

SUFFERED YEARS WITH ECZEMA

"Fruit-a-lives" Cleared Her Skin

POINTE St. PIERRE, P.Q.

"I suffered for three years with terrible Eczema. I consulted several doctors and they did not do me any good.

Then, I used one box of "Sootha-Salva" and two boxes of "Fruit-a-lives" and my hands are now clear. The pain is gone and there has been no return. I think it is marvellous because no other medicine did me any good until I used "Sootha-Salva" and "Fruit-a-lives", the wonderful medicine made from fruit.

Some Questions and Answers on Forestry

Q. What are the commonly accepted causes for the series of forest fires that have ravaged Northern Ontario periodically?

A. The Porcupine fire in 1911 and what is known as the Clybelt disaster of 1916 were both due to unrestricted land clearing fires started by settlers for the purpose of burning up the wooded debris on their farm lands. Everyone recognizes the necessity of using fire for this purpose but the operation is rendered highly dangerous unless closely supervised by government officers. No such burning should be allowed except where wind and heat conditions make it reasonably safe. The general public sentiment in Northern Ontario has always been in favor of a rapid burning off of the country so as to clear land for farming and mining purposes. This of course cannot be accomplished except at the cost of human life and the destruction of millions of dollars of real property.

Q. What is the best time in the Fall to transplant young Maple Trees?

A. After the leaves have fallen and before frost has set in heavily. Make sure to disturb the roots as little as possible, paying attention particularly to the small hair roots which are vital to the recuperation of the tree in its new position. Make the planting hole big enough to accommodate the roots and sift in the finest soil immediately about the roots and tamp the earth firmly.

Q. Have many of the municipalities in the United States or Canada attempted to build up municipal forests with the object of a future fuel supply as well as developing an area for recreation?

A. Several Canadian municipalities have already started communal forests much on the plan of the French and Swiss communal forests. One of the most notable is that of Eartheag N. Y. On a tract of two thousand acres 585,000 trees have been set out in order to protect the watershed areas on which the municipal water supply depends and to provide for future supply of timber. The trees set out fifteen years ago now measure from 15 to 16 feet in height and 6 inches in diameter. This tract eventually will furnish a million board feet of lumber a year. In Europe, where planted forests are a well-established source of revenue, returns of from $7 to $12 an acre are secured from community forests.

Old Fort Cumberland Will be Preserved

Fort Cumberland, originally the Fort Beausejour of the French-Canadians, where the militant missionary, Le Loutre, made his famous stand in defence of northern Acadia against the British forces, is to be preserved and cared for by the Canadian National Parks Branch.

Among the historic sites of Canada judged by the historic Sites and monuments Board to be worthy of preservation is Fort Cumberland, situated at the head of the Cumberland basin on the bay of Fundy in the county of Westmoreland, New Brunswick, near the town of Sackville on the Missaguash river, which forms the boundary line of the two western provinces of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

The Canadian National Parks Branch of the Department of the Interior, on the recommendation of the Historic Sites and Monuments board, is taking steps to preserve this famous fort from further disintegration and in the near future intends to erect on the site a suitable monument and tablet, to fence the property and arrange for its protection from irresponsible visitors and the destructive forces of the elements.

The ruins of Fort Cumberland are memoranda of one of the saddest stories in Canadian history. The building of the fort was commenced in 1750 under the direction of the French governor at Quebec and was named Beausejour. Never was a beautiful place-name more unhappily discredited by its subsequent history. It was intended to be an Acadian stronghold against the undefined claims of the English to the possession of Acadia. It was built on the north shore of the Missaguash river which the French claimed to be their territory.

Across the river Fort St. Lawrence had been erected by Colonel Lawrence, Governor of Nova Scotia. Fort Beausejour was the French counter citadel. It was a strongly made fort of five bastions capable of accommodating eight hundred men, provided with casemates and mounted with thirty-two guns and mortars.

On the isthmus which divides the two provinces of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia the French erected another fort intended to form a complete system of defence for the northern portion of Acadia. Around the fort the Acadians had their homes and their farms and little expected that within a few years those homes would be committed to the flames and their settlement become the battlefield of contending nations.

Beausejour was the centre of the activities of Le Loutre, the notorious militant missionary of the Micmacs who held the office of vicar-general to Acadia under the Bishop of Quebec and who became the real power behind the opposition of the Acadians to accept the conditions imposed upon them by the British government. In 1755 the fort was attacked by the British and captured. The fall of Beausejour was the prelude to the dispersal of the Acadians. After its capture the fort was renamed Fort Cumberland in honor of the Duke of Cumberland, son of George II, at that time at the height of his military fame as Commander-in-chief of the British forces in England.

Between the town of Sackville and Amherst the railway traveller of today, gazing, it may be, listlessly on the landscape to the north of Cumberland Basin will notice a knoll rising from the marsh and running back in a narrow ridge towards the northeast.

