MILLIONAIRE TO LEARN TO READ AND WRITE

Greensboro, N. C., Sept. 11—"I will learn to read and write."

Such knowledge is the first thing Joseph Henry Browning, millhand plans to buy with the $13,000,000 lawyers have assured him he will inherit from the $150,000,000 left by his great uncle Thomas Browning who died recently in Texas leaving neither will nor immediate heirs.

"Then a home," he added.

At that moment while we were talking today the mill whistle blew. He frowned at the blast.

"And I'll get away from that."

Dislikes Whistles.

He did not mean the work. He made that very plain. He meant the whistle itself. Throughout his life a whistle has dragged him from sleep in the morning, hurried him through lunch and released him only at dusk. He desires to get whistles out of his life he said. He is perfectly willing to tolerate an alarm clock, but after he becomes a millionaire he desires a spot where the sound of whistles never are heard.

AMBITIOUS.

"Here, waitress. This doughnut has a tack in it." "Well I declare! I'll bet the ambitious little thing thinks it is a fliver tire."

CORRECT.

Men Superstitious But Try to Hide it

London, Sept. 11—It is generally taken for granted that superstition only appeals to the fair sex; men are supposed to rise above such trifles, says a writer in the Daily Mail.

Yet if men cared to admit the truth it would be found that they are as superstitious as women; but women usually advertise the fact; men invariably try to hide it. The writer continues:

I recently stayed at an old farmhouse where the atmosphere was absolutely thick with superstition. But the old farmer would not admit that he believed any of it!

He assured me, however, that when an experienced old shepherd sees the first lamb of the season he carefully notes whether its head or tail is turned toward him. If the former, he confidently believes that he will have plenty of meat to eat during the whole of that year; but if the latter, then he expects to get little beyond bread and milk and vegetables. If he is very fortunate he may possibly get a little pork, but certainly no beef or mutton.

Bad Luck if Swallows Leave

Th farmer couldn't give any explanation, but he was sure there was "something in it!"

He also admitted that "twas said to be bad luck for swallows to forsake a place which they have once tenanted," but, of course, he was not superstitious enough to believe it! However, as a precautionary measure he had given strict instructions that his men were on no account to disturb the host of swallows which had taken possession of the thatched roof of the farmhouse!

An unusually keen business friend of mine, a man of undoubted intelligence seems almost to worship spiders. When he sees one descending from the roof of any building he will stand immediately underneath it until the insect touches him. When this happens he is certain that he will shortly receive a legacy from a friend.

He admits that within the last few years some dozens of spiders have descended upon him; but he is still waiting for his legacies!

Shivers and Itching Noses

The superstitions of women are legion.

There is the girl who, if she would have good luck, will never place a pair of new shoes upon a shelf higher than her head!

Some women are sure that whenever they shiver some one is walking over their future grave; or if their nose itches it is a sign that something will soon happen to vex them!

There are thousands of well educated women who think that the big things of life depend entirely on the veriest trifles in the way of superstition.

They make no secret of these queer beliefs, and, in spite of endless chaff on the subject, they still have a whole hearted faith in omens, signs and warnings.

But men also have their superstitions, and the tendency to believe in good and bad omens is latent in all of us.

SPEEDING UP THE COAL FROM PITS

Pittsburgh, Sept. 11—The three chief railroads entering Pittsburgh expect by tomorrow night to have loaded 7,000 cars, or 350,000 tons of coal representing one day's shipments out of the bituminous mining regions of western and central Pennsylvania and portions of eastern Ohio, West Virginia and Maryland.

This would be at the rate of 135,000,000 tons a year of 300 days, or a record breaker. It is with the mines themselves, not the roads, their officials say, that the blame will lie if coal does not now pour out of these great mining regions in a huge stream.

Coal companies, insisting they will do their part, are expecting a coal shortage, which some railroad officials concede is a possibility.

Tomorrow the test will come. On Thursday—the last day for which complete figures are available—the Pennsylvania Railroad loaded 3,800 cars, or 180,000 tons, in the central region, central and western Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia; the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, 2,200 cars, or 110,000 tons, in western Pennsylvania and Maryland and the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie (New York Central Lines) 584, or 29,200 tons, in western Pennsylvania and Ohio.

A 7,000 car a day basis would account for a quarter of the nation's normal annual coal production in the union fields, which has been 400,000,000 tons.

No one expects this pace can be maintained for a year. It is the pace for the next sixty or ninety days that all eyes in the industrial world will be directed upon.

To Open Mines Long Unused

The Pittsburgh Coal Company, the third largest bituminous mining plant in the world, is at work on plans to open up for the first time in years every one of its fifty-four union mines and to turn out coal on a 20,000,000 ton annual production basis instead of 12,000,000 to 13,000,000 tons which, when reached by this company in the past, was considered a good year's output. This would be a 60 per cent increase production for this company alone in this district. In normal times the annual output of the Pittsburgh district in the union fields has been 50,000,000 tons for all companies.

