Dangerous to Stop Work too Suddenly

(Chicago News.)

If you're dreaming of retiring as a successful business man when you reach your allotted "three score and ten," thereby getting the much-earned rest you feel that you deserve—be careful! It's dangerous. Leading medical men joined today in shattering some illusions about leaving business life and living on the fat of the land. Dreaming about retiring isn't dangerous in itself, they say, but actually to withdraw from active life very possibly means that your retirement will go farther than you expected and you will soon find that you have "retired from this earthly sphere."

In other words, Luther Burbank was right! Just the other day, on the occasion of his 73rd birthday, the distinguished horticulturist declared that he was "still going strong" and that he never considered retiring. "My work is so fascinating," he declared. "And I am happiest when working. I believe I should go to pieces if I quit."

Sure He'd "Break Up."

"Certainly he would 'go to pieces.' Thomas Edison probably would, too," declared Dr. Arthur Isaac Kendall, dean of the Northwestern university school of medicine. "Any active man would do the same thing if he suddenly let up in his work. Of course, it depends on the person as to whether he can retire from active life with success or not. Some people might be said to be old before they are born and others like Edison and Burbank never grow old. But, speaking generally, it is a risky proposition for a business man suddenly to give up his work without finding another absorbing interest."

Prof. Robert H. Gault, neurologist of Northwestern university, was asked if there wasn't any possible chance for the active business man who had reached 70 to retire. But he was equally insistent in supporting Luther Burbank.

"We don't know how or why it is that an absorbing interest in his work keeps a man healthy and active

Tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wool or silk, or whether it is linen cotton or mixed goods.

NO DISSOLUTION IN MANITOBA

Winipeg, March 16—It appears almost certain that there will be no immediate dissolution of the legislature and that the Norris government will remain in office sufficiently long for necessary supply to be voted and important but non-contentious legislation put through. The definite statement was made by F. J. Dixon, leader of the Labor group, tonight that this group was agreeable to the administration carrying on till the tangle into which provincial affairs have got, has been straightened. J. T. Haig, leader of the Conservative group, would not give the premier such a promise of support as, he said tonight, he wants the government to clear out and make room for a Conservative administration.

HE GOT THE CAT TAILS

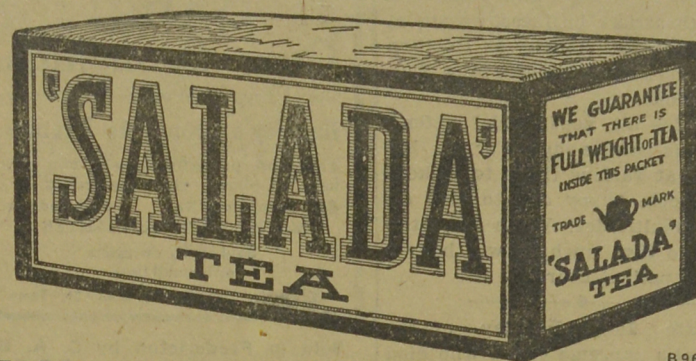

Huntingdon, W. Va., March 17—"Go out and get some cattails," a teacher at English School instructed students in a botany class yesterday. A 14-year-old lad turned up today with the bloody tails of seven house cats. "I chopped 'em off with a hatchet," he said with some pride. The teacher fainted. The Juvenile Court authorities are investigating the case.

at an advanced age, but we do know that it is true," he said. "Of course if he could transfer his interest to some other field of endeavor and throw himself into it with the same zest he displays in his chosen work, he probably could retire with no unpleasant consequences."

"But it is a pretty well established fact that once a business man is beyond middle age it is difficult for him to transfer his interests. There's John D. Rockefeller, for instance. He seems to be keeping in fine shape playing golf. And that's all right. But a man must have acquired an interest in golf rather early in life to make it a vital enough pursuit in his old age to keep from 'going to pieces,' as Mr. Burbank says."
