"In the Case of MY Little Girl—"

In choosing and using a soap for your "Little Fairy" you will find no soap so mild, so neutral, so agreeable to tender skins as FAIRY SOAP.

Being made from products that you could eat, FAIRY SOAP agrees with even the tender skin of a babe.

FAIRY SOAP

is white—pure—floating. It comes in a handy oval cake. We could charge you five times the price asked for FAIRY SOAP and we could add nothing to its quality.

In higher-priced soaps you are paying for high-priced perfume and fancy wrappers—not better soap.

HERE FOR THE EXHIBITION

OFFICIAL ANNOUNCER

W. G. BIRMINGHAM
The Greatest Novelty Advertiser in the Maritime Provinces.

Mr. Birmingham is here under the direction of Mr. W. S. Hooper and his announcing will add greatly to the success of the exhibition, people will know when and where different events are to take place.

Mr. Birmingham is one of the cleverest Megaphone announcers in the Dominion of Canada, is especially well known in different towns and cities from Glace Bay to Yarmouth, N. S.

He has advertised with great success for McKay Auto Car Co., The Rexall Stores throughout the provinces, Maritime Creamery Co., different amusement concerns and was at the Toronto Exhibition this season as the chief announcer, was also at Digby for the Guides Association meeting and the sports run along in an extraordinarily smooth manner all to the credit of Mr. Birmingham.

Many times accidents have been avoided at big convention by his announcing, this was demonstrated at the Halifax Exhibition last season when Mr. Walsh, the aviator, fell to the ground and all the great mass of women in the grand stand began to jump and become panic stricken when Mr. Birmingham from a point where he could see all over the grounds announced to the people on the grounds that Mr. Walsh landed safely, saving no doubt a panic. He can be heard two miles away when announcing.

SAW RECORD OF PAST

ENGLISH LADIES HAD QUEER EXPERIENCE NEAR PARIS.

Two Tourists at Versailles When Visiting the Petit Trianon Saw People Running About in Quaint Costumes of Over a Hundred Years Ago—One of Them Also Saw Marie Antoinette Sketching in the Garden.

The strange experiences of two English ladies at Versailles twelve years ago, an account of which caused considerable discussion when published shortly afterwards, under the title of "An Adventure," are again recounted in book form, with appendix, maps and notes.

These ladies, who do not disclose their real names, but write under the signatures of "Elizabeth Morison" and "Frances Lamont," were on a visit to Paris in the year 1901, and one afternoon in August went by train to Versailles. After "doing" the palace they decided to have a look at the Petit Trianon. They were strong-minded, healthy, practical, well-educated women, not at all imaginative or subjects to hallucinations. After passing the Grand Trianon they both felt an extraordinary sensation of depression and unreality creeping over them, for which there was absolutely no reason.

Farther on they found the garden or some such place in great haste, and suddenly a young man, who appeared to be a tourist, walked by their side. His face was glowing red, as if from great exertion, and he seemed excitedly that they were not to go near the house, and then he completely vanished. He was dressed in an old-fashioned costume, as was a hundred years ago. When he went was a mystery—he simply disappeared.

They continued their way in silence, greatly mystified and oppressed with an uncanny feeling. They came to a square, solidly built house, the long windows of which were shuttered. On a terrace in front of the house a lady was sitting, apparently engaged in sketching. She saw them, and when they passed turned and looked at them. It was not a green face, but rather pretty.

She had on a shady white hat, and on a good deal of fair hair that framed round her forehead. Her dress was very old-fashioned and of the style worn before the French Revolution. From pictures and written descriptions of Marie Antoinette afterwards obtained, they found that this lady was the exact counterpart of the unfortunate Queen who had lived in that place more than a hundred years before.

Her dress puzzled them at the time, but they put her down as a tourist with rather eccentric ideas about clothes.

They crossed the terrace to the south-west corner; then, seeing that one of the windows was unshuttered, turned to go towards it, but were interrupted by a young man suddenly coming out of a door, which he banged noisily behind him. He called out to them that the way into the house was by the Cour d'Honneur and offered to show the way. He looked inquisitively amused as he walked by them till they came to an entrance in the front drive.

In the front entrance hall they met a French wedding party, who walked arm-in-arm in a procession round the rooms. Here the creepy, uncanny feeling which had haunted them all the afternoon left them as suddenly as it had come, and they felt quite lively again. Coming out of the Cour d'Honneur, they took a carriage which was standing there and drove back to Versailles and had tea.

The strange and remarkable part of all is that the scenes they saw, the people they met, the places they passed through—with the exception of the Petit Trianon—did not really exist. This was conclusively proved later. Searches, extending over several years, showed them that the scenes they saw and the persons they met had existed at the time of the French Revolution more than a hundred years before.

They visited Versailles many times afterwards, and were never able to find the places they had passed through that afternoon; everything was quite different from what they had then seen. They happened to find that door again, but it had not been opened for more than fifty years, and there was no flooring inside the building, showing that it was quite impossible for any one to have come through even if the door could have been opened.

The only explanation of the phenomena is found in the occult doctrine of the astral light which is now finding favor with many leading scientists. The results of psychometric experiments by which a clairvoyant can see scenes connected with the history of a given object, seem to indicate that the emanations of light from any object photograph its surroundings upon it. Any place possesses therefore an indelible photograph in the ether of any event which has occurred there and in exalted or psychic states these pictures become visible to the ordinary person. This astral record was known to the old mystics as "The Book of God's Remembrance," and in the theory one finds the most satisfactory explanation of the Versailles incident.

Spoonerisms.

