All Clubs of New Organization Will Have Major League Men

Toledo, O., Nov. 3.—George Stovall, newly appointed manager of the Kansas City Federal League Club, arrived here this morning. He announced that every club in the Federal League will have five or six men now on major league rosters before the opening of the 1914 race. "We don't intend to go after players who are still under contract," he said, "but we are going after men who are retained only under the reserve clause. By offering them a thousand or so more than they are getting I am quite sure of being able to land enough for our needs. We do not intend to go after any of the big stars of the game, but will content ourselves with smaller fry right now."

FOREST RESERVES

Thirty-five Thousand Eight Hundred Square Miles of Reservation

Over ten thousand five hundred square miles were added recently to the existing area of Dominion Forest Reserves, making a total of over thirty-five thousand eight hundred square miles of reserved forest land in the Western Provinces under Dominion jurisdiction. Of this reserved area, three thousand seven hundred and eighty-two square miles are found in Alberta, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two square miles in Saskatchewan and four thousand one hundred and eight square miles in Manitoba. Over two-thirds of the total area is found in Alberta, owing to the fact that practically all the eastern slope of the Rockies has been set apart as a forest reserve, not only to perpetuate the supply of timber, but to preserve and equalize the flow of the large prairie rivers which have their source in this reserved area.

These western reserves are created by the Dominion Government as cited in the Act "for the maintenance, protection and reproduction of the timber growing thereon, or which may hereafter grow thereon, for the conservation of the minerals and the protection of the animals, birds, and fish therein, and for the maintenance of conditions favorable to a continuous water supply." To accomplish these ends the reserves must first be protected from fire, and under the direction of technical foresters and supervisors, fire-lines are being cut or ploughed, trails are being cut, telephone lines and lookout stations installed, "caches" of tools distributed in accessible places throughout the reserves, and efficient patrols established in accessible places throughout the reserves, and efficient patrols established.

Nor is the timber so protected allowed to die of old age. The foresters determine at what diameter in each section the maximum production is attained and when the trees reach this size, they are granted free or for a nominal sum to homesteaders who apply to the forest officials for cutting permits. Care is taken not to allow over-cutting, for it is the forester's aim to crop the forest perpetually and at the same time increase its producing capacity by proper methods of management. Thus, by this policy of forest reservation, instead of denuded hillsides, drifting sand and barren rocks and muskegs, these areas will in time be covered with great tracts of forest owned by the people and supplying their wants, not only now but to all future time, when countries with less foresight will be in the throes of a timber famine.

ALABAMA WANTS MORE CATTLE RAISERS

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 4.—Alabama's "biggest and best" land congress opened here today and there is every reason to think that the prediction of the advertising matter will materialize. Gov. O'Neal this morning urged the delegates to use every legitimate means of increasing the number of farmers in the State. There is room for thousands of intelligent, stock-raising farmers in the State. The keynote of the three day's congress is certain to be the question of increasing the amount of live stock on Alabama farms. When the South is more fully recognized as holding the key to the nation's food supply land values will soar, according to the judgment of most of those present. Joseph O. Thompson, the largest farm operator in the State presided at today's session.

JACK BARRY HONORED BY WORCESTER FRIENDS

Athletics' Shortstop Banquetted in His Home Town
---Connie Mack Defended John McGraw of New York Giants---Said He Always Found Him a Gentleman

Worcester, Nov. 3.—Worcester turned out tonight to honor its newest champion, Jack Barry, the shortstop of the World's Champions, the Philadelphia Athletics, and the greetings given the clever ball player who claims the Heart of the Commonwealth as his home has never been equalled in enthusiasm nor in numbers of those who participated. Champions in other lines of sport have come back to get cordial receptions but Jack Barry's welcome tonight topped them all and it was as much a tribute to the great game he plays so well as it was to the popular young athlete.

Men who have won international fame had a part in the program of the night.

LANE OF RED FIRE.

Their sentiments were cheered to the echo by a remarkable gathering of four hundred men. Bankers, manufacturers, lawyers, doctors, educators, priests, clerks and laboring men gathered around the banquet board.

The dinner was limited to hundreds, but crowds that numbered far into the thousands lined the streets to cheer Barry and Mack during a short parade, headed by the Brookfield Brass Band, which came down from Connie Mack's birthplace to do its share in honoring the champions.

Between cheering crowds, through a lane of red fire, the champions rode in automobiles through Front, Main and Franklin streets to the Bancroft Hotel, where the banquet was served. Here the little town of Brookfield was given further prominence by the appearance of George M. Cohan, the actor-author, who remained at the dinner until it was time for him to go to the theatre where he was playing.

