HYDE'S TRIAL NEXT
DECEMBER

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 6.—When the case of Dr. B. Clarke Hyde is called in the Criminal Court here on Monday the prosecuting attorney will ask that the trial be delayed until December in order that he may have more time to prepare his evidence. It is expected that the defense will agree to the postponement.

This will be the fourth trial of the famous case. Dr. Hyde is held for the alleged murder of his wife's uncle, Col. Thomas H. Swope, a millionaire philanthropist of this city. The motive alleged for the crime was a desire that his wife might inherit a part of her uncle's fortune. Col. Swope died on October 2, 1909. Dr. Hyde was tried in the May following, convicted and sentenced to imprisonment for life. The high court remanded the case for a new trial. The second trial ended abruptly when one of the jurors escaped from the marshals. The third trial resulted in a disagreement of the jury.

SAVING THE SEALS

Only International Agreement Saved
Them From Extinction

Russia, England, Japan and America agreed to suspend sealing in the open sea for fifteen years and sealing on land for five years. The need for this close season is explained by George Archibald Clark:

Pelagic sealing proved very destructive to the herd. It respected neither sex nor condition of the animals found, and the catch fell principally upon the nursing females, which were taken upon the summer feeding grounds in Behring Sea; for when the migration route of the seals had been covered the sealers entered Behring Sea and lay in wait for the mother seals as they visited the fishing banks one or two hundred miles distant from the islands for the purpose of feeding. As a result of the death of the mother, the dependent young starved to death on the rookeries. In the fall of 1896 sixteen thousand fur seal pups died of starvation on the rookeries of St. Paul and St. George Islands.

As pelagic sealing developed through the increasing number of ships, its catch grew from 8,000 at the beginning to a maximum of 140,000 in 1894, but this could not last, and with the declining herd the pelagic catch also began to decline. In the season of 1911, the last of the industry, the catch numbered about 15,000 skins. From the known catch of the seal, the loss and from conservative estimate as to animals killed but not recovered it is apparent that more than a million breeding female fur seals and a like number of unborn and dependent young were destroyed during the thirty odd years the pelagic industry has been in operation. The result is the depleted condition in which we find the herd to-day. Our best information places the number of animals in the herd in 1897 at between two and three millions. It numbers to-day about 215,000.

FREAK PLANTS

Trap and Devour Insects, Digesting
Bodies of Their Prey

Among the strangest of all nature's products are the insect-eating, or carnivorous, plants. They actually catch, eat, and digest various insects by a process practically as thorough as that of the animals.

The so-called Venus "fly trap" or "vegetable butcher" is one of the most remarkable of these. It grows in a wild state in the forests of North Carolina, where it creeps along the ground, presenting thousands of gaping mouths, into which the unsuspecting fly or insect is lured and imprisoned.

The leaves of this plant consist of two valves, shaped like clam shells, which, when closed, form a trap. The ends of the leaves are baited with a sweet juice which attracts the insect. The leaves are covered with minute hairs, which correspond very closely to the arrangements of the nervous system in animals. On the edge of the leaves are rows of long, fine teeth.

When the unsuspecting insect has been lured to the leaf by the attractive juice he steps upon one of the microscopic hairs, and the two valves shut with a snap, keeping Mr. Fly secure.

Still more curious are certain plants in Borneo, which distill liquors for the purpose of luring their victims. Many of these are miniature grove shops. In their leaves are little pitchers, which are filled with hard alcoholic liquors. Each of the pitchers has a tight-fitting cover which keeps the dew and rain from diluting the liquor. No scientists have yet succeeded in analyzing the liquors with any satisfactory results, but it is evident that they are of different kinds, since different species of the plants attract different insects.

The most unique of all the productions of nature is the plant popularly known as the "goose plant." It is a native of Guatemala, and receives its name from the bud, which has the shape of a goose floating along the water with its neck proudly arched. The flower is very beautiful, but repulsive. It has an odor resembling that of decayed meat. The plant attracts the carrion fly, which is the agent of fertilization.

BUT
DR. FOWLER'S
EXTRACT OF
WILD STRAWBERRY
CURED HER.

Mrs. JACOB SMITH, Manor, Sask., writes: "I am pleased to express my gratitude for your remedy in my case. I had a terrible attack of Diarrhoea. Just about every three minutes, I would have a passage, and it would keep this up for a week at a time, causing the passage of bloody water. I was so pained and weak, I could not do anything. Seeing your DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY recommended, I tried it, and it thoroughly cured me. It is the only medicine I will now have for this complaint."

DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY has been on the market for over 65 years, and is known from one end of Canada to the other as a certain cure for all Bowel and Summer Complaints.

When you ask for "DR. FOWLER'S" be sure and get it, as there are many imitations.
