PERSONALITY ACTOR'S CURSE OF THE STAGE

SELECTION BY LOOKS IS SCORED

Prof. Baker Says Motion Pictures are Too Cheap and Mawkish.

Atlantic City, Oct. 21.—"Personality actors are the curse of the American stage" declared Prof. George Pierce Baker of the School of Dramatic Literature at Harvard University before the session of the ninth recreation congress of the Play ground and Recreation Association yesterday.

"Too many actors are picked because of their looks. Those men and women refuse to recreate themselves into their assumed roles but choose only roles that fit their personalities."

A bright future for the motion picture world was predicted by Prof. Baker during the time they cease to be imitators of the spoken play.

"We must admit" said the speaker "that motion pictures are still entirely too cheap and mawkish. But they have advanced from the impossible melodrama because nobody ever took it seriously. The real purpose of the drama is to explain America to Americans. The drama must come straight from the heart of the people. Europe considers the drama as a fine art. Our young people are not related to this art by American institutions."

Prof. Baker criticized some present day theatrical producers and critics. "Some producers he declared refuse to admit that the author knows anything about the play. Many dramatic critics know next to nothing about what goes into the production of a play."

The much discussed flapper came in for further consideration in an address by Lester Scott national executive secretary of the Camp Fire Girls.

He recommended exposure to nature as the greatest of all character builders. "Adolescent girls are very complex creatures Mr. Scott declared are searching all the time for some answer in life. It is an exploded theory that one must rough it in camp. Modern camping has become a science and can be made thoroughly comfortable. Expose young girls to nature and you expose them to an influence that has no superior for character development. The exposure may take and it may not but it is thoroughly safe."

U.N.B. ALUMNI REUNION FOR THE NEXT ENCAENIA

Special Committee in Session
Friday — Proceeding With Project—Will Communicate with All Alumni.

The project for a reunion of alumni of the University of New Brunswick which first was broached by alumni living in eastern Canada some years ago was considered Friday evening by the special committee of the Associated Alumni appointed for the purpose. P. J. Hughes was in the chair.

The committee which had power to act decided to proceed with the matter and to that end will communicate with all alumni to learn number may be expected to attend.

The proposal is that the reunion take place during May next occupying the better part of a week beginning with the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday and concluding after encaenia on Thursday. A special train from the west is one of the suggestions.

The D. J. Purdy Uninjured
Steamer D. J. Purdy, which went ashore at Oromocto, got off on Thursday evening, under her own steam, and reached Indian town in what is said to have been a record run from McAlpine's wharf, which is half way between St. John and Fredericton. The Purdy covered the distance in three hours. The vessel suffered no injury as the result of Thursday's mishap which was caused by a stiff wind. She made her usual run on Friday.

KEMAL HAS A WOMAN FOR AN ADVISER

Halid Edib Hanoum Also Bears
Title of Minister of Education.

Paris, Oct. 21.—Minister of Education, First Military Adviser to the Commander-in-Chief. Such are the titles proudly borne by Halid Edib Hanoum who probably will go down in history as the woman behind Mustapha Kemal Pasha.

It was Halid Edib according to reports from the Near East who induced Kemal to undertake an offensive against the Greeks in the attempt to regain for Turkey the territory wrested from her by the treaty of Sèvres.

Halid Edib is 32 years old. She was born in Constantinople and first attracted attention when at fourteen she entered the American college in Stamboul despite the protestations of the Sultan in person. At sixteen she published a book violently attacking the Turkish costumes of that day in regard to women. She objected to wearing a veil and pronounced her self vehemently against harems which she termed degrading.

During the war she was a fervent Nationalist. She had separated from her husband in 1920. By many ruses she succeeded in dodging the allied cordon at the Dardanelles and reaching Angora where she introduced new ideas to the Nationalist politicians. She created schools both for men and women where she included her principles indispensable to the emancipation of Turkish women.

Presented to Kemal, Halid Edib made such an impression that he immediately appointed her Minister of Education. In addition to this title she is an officer in Kemal's army where she is an officer in etat major where she herself carried a rifle and helped in routing the Greeks from Asia Minor. Reputed to be tall and beautiful Halid Edib has so remarkably won the affection and respect of the Nationalist party that undoubtedly she will achieve further fame when Turkey regains the lost territory she is now negotiating for.

A HORSE HAD A CLOSE CALL

Truro, N. S., Oct. 20.—A piece of coal hurled at a runaway horse saved it from being killed by No. 5 train from Halifax. The horse, attached to an express wagon, was running west on the railway track as No. 5 train approached. A switchman at his post struck the animal with a lump of coal causing him to jump to the second track just in time to escape being struck. The wagon was hit and damaged.

