

THE MECCA OF CANOEISTS

EXPECTS ANOTHER DEMOCRAT FROM MAINE

Augusta, Me., July 28—A primary was held in the Third Maine Congressional district today to select candidates for the special election to be held September 8, when the successor to the late Congressman Forrest Goodwin will be named. The election is looked forward to with interest, as the result is expected to give a line on the relative strength of the Democratic, Republican and Progressive parties in this section.

The late Congressman Goodwin, Republican, was elected in September last over Gould, Democrat, the sitting member, by a plurality of only 709. Mr. Goodwin's success was attributed to his personal popularity, his long acquaintance with Republican politics, and his intimate personal association with Thomas B. Reed.

The September election was held while the truce between the Republicans and the Progressives was in force. The Progressives had no candidate in the field, and those who desired to flock apart from the old parties had to choose between the Socialist and the Prohibition tickets.

In the coming election the situation will be entirely different. The change which has come over the situation last is traceable to the attempt of the Progressives to defeat Mr. Burleigh for election as senator last fall. They came very near succeeding, and as a result of the strength shown by the party then they decided to make a hard fight to elect a Progressive to succeed Congressman Goodwin. The man whom they have selected to make the race is Edward M. Lawrence, a practical business man and an experienced politician, with a considerable following in Eastern Maine.

It will be the Progressive party's first appearance in a Congress election in Maine, and that's what the Democrats count upon to win. They believe that as the vote was close when the Republicans were united it will be easy for them to beat the Republicans divided.

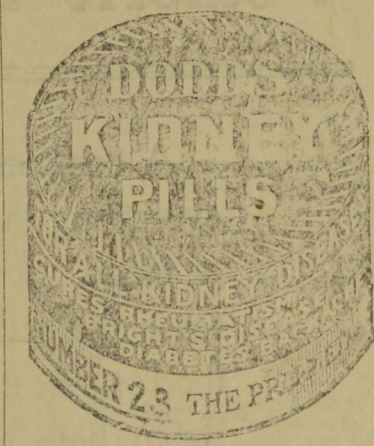

The choice of the Republicans for the seat in Congress is John A. Peters, an Ellsworth lawyer, who was speaker of the Maine House last winter. The count of the primary returns is expected to show the nomination of William R. Pattangall as the Democratic candidate. Mr. Pattangall is mayor of Waterville, a former attorney-general of the State, a lawyer and editor, member of several legislatures and generally recognized as one of the ablest leaders of the Democratic party in Maine.

BIG CONVENTION OF REALTY MEN

Winnipeg, Man., July 28—Every phase of the real estate business, together with many problems relating to the broader subjects of civic progress and municipal welfare, is to be discussed at the sixth annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges, which convened in Winnipeg today for a session of three days. The attendance surpasses the most sanguine expectations of the promoters of the gathering. Nearly 1,000 delegates faced President Edward S. Judd of Chicago, when he called the gathering to order in Convention Hall this morning. Nearly all of the large cities of Canada and the United States were represented.

Sir Edmond Roblin, premier of Manitoba, welcomed the visitors in a cordial address. Greetings also were extended by Mayor T. R. Deacon, for the City of Winnipeg, and T. H. Crotty, speaking in behalf of the real estate dealers of Winnipeg. The remainder of the initial session was taken up with the address of President Judd and the annual reports of Secretary Phillip Moessinger, of Cincinnati, and Treasurer Edward F. Loveley, of Detroit.

an armed camp and has, as such within itself, the elements of combustion, and there can be no real security until this condition is absolutely eliminated, nor no real ease from the present strained money situation the world-over.

A prominent financial paper recently published the following:

"In Western Canada just at the time, everybody, farmer and business man talk about crop prospects. Never were conditions better, and everybody looks for a bumper yield. The steady fall of rain at short intervals has had its good effect. If present prospects are fulfilled through out the province the grain production of Saskatchewan for the season of 1913 will be greatly in excess of that of any former year in the history of the west, according to Hon. W.R. Motherwell, minister of agriculture for the province. The crops are well advanced and there is no reason for the entertainment of fears of a late crop. Mr. Motherwell said: "The most optimistic citizen of the west could not desire a better outlook than that of every section of Saskatchewan which has come under the purview of the correspondents of this department, and prospects are infinitely better than at the corresponding period of last year."

MONEY

Boston. There is a trifle happier feeling in the money market. Note brokers are selling commercial paper where they could not sell it a short time ago.

The larger national banks are still practically out of the market although they are in a strong position. But they fear large and steady demands from their own mercantile people and heavy withdrawals later from their country correspondents.

Rates hold firm, not because money is really scarce now, but because banks fear it may be. Trust companies are loaning money. Savings banks have little money. Loans held by these institutions are not being paid, and renewals for a year are firm at 6 per cent.