The announcement that Miss Spooner, a daughter of the Warden of New College, Oxford, is engaged to be married, has recalled some of the stories that are told of her famous father.

Dr. Spooner has enriched the English language with a new word, "Spoonerism," which is used to describe a transposition of letters or words in a sentence. The Warden is rather prone to this form of mistake, and he is said to have once asked a cabman: "Can you give me change for a peeshilling tooce?"

The "Alleged Gentleman."

This quaint notice was recently posted in a Safford club: "If the alleged gentleman who took three brushes from Mr. —'s color box imagines they will paint poultry without the assistance of the master hand he is gravely mistaken and therefore may as well return them to their rightful owner."—Pall Mall Gazette.

EVER HAVE CRAMPS, NAUSEA, VOMITING?

THEN USE NERVILINE

For Stomach Pains and Cramps No Remedy so Prompt as Nerviline

A WESTERNER'S EXPERIENCE RELATED

"It's in an unsettled part of the country like our far west that proves how valuable Nerviline is in the home," writes Mrs. Patrick M. Dehane, from Fort Saskatchewan. "Chills are frequent—a hot drink of Nerviline sends life circulating through the body in three minutes. Cramps or sudden illness at night is one of our terrors. No druggist or doctor is near but if Nerviline is handy you can get relief. The worst cramps Nerviline has cured in my children in half a minute. I don't think any farmer's wife has any right to be without the protection of Nerviline. In our family we use it for a hundred ills and it cures them all. One night one of my kiddies had earache and the other toothache. Without Nerviline no one could have slept—I applied it as directed, and the children's pains disappeared. My husband uses Nerviline for lame back, rheumatism, aching joints and all sorts of pains. It is as good inside as outside and is as much a part of my home as my kitchen stove."

You find a thousand uses for a good family remedy like Nerviline. Get the 50c. family size bottle; it's more economical than the 25c. trial size. Sold by all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhzone Co., Buffalo, N.Y.

MOLASSINE MEAL

One of the most attractive places in the whole exhibition grounds is the tent of the Molassine Company which is situated on the lower side of the poultry house, in the rear of the Agriculture Hall. This company whose Maritime office is at St. John, are advertising the celebrated cattle, swine, sheep, horse and poultry feed, known as Molassine Meal, they also handle puppy cakes and chicken food. The company claims great things for the mash and say there is nothing in the market to compare with it, all leading cattle and horse men are using it. The company are issuing of this feed which is manufactured in England at the present time, but they expect to have a plant at St. John for the purpose. All visitors to the Big Fair should not fail to see this exhibit especially those interested in live stock. Messrs. A. F. Randolph & Sons, is the wholesale dealer in Fredericton for these goods while John Gibson, & Son, Currie Bros., C. W. White, E. G. Hobbs, John McKnight and M. E. Doohan will sell Molassine Meal at retail.

BASEBALL CHATTER

In boosting the salary of Manager Bill Carrigan, the owners of the Boston Red Sox have made it plain that they have confidence in Sir William's ability to produce a winning team in 1914.

Charley Carr, the former big leaguer who resigned the management of the Kansas City team recently, says that he will devote his entire time to his new baseball college in Texas, in the future.

Manager McGraw will wig-wag his athletes from a burglar-proof coop if the Athletics and the Giants meet in the world's series. John's idea is to cross any attempt on the part of the athletics to steal his signals.

Atlanta fans declare Billy Smith the greatest manager in baseball. After winning several pennants in Atlanta Bill took up the management of the Buffalo team, and later of the Chattanooga team. He returned to Atlanta this season and led the Crackers to the Southern League championship, after the closest race in the history of that organization.

Ingenious Spiders

The Royal Society of Great Britain was recently entertained by a distinguished traveller with an account of a spider living in Australia which makes its habitation along the seashore, in the crevices of the rocks, between high and low water marks. But when the tide is in their homes are covered with water. Instead of deserting them, however, the spiders solve the difficulty by means of closely woven sheets of silk, which they stretch over the entrances, behind which they manage to retain sufficient air to keep them alive during the time they remain submerged.

Birds That Change Their Food

It is well known among naturalists that while many birds are exclusively flesh-eaters, few are exclusively vegetarians. The latter seek a change of food, not because of its scarcity, but from choice, and this choice is nearly always exercised when they are feeding their young. All gardeners know that sparrows are ordinarily vegetarians, yet they eat insects out of plants.

Self Help

For Nervous Persons

Can often be achieved by a simple change of food and drink.

Much nervousness is caused by tea and coffee drinking—eminent medical authorities having demonstrated that the drug, Caffeine, in these beverages is a definite nerve poison to many persons.

Tea and coffee have no food value whatever, and are deceitful friends. Under their use the nerves first become irritated; then so sensitive and "on edge" that a slight variation from general health often appears most serious to the victim.

However, Nature responds quickly to common-sense treatment, and right living frequently does more than medicine. So, if you value peace and comfort, try this easy experiment

Stop tea and coffee entirely and have hot well-made

POSTUM

This pure food-drink made from prime wheat has a delicious flavour and a fine dark brown color which changes to a rich golden brown when cream is added.

It contains the genuine nourishing elements of the grain, but is absolutely free from the tea and coffee drug, or any other harmful ingredient.

POSTUM comes in two forms.

REGULAR POSTUM must be well boiled.

INSTANT POSTUM is a soluble powder. A spoonfull dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water, and with cream and sugar, makes a very palatable beverage INSTANTLY.

Thousands have been wonderfully benefited by using Postum instead of tea and coffee—