An Election Coming In the Old Country In the Near Future

THE POLITICAL SITUATION IS STILL HIGHLY SPECULATIVE — NEW PREMIER WILL ADVISE HIS MAJESTY TO DISSOLVE PARLIAMENT — HOUSE TO MEET ON NOVEMBER 14TH TO DEAL WITH THE IRISH QUESTION.

London, Oct. 20.—In the still highly speculative political situation tonight, only two facts stood out as definite—that there will be almost immediately a general election and that parliamentary ratification of the Irish constitution is safely assured.

Andrew Bonar Law, who is to lead the new government which will take the place of that of David Lloyd George, in a message to an evening newspaper confirmed his intention to advise King George to dissolve parliament immediately and added that this fact would give ample time to deal with the Irish legislation. He did not indicate, however, whether the present parliament would reassemble according to schedule on Nov. 14 to deal with the Irish question or whether general elections would be held immediately and the Irish legislation left to the new parliament. Either plan would be practicable, the only point being that ratification of the Irish treaty must be effected before Dec. 6. Whichever course is adopted, Irish legislation is quite safe from any attempt to frustrate an Irish settlement.

FAVOR IRISH TREATY

Lloyd George, in a message sent to William Cosgrave, president of the Dail Eireann, has removed any fear of opposition from him in his new position as leader of the opposition in parliament. The Marquis of Salisbury, on behalf of the "die-hards," has made a similar promise, so there is no party in the House of Commons that is likely to offer any hindrance to the carrying of the Irish treaty into effect.

The retiring premier today left for Leeds with his "sword in his hand", as he asserted in a short address at the St. Pancras station prior to his departure. Although he delivered five addresses from the rear of his car on the way to Leeds, he has left until tomorrow's speech in Leeds any revelation of what his tactics will be. There is intense curiosity everywhere as to what line his speech will take—whether he has any new domestic reforms or legislative plans to propose as a new election cry. There have been rumors that he has some new plan for unemployment insurance, with a view to detaching the Labor vote from the Labor party and bringing it into the fold of his proposed new Center party.

The rebel Conservatives, who are headed by Mr. Bonar Law, Sir George Younger and Stanley Baldwin, who have brought about the fall of Lloyd George, have contended that they were trying to get back to the old party system. Only the result of general elections will show how far they have succeeded in this intention. Up to the present the only consequence of their tactics has been the adding of still another group to the existing party groups, thereby bringing the British parliament still nearer to the group system of the European parliaments.

WAS SHOT AT FOR A BEAR

Sherbrooke, Oct. 20.—R. Welsh of Stanhope, aged 19, was accidentally shot while hunting in the woods near Stanhope, with his younger brother, yesterday afternoon.

Welsh and his brother had spent some time in the woods, and while they were primarily on a hunt for deer they kept their eyes open for bears, of which a number had been reported in the vicinity.

Welsh was standing up on a stump gazing around him for signs of game when his brother, coming through the woods behind him, saw him standing there and, mistaking him for a bear, fired at him. The bullet entered Welsh's body just below the left shoulder and passed entirely through his body, breaking a rib and piercing the left lung, making a very dangerous wound.

The young man is in a very critical condition.

John Boyd of Nashwaakisis returned Friday morning from the harvest fields.

THE SITUATION IS IMPROVING

Dublin, Oct. 20.—Richard Mulcahy minister of defence refused in the Dail Eireann today an appeal made to him by George Gavan Duffy for assurance that Irish prisoners would not be deported to St. Helena or some other place where the British navy would be required to prevent their escape. Mr. Mulcahy refused also to name the place of deportation.

William Cosgrave president of the Dail Eireann described the Irish military situation as "well in hand and improving daily."

"I have no doubt whatever as to the ultimate result," he declared. "All that is wanted is for the people to forget there is any interruption of normal conditions and get back to work."

Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 20.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., today began to enjoy a rest at a local sanitarium, following his arrival last night. He refused to discuss his reasons for seeking treatment. The financier had no appearance of illness.

When asked by newspapermen who, in his opinion, is the richest man in the world, Mr. Rockefeller said:

"You can answer that question as well as I can. I don't know of any way to find out."

EYE WITNESS OF MURDER IS FOUND

New Jersey Double Murder
Case May Soon Reach a Climax.

New Brunswick N. J., Oct. 20.—On the heels of unconfirmed reports that the grand jury of Somerset county today had returned an indictment in the Hall-Mills murder mystery the investigation was given a sensational twist tonight when it was officially learned that an eye witness to the double shooting of a woman of reputable character in New Brunswick had been discovered. The only handicap now retarding the prosecutor in bringing the situation to a climax was said to be the problem of positive identity by the newly found witness as more than one person is said to be involved in the crime.

