

Songs of the Balkans.
The part played by Balkan song in keeping fresh the hatred of the Christians against the Turks in the peninsula has been very great. Popular poetry in the Balkans has ended by creating one unique hero, Marka Kraljević. He is a great warrior, combining in his own person the most notable qualities of William Tell, the Cid, Don Quixote and Pantagruel. He is continually deceiving the Turk by all manner of disreputable stratagems and always justifies the means by success. Marka is a great feudal lord, and he spends his time in challenging Turks to single combat. Hero-like, his successes are prodigious.

VARIOUS METHODS OF PRESERVING EGGS

They Must be Fresh in the First Place and Should be Scrupulously Clean

There is no better method of preserving eggs than in water-glass, or soluble silicate of soda, which is not an expensive material to buy, as a pound, which only costs a very few cents, dissolved in the correct proportion of water, will preserve a large number. The amount of water to be added depends upon the sample, but as full directions are usually sent with each tin, it is difficult to go wrong. The eggs are placed in a glazed vessel, and covered with the liquid, care being taken that all the eggs are submerged. When they are wanted for use, they should be gently lifted out of the liquid, wiped dry, and used as speedily as possible.

The oldest, but still a very excellent method of preserving is by means of salt, lime and water. Four gallons of lime, one of salt, and twenty of water, should be mixed together, and when the water has taken into solution as much lime and salt as it is capable of doing, it should be allowed to settle, the clear liquid being used to pour over the eggs, which have previously been placed in a suitable vessel. This method has the disadvantage of making the shells rough and extremely brittle—so much so, in fact, that, as a rule, eggs that have been preserved in lime cannot be boiled, the shells cracking with the least touch. When eggs are to be preserved for only a very short time—for two or three months—dry salt answers admirably, but this is an unsuitable method for a longer period. If a new-laid egg be dipped into boiling water, it slightly coagulates the white, and so prevents the air getting to the contents. For home use this method is suitable, but it does not answer when the eggs are for market. Smearing with vaseline or butter keeps the contents fresh for a week or two, but is not recommended for more than a month.

Only perfectly fresh eggs should be preserved, and it is largely a waste of labor and money to attempt keeping eggs that are more than two or three days old when placed in the preservative. They should be allowed to settle twelve hours after being laid, but the sooner after this time they can be treated the better will they be when they are wanted for use. Dirty eggs do not preserve at all well, and if there is any dirt on the shells they should be washed. A dirty egg has an injurious effect not only on its own contents, but on all those that come into contact therewith. As infertile eggs preserve better than those containing a germ, it is advisable when producing eggs with this end in view to keep the hens apart from the male birds.

OUR PUBLIC SPIRIT

Scotchman Says Unpleasant Things About Canadians

A young Scotchman, after three years in the Canadian West, wrote a letter to the London Everyman describing in unvarnished terms some of the Canadian characteristics, says The Ottawa Citizen. They can hardly be said on the whole to be complimentary, which doubtless makes their expression all the more valuable from the Canadian standpoint. It is always well to "see ourselves as others see us," and a touch of Scotch opinion may in this case help to improve the spirit of Canada. One of his criticisms regarding the latter is as follows: "Nor does the public spirit of the Dominion strike a stranger as abundant. It does not find its expression in the Territorial forces, at any rate, which are manned, out of all proportion, by home-born Britons. Certain Canadians suffer from the gratifying belief that the Dominion saved the effete Empire in 1901, and are indignant when told that of the Canadian contingent sent to South Africa eighty per cent. were home countrymen. Nor does public spirit find much expression in local government, where the 'best people' are conspicuously absent—too busy making money to bother with such matters."

Without discussing the incident of 1901, The Citizen says by way of comment, the truth of the rest of the criticism must be confessed. Canadians have been so busy with the multifarious tasks of a new country that they have not had much time to devote to the interests of the country at large. But surely Canada has now advanced in development to such an extent that more attention can be given to the public interest. Unless such attention is given, no greatness of future can be safely predicted. That public spirit that makes a citizen think and feel and act for Canada, as for his larger self, is without doubt the great need of Canada to-day. Others recognize the fact, and Canadians cannot too soon follow their example, and profit by it.

Newly-laid Eggs

Bacteriologists tell us that in an egg evaporation and the action of bacteria are evident by the third or fourth day. There are some who believe that from that time on the egg is not perfectly "fresh," or "new laid," nor any other name that should mean the best. It is edible for some time after that if kept properly, but it is not of first quality, and all the statements to that effect cannot make it so. If the farmer has to have longer time than three days to get his eggs to the consumer, he should have to classify them other than the highest, and he cannot expect to compete with the poultryman who delivers his product 72 hours old.

Beets For Cattle

If beets are fed to cows in the barn in large quantities the place should be well cleaned up and aired before each feeding, else the effect on the atmosphere will be so bad it will taint the milk.
