OF INTEREST TO THE WOMEN

FUR-TRIMMED SUITS IN VOGUE.

The Boston Traveller says:—

The season under way with considerable dash and spirit seems to indicate a preference for furs which are a part of the costume rather than the accessory. There is of course the fur neckpiece but the smartest women have had their coat dress or suit trimmed with fur. There is in fact no lessened importance being attached to furs in their relation to coats and suits for fall. As each week brings the season to colder days furs arrive at an enviable position in comparison to other trimmings for such apparel.

Not only are deep borders of long as well as short-haired furs being used (and the favor the various species of foxes, caracul and beaver for the most part) but squirrel mole and caracul have been selected to serve for either the upper of the lower portion of cloth garments. Sometimes fur sleeves are in one with a fur bloused back, while the front and skirt section is cloth.

FUR OVERCAPES

Then again it may be a complete overcape of fur generally either squirrel or mole. Sometimes they are cut on circular lines but it has also been noted that the handkerchief shaped cape of fur is meeting with success.

The three piece costume being started both here and abroad is usually fur trimmed. The fur band at the hip is no longer an unusual treatment; it has had the effect of minimizing the amount of fur used for the collar for which there are always exceptions enough to jeopardize any rule and it still remains true that collars are smaller.

An American creator's conception of the three piece idea is fashioned of black crepe richly trimmed with fox and steel nailheads and retains the slim silhouette in spite of the fact that pleats are introduced for the skirt of the dress beneath the trim jacket.

TURNED INTO THREE PIECE SUIT

The dress which when supplemented by a jacket is converted into a three piece costume appears to be even better liked than the suit which takes unto itself a costume blouse and therefore is entitled to the three piece classification.

A short fur jacket if matched with a cloth or velvet frock produces the desired effect and that the short fur coat is coming with the excuse for donning it, it takes no prophet to predict.

Furriers are busy cutting over long coats into short ones and skirts are being draped and trimmed to be in readiness for the debut of the short fur jacket.

And to say that it will find a welcome is putting it mildly when one considers the many long fur coats that will be done over into the latest wrap idea with enough left over for trimming a suit or making a two piece set for daughter if there happens to be one in your family.

THEY'RE COMING DOWN

Say have you heard the startling news?

They're coming down!
They say they soon will touch the shoes

They're coming down!
And we who felt the awful dread
That they'd keep going up instead
Feel safer now that we have read
They're coming down.

So gather rosebuds while ye may
They're coming down!
They're going to hide them so they say

They're coming down!
But oh! the secret now is out
We've seen the means without a doubt

That girls employ to walk about;
But—they're coming down.

The Doctor Knows

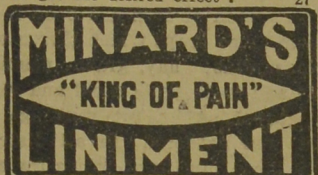

Doctors who know Minard's by the work it does are unhesitating in their praise of its healing and soothing qualities.

Dr. Jos. Aug. Sirois, of St. Isidore, Que., writes:—

"I have frequently used Minard's Liniment and also prescribe it for my patients always with the most gratifying results, and I consider it the best all-round Liniment."

C. A. King, M.D. also recommends Minard's in the following words:—

"I have used Minard's Liniment myself as well as prescribed it in my practice when a liniment was required, and have never failed to get the desired effect."

MONCTON MAN LOST IN YORK COUNTY WOODS

(St. John Journal)

It became known here in the city yesterday afternoon that a man by the name of Carroll of Moncton is lost in the woods in the vicinity of Maple Grove. Mr. Carroll who has been camping with a number of friends in the woods between Maple Grove and McGivney Junction became separated from his companions in some unknown way early Saturday morning and has not been heard from since. Searching parties have been organized and are scouring the woods in all directions but as yet no trace has been found of the missing man.

When he became separated from his friends M. Carroll was dressed very lightly on a fall he had with him was a shot gun and four shells. It is not known whether he had any matches with him or not. It is feared that when he discovered that he was lost he shot off the cartridges in a vain endeavor to attract the attention of his friends failing to do this he had no means of acquiring any staple foods, such as birds which would sustain his strength until he was found. The woods in the vicinity of Maple Grove are very thick and it would be very easy for one not knowing the place to lose his way and wander for miles very probably in a circle. It is feared that this is what Mr. Carroll has done and he is coming exhausted has become the victim of the cold and exhaustion.

A locomotive was sent from Napa dogan to Maple Grove Sunday night and blew the whistle intermittently for over an hour in order to attract the lost man's attention.

THE MINERAL RESOURCES OF CANADA

Canada possesses wonderful assets in her mineral resources, and their development will contribute in a large measure to the prosperity of the country. The success attending the opening up of the mines in Northern Ontario, British Columbia, and the work done in Manitoba has awakened public interest in the great possibilities of the future.

To convey some idea to the public at large, of the importance of our mines, the varied character of our mineral deposits and the remarkable possibilities of our undeveloped areas the Department of Resources of the Canadian National Railways at Toronto, has issued a pamphlet on "Minerals and Mining Industries" dealing with the physical features of the country, the various mining areas and the metallic and non-metallic minerals contained in the various provinces.

One of the instructive and interesting features of this work is that it gives information as to the many applications and new uses of the economic minerals in the industries and arts. It also gives reference to various publications of the Departments of Mines, both Dominion and Provincial, bearing upon the subject.
