LORD AND LADY ASHBURNHAM HONORED

The National Anthem was played by the Red Hungarian Band.

Mr. Poole, on behalf of the Committee, expressed the thanks of the Committee to the Earl for his great kindness in coming amongst them to open the proceedings and their deep appreciation of the honor conferred upon them and the substantial value that it gave to their operations. He felt sure that the townspeople of Battle, who appointed the Committee, and all the visitors who favored them with their presence, would associate themselves in thanking His Lordship for his visit. (Hear, hear.) The vote of thanks was heartily carried.

The Earl, responding, said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, thank you very much. It has been a pleasure and not a duty to come here and open the Fete."

A BABY SHOW

arranged by Mrs. Keen and her friends in marquees, in the grounds, was a very popular event. Eighty babies were entered by their proud parents for prizes, including silver teapots, mugs, knives, forks and spoons and a mug for the prettiest baby. The decision was by ballot of the onlookers.

The Countess of Ashburnham distributed the prizes to the winners of the whist drive and the mothers of successful babies at seven o'clock, at the second platform. The Earl of Ashburnham, the Very Rev. Dean Currie, Mr. Pole, Dr. Brough, Dr. Kendall, Mr. J. W. M. King, Mr. Gebbin and others supported.

Dean Currie said that, in the first place, they were met at a great Fete to help the Red Cross Society. The object of that Society was to render help and the Society had that day to thank its helpers. He was asked, on behalf of the Committee, to express their deep gratitude to those who had come there, whether as performers or as other helpers, and had made that Fete so great a success. His second duty was to introduce Lady Ashburnham and ask her to kindly give their prizes. Wherever the British Ensign flew, there they would see the Red Cross. Let them hope that the teaching of both was the same to help those who needed help. That thought of the Standard of the British Empire reminded them that Lady Ashburnham came from that great Dominion which had apparently so vast and grand a future, which was associated in their minds with so many who had gone away from that parish of Battle and that county of Sussex into that new country. Lady Ashburnham had come from that great Dominion, and they, as Sussex people, gave her a hearty welcome—(applause)—united as she now was, to one of their oldest families. They were deeply sensible of the honor which the first public act which Lady Ashburnham did in Sussex was the presentation of their prizes. (Applause.) They thanked her very sincerely for coming and as Sussex people they held out to her a most cordial hand of welcome. (Applause.)

The Countess of Ashburnham said that she was sure she considered it a great honor to present the prizes in connection with the Red Cross Society. Although a stranger she would do the very best she could and if she made any mistakes she hoped they would be overlooked. (Applause.) The Countess then presented the prizes, shaking hands with the winners and speaking some kindly words to each.

The Countess took each of the babies in her arms.

Dr. Brough, moving a vote of

CREDITORS' MEETING.

A meeting of the creditors of Lucy & Co. was held yesterday at the office of Sheriff Howe. Mr. J. J. F. Winslow, acting for H. Vineberg & Co., objected that the execution had not been properly executed but upon Mr. P. A. Guthrie promising that proper execution would be made the meeting proceeded. Liabilities are about $16,000 and assets, $12,000. The sheriff was confirmed as assignee and James Holland of Fredericton, and T. H. Somerville of St. John, appointed inspectors. An inventory of the stock will be taken at once.

thanks to the Countess, said that she had done her work nobly. (Applause.) The Countess bore a name which was well known and people of that name were always respected. Apart from her position, the Countess had shown that she was a kind and sympathetic woman. (Loud applause.) She handled the children in such a way that it must have gone to the hearts of the mothers. Let the mothers put the teapots away in the cupboard and stick to milk for the babies. Let them give them the teapots after they were married. (Laughter and applause.) He believed that that was Lady Ashburnham's first public appearance. He could assure her that, whether she liked it or not, she would have to make a good many. She had been so successful and charming that her services would be much sought.

The Countess thanked them for their hearty vote of thanks. If at any time she could be of any use she would be only too delighted to help them. (Applause.)

Mr. Morrissey will sing "Mississippi Dippy Dip." The "Great Ocean Disaster" will be here soon.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Mr. Charles Wade postmaster at Penniac celebrated his 80th birthday Monday, on which occasion a large number of friends and neighbors gathered at his home and fittingly observed the event. Mr. Wade was prepared for the affair and had a bountiful repast ready for all who called. Among the merry party who partook of the host's generosity were the two County Councillors and their friends and supporters who had been holding a meeting in the hall at Penniac. Congratulations and good wishes were showered upon Mr. Wade who made an excellent entertainer. Bright and early next morning Mr. Wade was in his field mowing oats as active as a man of twenty.

BASEBALL NOTES

It is said the National Commission already is on the job planning for the world's series between the Giants and the Athletics.

The New York Yankees are fast getting together a team of youngsters. Outside the pitching staff, Sweeney, Cree and Hartzell are the only oldtimers in the regular line.

August 16 was "Home Run Day" in the big show. On that day circuit drives were made by Baker, of the Athletics and Foster of Washington, in the American League, and Cravath, of Philadelphia (2), Doyle and Herzog, of New York, Nonchey, of St. Louis (2), and Wagner, of Pittsburgh, in the National League.
