A MESSAGE FROM A WOMAN TO WOMEN

"Every Woman Should Take
"Fruit-a-tives"

LAKELET, ONT., MAY 12th, 1911
"Kindly publish this letter of mine if you think it will benefit other women who might be afflicted with the diseases I have had in the past, but am now, thanks to 'Fruit-a-tives', completely cured of. It is my firm belief that every woman should take 'Fruit-a-tives' if she wants to keep herself in good health. Before taking 'Fruit-a-tives', I was constantly troubled with what is commonly known as 'Nerves' or severe Nervousness. This Nervousness brought on the most violent attacks of Sick Headache, for which I was constantly taking doctors' medicine without any permanent relief. Constipation was also a source of great trouble to me and for which the Doctors said 'I would have to take medicine all my life', but 'Fruit-a-tives' banished all these troubles and now I am a well woman!"

Notes from the Rural Districts

LOWER HAYNESVILLE

Lower Haynesville, Aug. 27.—Quite a number from this place attended the funeral of Mr. James R. Reynolds at Zealand, on August 17th. The remains were brought from his home at St. Mary's by the Gibson Branch train. Interment being made at St. Paul's Cemetery. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Spriggs, who preached a very touching sermon from the words: "Like as a father pitieth his children so the Lord pitieth them that fear him." 103 Psalm, 13 verse.

The late Mr. Reynolds was a resident of this place until recently when he purchased the Riverside Hotel at St. Mary's, moved to that place and became its proprietor. He had a large circle of friends and was very highly respected by all who knew him as he was thoroughly honest and upright in all his dealings with his fellowmen. He leaves to mourn a sorrowing widow, three sons and three daughters. Our heartfelt sympathy goes out to them in their sad bereavement.

Our school which will reopen on Tuesday, Sept. 2nd, will again be in charge of our former teacher, Mrs. A. Tucker.

A baby girl arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Foreman on Aug. 25th.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wallace and daughter, Viola, have been visiting relatives and calling on friends in this place. We are glad to see them among us again after an absence of over a year. They leave tonight for their home in South Wyndham, Mass.

Mrs. Beverly Haines is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Brewer.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stilwell are guests of the latter's mother, Mrs. James H. Allen. They will leave shortly for their home at Pinder, York Co.

WAGER ENDS IN DROWNING.

Beacon.—Stephen H. Diffin of Robinson, nineteen years of age, was drowned at Red Beach Sept. 2. He, with two other young men about the same age, made a wager as to which of them with a chew of tobacco in his mouth could stay under water the longest. Diffin, it is supposed, strangled before he struck water. At any rate, in going down after their dive, he gripped one of his companions by the arm, who had hard work to wriggle himself free. Diffin not rising to the surface, the alarm was given and the body was recovered.

HOW TO DOCTOR WOUND ON HOOF

Cleanliness and Antiseptic Treatment as Necessary for a Horse as for a Man

Nature often repairs wounds on the horse's hoof without help from man. All man can do is to assist nature; but often he hinders the reparative process, and sometimes his interference is positively harmful. This is so when he soaks an injured foot in an old, dirty tub and forgets to change the water each time it is used. The foul soaking tub is a veritable abomination. It should be accounted a relic of barbarous days not to be used by modern man.

This advice refers especially to the treatment of a nail-puncture case. It may, however, be admissible in some cases to treat sores of the coronet, or suppurating corns, by soaking in a tubful of antiseptic solution.

The average poultice also is an abomination, and positive damage in many a case. This certainly is so as regards the cow-dung poultice. Germs teem and multiply in it, and these germs induce pus or possibly may cause tetanus (lockjaw). Any hot, moist poultice in which an antiseptic is not mixed will harbor and grow noxious germs. If a poultice of any sort is used, it should be made up with a solution of a good disinfectant or germ-killer.

Modern treatment seldom employs a poultice in the nail-prick case. When a nail has been found and removed, the horseman often is contented to pour some turpentine on the wound and allow the opening to close. Germs may be retained, and in the absence of air they may cause tetanus; for the tetanus germ can live and grow only in the absence of oxygen. The right way to handle the case is to remove the shoe, cleanse the hoof thoroughly with soap and hot water, pare away all soiled horn of the sole and rinse it off with a 1-500 solution of corrosive sublimate (bichloride of mercury) or five per cent. solution of coal tar disinfectant, lysol or carbolic acid.

Then cut down upon the puncture with a sharp, sterilized hoof-knife, removing enough horn to expose the wound and allow blood, serum or pus to escape. When this has been done the wound should be well swabbed with the 1-500 solution of corrosive sublimate and at once covered with a mixture of one part of iodoform and seven parts of boric acid, fresh absorbent cotton and a clean bandage to be covered in turn with a square of clean gunny sacking, held in place by a strap around the pastern.

If there is objection to the strong odor of the iodoform mixture, substitute one part each of calomel and subnitrate of bismuth and six parts of boric acid as a dry dressing powder. Renew the dressing daily. Often the treatment will lead to a speedy and perfect recovery. If a fungus-like growth comes down through the wound in the sole, add an equal part of powdered alum to the dressing powder, and cover the dressing with a wad of cotton to cause pressure.

If joint oil (synovia) flows like liquid vaseline from the wound the synovial bursa has been opened by the nail. Such a serious case should have the immediate attention of a skilled veterinarian.—Farm and Fireside.

MONEY IN WOODLOTS

Scientific Principles to be Followed to Secure Best Results

There is no part of the farm which will give bigger returns for so little expenditure of time and labor as the woodlot, says Mr. B. R. Morton, expert forester for the Dominion Government, and there are three ways in which the farmer, by the exercise of ordinary common sense, can vastly improve the composition, production and reproduction of his woodlot.

The first thing necessary is to improve the character of the crop, which can be done by cutting down and using for firewood all diseased and deformed trees, as well as such species whose presence in the woodlot is not desirable. Only too frequently is the method of cutting exactly the reverse. The best trees are cut, often for purposes for which an inferior wood would serve. Firewood probably yields the best returns for a small acreage and for this purpose rapid-growers such as poplar, ash and elm should be encouraged, which should make an annual growth of from one-half to one cord per acre. Basswood, too, will be in increasing demand because of its rapid growth, because it coppices readily and because of its value in small sizes for the manufacture of excelsior, cooperage stock and other small articles for which the wood is particularly adapted. Maple reproduces readily, and although not a rapid grower, it nevertheless yields a substantial revenue when it becomes large enough to tap. Soft woods like spruce, balsam and pine grow much more rapidly than hardwoods and might be advantageously grown for fuel or pulpwood.

When the most suitable species have been selected and the weed-trees removed, the woodlot must then be thinned until the crowns of the best-formed remaining trees are seen to barely touch.

The third requisite in the scientific farming of the woodlot, is that the cattle be kept out, especially after heavy cutting, when reproduction is most desired. Cattle are just as injurious to a young crop of tree-seedlings as they are to a young crop of grain. They may indeed eat the grass in the woodlot, but they would just as soon, if not sooner, eat the young and tender hardwood shoots, and the same can be said of sheep. Even coniferous seedlings are not immune so that certainty in production is only assured by fencing off the cut-over areas.

The longest artificial watercourse in the world is the Bengal Canal, 900 miles in length.
