Near East War Threat
Has Stired the Capital;
Many Offer Services

(Special Correspondence)

Ottawa, Sept. 22—The threat of war in the Near East, with the proposal from overseas that the Dominions should be represented there by a contingent of troops with the British forces, shifted political interest from the different sections of the Dominion to Ottawa and from there to Downing Street. For days the public asked but one question: "Is there to be war?" With that was coupled the question as to Canada's participation in whatever warlike preparations were to be made within the Empire.

The situation differed considerably from that of 1914 and in the minds of people in all walks of life there was considerable question as to the urgency of the situation, in so far as the sending of Canadian troops was concerned. The government asked for information and received reassuring messages both from the British Government and its representatives, Messrs. Lapointe and Fielding, who are at present at Geneva. The wisdom of seeking that information in the first place, before issuing a call to Parliament and thus trusting further heavy expenses upon the Dominion, would appear to have been more than justified by the developments.

Near East Situation

Comparatively little was known of the Near East situation when the press bulletins on Saturday announced that the Lloyd George Government had decided to ask the Dominions to be represented in the force which it proposed to send to guard the neutral zone against Turk advances. It was complicated also by the opposition in Great Britain itself to the sending of a force and also by the attitude of France and Italy, both of which announced themselves opposed to any military moves and declared they were confident that settlement could be reached by conference. Subsequent meetings between representatives of the British and other allied governments seem likely to lead to calling of a conference with the hope of settling up the difficulties.

Ministers Were Away

The Prime Minister was in the constituency of North York when the bulletin from London, on Saturday afternoon, announced the development of the serious situation with its consequent bearing on the Dominion. Most of the other ministers were out of the city also. On receipt of the news Rt. Hon. Mr. King made arrangements for his return to Ottawa the same night, and on arrival here Sunday morning, immediately called an extraordinary session of Cabinet Council to deal with the situation. Ministers who were away for the week-end were hurriedly called back to Ottawa and Cabinet met on Monday morning to discuss the British government's message. Cabinet Council sat in session practically day and night for two days, receiving communications both from Messrs. Lapointe and Fielding, the tenor of which all through was distinctly reassuring, and tending to indicate that there would not be any necessity of sending troops across and also that there was not sufficient urgency to justify the calling of a special session of Parliament in the matter.

Question For Parliament

That the question would be one for action and decision by Parliament was indicated by the Prime Minister who asked the Canadian delegates to the League assembly to advise the government if there was sufficient urgency in the situation to justify the calling of an extraordinary session. Subsequent developments would seem thus far to indicate that there was not sufficient urgency about the matter to have justified the government in jumping at conclusions and rushing into war without finding out the situation first.

The matter has not yet been finally disposed of, but apparently the necessity for sending men has disappeared. The government is closely watching developments overseas and if the need arises has indicated that it will summon a special session of Parliament and place the matter before the people's representatives for them to decide whether or not Canada shall rush a contingent to the Dardanelles.

Many Offer Services

One thing which the situation brought to light was the readiness of men and women, in all walks of life to respond again to the call of their country if the necessity arose. The Prime Minister and the Minister of Militia received scores of telegrams and cables offering service if there should be any need of raising a contingent. Many of these came from Canadians in the United States or in Great Britain, urging that if a force was to be raised, their names should be placed on the list to be called. These offers were acknowledged and the senders informed that thus far there was no need for enrollment but that if they were needed the government would communicate with them.

The development of the overseas situation overshadowed things, strictly within the Dominion. For the time it continued to exert its influence little else was thought of and among the public little else was spoken of. With its passing however, other things more closely allied with home affairs assume more relative importance and have been receiving attention at the hands of the Cabinet.

HAS HIS WORK
WELL IN HAND

(The Wesleyan)

Rev. F. H. Holmes has his work now well in hand, and since completing the summer union plan with our Presbyterian friends, he is better able to deal with the idiosyncrasies of his own immediate charge. He has been welcomed warmly to Fredericton not only by his own people but by all classes of citizens; and it is possible the taxgatherer may already have met him. Mrs. Holmes also promises to become a favorite with the people generally. When she arrived at the parsonage from St. Stephen she brought with her three sturdy boys, but a recent church census charges the parsonage four boys. However, that is neither here nor there, because for several years past the minister has had a large family and by the construction of this brick building an ell can be added whenever necessary.

CAREFUL MAN.

Griggs—Is Billson a careful driver?

Briggs—Very much so. He always toots his horn before crossing a railroad track.

It is often more necessary to conceal contempt than resentment—the former is never forgiven, but the latter is sometimes forgotten.

So genuinely good is its reputation in our Home Provinces here in the East, folks who like good Tea are wont to say: "We use RED ROSE TEA."

The fine quality of RED ROSE COFFEE will please particular people.

Issued in 1917 and Maturing 1st December, 1922.

CONVERSION PROPOSALS.

THE MINISTER OF FINANCE offers to holders of these bonds who desire to continue their investment in Dominion of Canada securities the privilege of exchanging the maturing bonds for new bonds bearing 5½ per cent interest, payable half yearly, of either of the following classes:—

- Five year bonds, dated 1st November, 1922, to mature 1st November, 1927.
- Ten year bonds, dated 1st November, 1922, to mature 1st November, 1932.

While the maturing bonds will carry interest to 1st December, 1922, the new bonds will commence to earn interest from 1st November, 1922, GIVING A BONUS OF A FULL MONTH'S INTEREST TO THOSE AVAILING THEMSELVES OF THE CONVERSION PRIVILEGE.

This offer is made to holders of the maturing bonds and is not open to other investors. The bonds to be issued under this proposal will be substantially of the same character as those which are maturing, except that the exemption from taxation does not apply to the new issue.

Holders of the maturing bonds who wish to avail themselves of this conversion privilege should take their bonds AS EARLY AS POSSIBLE, BUT NOT LATER THAN SEPTEMBER 30th, to a Branch of any Chartered Bank in Canada and receive in exchange, an official receipt for the bonds surrendered, containing an undertaking to deliver the corresponding bonds of the new issue.

Holders of maturing fully registered bonds, interest payable by cheque from Ottawa, will receive their December 1 interest cheque as usual. Holders of coupon bonds will detach and retain the last unmatured coupon before surrendering the bond itself for conversion purposes.

The surrendered bonds will be forwarded by banks to the Minister of Finance at Ottawa, where they will be exchanged for bonds of the new issue, in fully registered, or coupon registered or coupon bearer form carrying interest payable 1st May and 1st November of each year of the duration of the loan, the first interest payment accruing and payable 1st May, 1923. Bonds of the new issue will be sent to the banks for delivery immediately after the receipt of the surrendered bonds.

The bonds of the maturing issue which are not converted under this proposal will be paid off in cash on the 1st December, 1922.

W. S. FIELDING,
