CIRCUMSTANCES

There is a speedily growing interest in every-day psychology. Books on auto-suggestion, new thought, cures by faith, healing by believing and the like are flooding the market. Coue, the great French doctor, who for thirty years has been making people well by making them believe they are getting well, is having a tremendous vogue. Lady Beatty, wife of the British admiral; Lord Curzon of the British cabinet, are among his patients who have been cured. The general tendency is a good one, for it shows that people are thinking about the vastly increased possibilities of life when freed from worry and disease. They are seeking a way out of the swamp of fear. They are seeking a serenity of soul which shall be sound enough to bridge the turbulent streams of life. They are seeking a pathway which shall lead tranquilly and not fearfully to what we call death. Along with much that is frequently misunderstood in practical psychology and the application of conscious thinking to the problems of living, there is one great central truth. The Truth is That Happiness is a State of Mind, and the Right Mental Attitude Circumstances Will Take Care of Themselves. Too many, in their search for contentment, make the mistake of trying to wrench themselves away from circumstances, to flee from conditions which are not pleasant, to ignore obligations and to shirk responsibilities. Contentment is not won that way. It comes, rather, from adopting a new attitude toward Circumstance. It comes from accepting the obligations of life as the tools with which one is supplied to work out the best possible pattern. Don't be panicky. Don't try to run away from life. The mark of an educated man, says President Burton of Ann Arbor, is his ability to adjust himself to circumstances. Make up your mind, not intensely and painfully, but calmly and sanely, to adjust yourself to your work and your duties. Get into the right mental attitude. Then, curiously but no less certainly, circumstances seem to take care of themselves. Right thought does produce results.

IF THINKING

Are you one of the victims of "If" thinking? Here, there, everywhere we hear men and women say. "If I didn't have this to contend with I would be much happier. If I didn't have to do this thing every day I should be so much better off. If I hadn't done so and so it would have been so much better. If I didn't have to live in this place, things would be different."

Now you may be pretty sure that if you didn't have this, that or the other thing to face and to put up with you would have something different which would require just as much courage and good sense. Be glad that you have the circumstances that you have, and be glad they are so good. If you do not like them, set out hopefully to make them different—by first getting into a sane, calm, reasonable attitude of mind toward them.

Halifax Chronicle: The dry majorities in Ohio and California—187,854 and 29,621, respectively—are higher than first reports indicated. The grape-growing State of the Pacific Coast voted down prohibition for ten years, but has become converted by experience. It is a safe prediction that the Volstead Act will stay on the Federal statute book unimpaired.

Canadians use more butter than the people of a dozen other nations, consuming 27 pounds a year, compared with 15 pounds for the United States. The Swedes lead in the consumption of milk and the Swiss in cheese-eating, the average for each person in Switzerland being 26 pounds of cheese a year.

Shells filled with a gallon of oil and fired at angry waves will calm a turbulent sea, according to tests made by the United States' Lifeguards of Cohasset, Mass. It is said that a barrage of such shells to the windward of a wrecked vessel would produce a sea sufficiently smooth to enable a lifeboat to make a safe approach.

Valued at $11,500,000, the 1922 British Columbia salmon pack aggregated 1,290,326 cases. It has been exceeded on only four occasions since statistics have been compiled during the last twenty-six years and the most recent was in 1919, when the total was 1,393,156 cases.

An Assyrian loaf, more than 2400 years old, has been discovered by a French explorer. It is supposed to have been baked in 560 B. C., and was in excellent condition when found. The loaf is bun-shaped, and was wrapped in a cloth in a tightly sealed sarcophagus.

Who remembers when young ladies hung up cotton stockings at Christmas time in the hope that they would get silk ones? Nowadays they hang up silk ones expecting to get more of the same kind.

Just about now Mother makes up her mind to buy that sewing table for Dad and a reading lamp for rother who hasn't been home of an evening in several years.

The Tacoma owner of a champion White Leghorn hen has sold 20 of her eggs for $500. The price is enough to make a cold storage manipulator emit shrieks of agony.

Boston coal man who gave short weight was ordered by the Court to donate a ton of coal to the victim. It may not be law, but, oh, boy; it pleases the consumer.

The way Lenine hangs on to power outrages all precedent and defies all logic. Every time he spills the beans, he goes ahead and bakes them.

Clemenceau itemizes war materials Germany has hidden. Among them he would doubtless include the will to wage another conflict.

John Wanamaker, the merchant prince of Philadelphia and former Postmaster General of the United States, is seriously ill.

The attitude toward a third party seems to be a feeling on the part of quite a number that they haven't gotten over the other two yet.

In order to avoid possible accidents under the new rule of the road keep to the right and drive slowly.

Observing conditions in the Near East people cannot be blamed for coming West.

For another thing the Sultan gets out of the job of picking out Christmas presents for a lot of wives.

Two P's are not alike when one is in prosperity and the other in propaganda.

Charlie Chaplin either should get married or start numbering the episodes.

Be forewarned; Life for the beleated holiday shopper is just one grand rush hour.

How many years will the Sultan get for wife desertion?

The ex-Kaiser's silence of late confirms the report of the wedding.

The price of turkey looks like the regular annual gobble.

Through Our Sieve

Many people have bad colds at this season of the year because there are no good colds.

Anyway civilization must give the Turk credit for possessing a good poker face.

Russian communists are opposed to relativity. They probably think it is soaps cousin.

There'll be no tag day for the New York woman who says she can not live on $40,000 a year.

Henry Ford has brought $20,000,000 worth of coal. Evidently he expects a severe winter.

As one paper suggests ten thousand Marllynn Millers may go undiscovered on account of long skirts. No chance to reveal their talent.

When the jury reaches a compromise verdict remarked the Man on the Car Justice is put in the unladylike position of straddling the fence.

For both price and travel nothing goes as far as a bottle of ink says the Cleveland Commercial. And it tells such a variety of stories—love, lies, hatred romance and tragedy.