DR. FOWLER'S SAVED THE LIVES OF FOUR CHILDREN

Diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera infantum and summer complaint are responsible for more deaths, especially among children, during the summer months than any other form of disease. According to statistics, in the City of Toronto alone, in the past five years out of 1008 deaths of children, from diarrhoea, 757 died during the four summer months. It therefore behooves every mother to look after her children on the first sign of any looseness of the bowels by using Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, a remedy that has been on the market for the past 77 years, and has been proven to be the best there is.

Mrs. Harold Sellers, Pennfield, N.B., writes:—"Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry saved the lives of four of my children when all other remedies failed. It stopped the vomiting and terrible diarrhoea with which they were troubled. I will always recommend it, and now always have a bottle on hand in case of emergency."

Price, 50c a bottle; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE HUNTER knows the value of MINARD'S

ELLISON Gray, a well known Nova Scotia guide, writes:

"Have used MINARD'S LINIMENT in my home, hunting and lumber camps for years and consider it the best white liniment on the market. I find that it gives quick relief to minor ailments, such as Sprains, Bruises and all kinds of wounds. Also it is a great remedy for coughs, colds, etc., which one is liable to catch when log driving and cruising during the winter and spring months. I would not be without MINARD'S LINIMENT, and cannot recommend it too highly."

THE GROOM WAS CONSIDERATE

(Nw York Sun)

"Do you take this woman to be your lawful wife?"

There was a pause. The Pale Young Man wavered irresolutely; then spoke huskily.

"Considering," said he, "what has never seriously occurred to me till this moment—the High Cost of Living, the Hostility of Landlords to Children, the Exiguity of the Modern Apartment, the Sorrow of Bachelor Friends at My Loss, the Rage of All the Lovely Women Who May Not Marry Me and the Possibility That This Girl, When She Beholds My Eighteen-Carat Grouch at the Breakfast Table, May Fall Out of Love with Me—considering all these things—I DON'T!"

The Parson dropped the book. There was an uneasy stir among the congregation. One of the bride's nunsins from Cripple Creek reached menacingly for his hip pocket. Hastily the Pale Young Man resumed.

"BUT," said he picking up the book and handing it back to the son, "then again considering the Irresistible Beauty of the Human Race, the Extreme Disappointment of the Congregation and the Lynching That May Enue. If I Fail to Go Through with This Thing— I DO!"

And so after due consideration they were married.

SO UNEXCITING.

"They say life in the Old World is pretty dull

"Yes, one may actually take a drink there without expecting to lose one's eyesight."

Crises in Europe continue to tread upon one another's heels.

Officials Receive Promotion

OFFICIAL announcement was made at the C.P.R. head office of the promotion of two of the Company's higher-up passenger officials. Mr. C. E. E. Ussher is created general passenger traffic manager and Mr. C. B. Foster who has been assistant passenger traffic manager, eastern lines, becomes passenger traffic manager rail lines.

The new office of general passenger traffic manager created for Mr. Ussher is indicative of the world-wide activities of the Canadian Pacific organization which stretches from Europe to the Orient and Australasia, covering steamship services on both Atlantic and Pacific oceans as well as the rail lines. The Canadian Pacific fleet is now one of the largest mercantile organizations in the world, and involves traffic considerations almost as great as those of the railway itself. In addition, Mr. Ussher has charge of the extensive chain of hotels operated by the Canadian Pacific, the capacity of which is constantly being increased and which contribute no little to the passenger traffic of the railway.

A native of Niagara Falls, Ontario, Mr. Ussher commenced his business career as clerk in the auditor's office of the Great Western Railway in 1874. In 1880 he joined the Wabash, St. Louis and Pacific Railway as chief ticket clerk and the Chicago & Atlantic Railroad as rate clerk in 1883.

In November, 1886, when the Canadian Pacific inaugurated the transcontinental services he was called in to become Chief Ticket clerk and was promoted three years later to be Assistant General Passenger Agent. In 1898 he was appointed General Passenger Agent Eastern Lines, and 1907 assistant passenger traffic manager. Since 1910 he has been Passenger Traffic Manager.

C. B. Foster who has been promoted to the position of Passenger Traffic Manager Rail Lines, was born at Kingston, N.B., in 1871, and has spent his whole business life in the service of the Canadian Pacific Railway which he joined in 1891 as stenographer to the division passenger agent at St. John, N.B. In 1902 he himself had risen to be District Passenger Agent at this point. Two years later he was transferred to a similar position at Toronto, and in 1908 was appointed assistant general passenger agent at Winnipeg. In 1910 he became General Passenger Agent at Winnipeg, and in 1913 was promoted to the position of Assistant Passenger Traffic Manager, Eastern Lines, with office at Montreal.