Here will be seen the wasting battlements of Beausejour with their crumbling powder magazine as the most conspicuous of the ruins. With this exception the remains of other buildings and earthworks are now only a few feet above the level of the ground. After the fall of the fort and during the remainder of the 18th century it was occupied by a British garrison but with the American war of 1812-14 it was practically abandoned as a place of defense. Thereafter until 1831 it was occupied by a caretaker. Up to about 1860 the soldiers and officers quarters were in tolerable condition but since then they have fallen into disrepair and decay.

In 1874 the guns were sold by public auction and removed. Four of them are said to be in existence and it is hoped they will be recovered and placed on the site.

The Fort Cumberland estate covers an area of about sixty acres but the actual site of the fort is enclosed in an area of five and a half acres. At present a fence is being built around this latter area and the Canadian National Parks Branch will shortly erect thereon suitable memorials of the stirring events which took place on this famous site.

PLEASED WITH ST. STEPHEN EXHIBITION

(Contributed.)

Quite a number of people from Fredericton and vicinity attended the St. Stephen exhibition this fall and enjoyed both trip as well as the very excellent show. The exhibition building which is conveniently located was beautifully decorated and presented a very handsome appearance.

The fruit and vegetable display was a large and creditable one and attracted much attention. There were three large tables with glass cases all filled with cake, pastry, preserves etc.

The domestic and fancy work could not have been improved upon. The St. Stephen ladies certainly displayed good taste in arranging the exhibits they were fortunate in having Mrs. F. P. Hall of Fredericton for one of the judges and she certainly performed her duties well.

The cottage craft demonstrated weaving and spinning. They had a large assortment of cloth and rugs also hand satchels made from the one weaving with landscape design some with fruit and flowers.

The horse racing was fine and the midway provided lots of amusement for young and old. They certainly gave all that was advertised.

The Band furnished excellent music every afternoon and Jack Sheehan with his rich baritone voice thrilled and delighted the crowd.

St. Stephen is a nice little town and bustling with activity. It is a charming place to visit on a summer vacation the people are very clever and will do all in their power to make your visit with them a pleasant one.

Thanking you for space Mr. Editor I am

Yours very truly

ROPE KILLS AUTO DRIVER

Philadelphia, Oct. 11—A rope shutting off a block party in Jefferson avenue, Bristol, was responsible yesterday for the death of Lewis Tope, seventy-six years old, of Bristol, Mr. Tope, driving an automobile failed to notice the rope.

The machine struck the rope with such force that the rope cut through the windshield and struck Mr. Tope full on the mouth. Then the car dashed headlong against a fire plug. Mr. Tope was knocked unconscious and death came shortly after his admission to the Hahnemann Hospital. Mr. Tope was pensioned recently by the Pennsylvania Railroad. He leaves a wife and two children.

The Ex-Kaiser's Memoirs Have Stirred Germany

Berlin, Germany, Oct. 10—The first installment of the ex-Kaisers memoirs has just been published in Berlin. His references to Bismarck attract a great deal of attention. The former emperor's assertion that he "idolized" the iron chancellor instead of hating him and seeking an excuse for dismissing him has evoked comment in several newspapers.

True Sentiment Breaks Out

"The Kaiser," says the Vossische Zeitung, "evidently intended to counteract the third volume of Bismarck's memoirs by repeating how greatly he admired even adored, the chancellor, but every now and then a mark creeps in disclosing the kaiser's true feeling of contempt and hatred for Bismarck."

Both the Vossische Zeitung and the Neue Berliner Zeitung agree that the ex-kaisers literary style on the whole is good and they find that portion of the book published in the first installment decidedly interesting.

His Clash With Bismarck

The pan-German Deutsche Zeitung in a review of the Bismarck chapter declares that, according to his own confession, William was wrong in his clash with the chancellor.

The Monarchistic Der Tag, which is printing the memoirs, declares that many of the ex-Kaisers statements, especially about relations with Russia are incorrect, and that they are likely to cause lively disputes in all quarters concerned.

POINCARÉ FOR NOBEL PRIZE

Paris, Oct. 11—It is reported from the inner circles of the French Academy that a majority of the immortals propose to offer the name of Premier Poincaré as next year's candidate for the Nobel Peace Prize.

Although M. Poincaré consistently has been aggressive in his German policy, it is believed that his efforts of the last month to prevent war in the Near East will be considered as the outstanding peace effort since the World War.

A VACATION TOAST

Sweet is the warmth of the summer sun
And the blue of the summer sky
When the freshening breeze carries one
And time goes winging my.

So here's to the charm of the wooded shore
And the plunge into waters clear;
May its magic pass through the city's door
And stay with us all the year.

The temptation of prosperity incline nate themselves after a gentle but very powerful manner so that we are but little aware of them and less able to withstand them persistently.