The head table, set on a platform decorated with flowers, was occupied by Paul McHale, chairman of the committee; Congressman Samuel E. Winslow, toastmaster of the evening; Jack Barry, Connie Mack, "Stuffy" McInnis, Mayor George M. Wright, Rev. Dr. John J. McCoy, ex-Mayor James Logan, Webster Thayer, Samuel J. Elder of Boston, Carl Bonney, George Wright, the old-time ball player; George M. Cohan and Geo. F. Booth, publisher of the Worcester paper which started the move to give Barry the reception by calling on the fans to turn out in his honor.

Mayor Wright tendered the congratulations of the city to its newest champion and then Rev. Dr. McCoy, on behalf of Barry's admirers, presented him with a magnificent clock in bronze and gold, and on behalf of Sylvester Z. Poli with a valuable silver loving cup. Both were suitably inscribed.

Barry accepted the gifts and the expressions of good will in a modest little speech, after which the gathering rose and sang "My Hero." Webster Thayer told what baseball has done and is doing for the young collectors of the country, and ex-Mayor James Logan told what a good thing it is for the business man of the country to run occasionally on a "loose pulley" and spend an afternoon in the bleachers.

MACK DEFENDS MCGRAW.

Connie Mack said it was a great pleasure for him to come "to help honor one of the greatest ball players this country has ever produced" and he then told how he had worked to develop a champion team.

In defense of the game, he said there is less dissipation and less dirty playing in the game today than ever and he took occasion to refute the hints that are sometimes made that the game is not on the level. As a clincher to his statement he called attention to the hundreds of big league players who retire from the game, many of them with a grievance, but none of them say the game is crooked because they cannot say so.

In speaking of Manager McGraw of the New York Giants, Mack said:

"There has been a great deal said about McGraw. I have had people say to me they hoped I'd win the pennant because they didn't like McGraw's actions."

"They can't seem to get away from the time when he was a member of the Baltimore club, but I want to say to you tonight and to all the baseball world that I have found McGraw the gentleman under every condition."

When Samuel J. Elder was presented he was greeted with Yale's "Boola, Boola," and he made a speech filled with good stories and an eloquent defense of the game. He said:

"I'm never so impatient as when the hint is thrown out that our great national game is not on the level."

Letters of regret were read from Timothy H. Murnane, Hugh Duffy and Robert B. McRoy of the Boston American Baseball Club.

::: SPORTS OF ALL KINDS :::

Bill Phillips, manager of the Indianapolis Federal League Champions, has been re-engaged as pilot for next season.

It is said that Danny Hoffman, the old Philadelphia player, will purchase the Bridgeport Eastern Association Club in the near future.

Fred Lake, Detroit scout and former Boston manager, has taken a twenty days option on the New Bedford team, of the New England League.

Chicago Winter League experts have it doped out that Chappell, Fournier and Collins will compose the White Sox outfield next season.

Eddie Hart and "Doc" Hillebrand are working overtime at Princeton trying to bolster up the Tiger rush line for the Harvard game.

Captain Hoge, of the Army eleven, and Gilchrist, the Navy Leader, both play end.

Wagner, Pittsburgh's star football player, is not related to Homer Wagner, the Pirate shortstop.

The Harvard eleven has been extremely fortunate this season insofar as injuries injuries to players are concerned.

Wilson, of the Yale squad, who was first tried at quarter, is making a brilliant showing as a running back.

George (Knockout) Brown and Tom Gibbons will meet in Hudson Wis. Nov. 11.

Manager Bill Clyner, of the Buffalo Club, who also owns the Wilkes-Barre team in the New York State League, is anxious to dispose of his Wilkes-Barre holdings.

Dartmouth is in great condition for its game with Pennsylvania. The Green is out to duplicate its grand work at Princeton in the coming battle with the Quakers.

In recognition of the great battle Washington and Jefferson put up against Yale, Capt. Ketcham gave them the football used by the two teams in their recent game.

Charley Brickley, the great Harvard pinter, is a hard punisher of shoe leather. It is not an uncommon thing for Charley to use two pairs of shoes in a single game, and then toss them aside forever after the contest.

Captain Henry of Brown, received a shaking up in the Gilt Edge train accident at Westerly, Conn., recently. Henry had been on the football injured list and his experience on the "choochoo" didn't help the injured leg a bit.

In beating both Michigan and Wisconsin the Michigan Aggies have shown the best football in the Middle West so far this season.

Patsy Cardiff, the old-time heavy weight boxer, has been sent to an asylum at Salem, Ore.

Promoter Jim Coffroth, of San Francisco, is trying to arrange a clash between Mike Gibbons and Jim Clabby.