The home of Mrs. Francis Stevens Hall widow of the slain rector is vigilantly guarded by state troops and all attempts to communicate with the house by telephone have been unsuccessful. For the first time since the bodies of the rector and his choir singer were discovered newspapermen were allowed today to see the clothing both worn when they were killed.

Reports that the rector's coat had been ripped up he back were found to be false there being only two small holes in the back of the coat between the shoulders which may have been caused possibly in dragging the body to the spot where it was found. He wore no waist coat and had on a business man's collar instead of his customary clerical collar a white tie and a Panama hat. The collar and tie were bloodstained. Mrs. Mills wore a dark blue lawn dress with red polka dots which was blood stained above the waist.

THE UNUSUAL IN LOCAL EVENTS

Still Wears Them Short

An observant bachelor says that he reads in the papers about the long skirts being worn by the ladies, but the skirts he sees on Queen street are as short as ever, and wouldn't if the Fredericton ladies have joined the Wear-them-short-club.

No Crash

A Queen street dealer in confectionery says that Candy Day passed so quietly that you could hear a gum drop.

Who Owns It?

A commercial man says he had a queer experience in a New Brunswick town the other day. He wanted to put some things away in a bureau drawer in his room in the hotel. He could not open the drawer although it was not locked, out of curiosity he took out the drawer above to see what was the matter and found the lower drawer full of bottles of booze. He was describing his find to other commercial men and found that they had had the same experience in other hotels. What he would like to know is who owns the booze, and if he had used any of it what would have happened?

Should Have Tried Woman's Way

The spoiled young neighbor across the way had come to spend the afternoon with sister, and mother happened along during the following conversation. Said sister, "I wanted terribly to go to the movies yesterday afternoon and Mother would not let me". In accents of deep surprise the spoiled young neighbor said: "Well, why didn't you cry?"

Why Mother Stays Home

"Have you ever noticed," asks a Smythe street man, "that when mother goes away on a visit and leaves father at home to look after things, the children's faces and hands are always dirty?"

MUCH INTEREST IN SCHOONER RACE TODAY

THE BLUENOSE
VS. HENRY FORD

Nova Scotia Craft Said to be in Better Shape Than Last Year.

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 20.—Sailmakers aboard the Henry Ford, American challenger, for the international fishermen's trophy, held by the Canadian schooner Bluenose, were working overtime tonight lopping off 438 square feet of the vessel's sail area in an endeavor to have her in readiness for the opening race tomorrow of the series to be sailed off this port. The work was being done at the direction of the international committee headed by W. W. Lufkin, collector of the port of Boston, which, acting upon the report of Evers Burtnor, of Boston, official measurer of the American Race Committee, ruled that the challenger's canvas exceeded by so much the area allowed her under the rules.

Three members of the Ford's crew were also eliminated at the direction of the committee on the ground that they were not bona fide fishermen. Bluenose's sail area of 9,771 feet as officially measured was well within the limit of 10,035 allowed her under the rules. Her crew too, was left intact.

Edwin Denby, United States Secretary of the Navy, arrived tonight. He will sail on the Ford tomorrow as a result of his request to go so, by special dispensation of the international committee, who have also informed George W. Kyrle, M. P., representing the Canadian government that he may sail aboard the Bluenose, should he desire.

The Bluenose, Canada's defender of the trophy is ready for the starting gun. Under the hand of Capt. Angus Walters, her practised Lunenburg skipper, she was given a final grooming today and pronounced in first class racing trim. Her designer, William J. Roue, of Halifax, estimated this afternoon that she was from four to five minutes faster on a forty mile course than she was last year and those who have followed her fortunes from the first unanimously support his views.

With a moderate wind blowing from the north, Bluenose did the first five miles of the official course this morning a close reach under the conditions prevailing, in twenty-five minutes, a twelve-knot gait. And this under four lowers. When she came on the wind, Angus set his main and foretopsails and running true to form in windward work the Canadian fisherman rapidly outdistanced a schooner rigged yacht which happened to be headed on a similar course.

NOT AS BAD AS SCREENED

Paris, Oct. 20.—Mlle. Cleo De Merode for years idol of Parisian music halls, entered a complaint against an American film company for portraying her in a role which she declares is "disgraceful." The film called "Cleo," which was shown in London, advertises "Cleo" as the great Parisian danseuse, her love affairs and her private life. Cleo says she leads a quiet life and does not want to be depicted as a heroine in such a detestable role and asks an injunction against the showing of the film in Paris.
