THE PARIS MURDER TRIAL

St. John, May 1—At Saturday's session of the third trial of John Paris, the mulatto, charged with the murder of little Sadie McAuley at Riverview Park on August 2, 1921, the cross-examination of the prisoner was completed during the morning and the evidence taken of L. G. Crowe, Truro magistrate. In the afternoon Dr. D. S. MacCurdy, Gordon J. Hayman and James W. McNaught testified to the effect that Paris was in Truro the day the murder was committed. Several of the witnesses on cross-examination contradicted some of the statements that they had made at previous trials. The cross-examination of McNaught had not been completed when the court adjourned at 6 o'clock until 10 o'clock this morning.

The defence has more witnesses to place on the stand, and including time for the summing up and judge's charge it is expected that the case cannot go to the jury before next Thursday.

The New Woman has at last surely arrived, Lady Astor says her husband made her what she is.

FIFTEEN BOILS ON NECK AT ONE TIME

Any one who has suffered from boils can sympathize with poor old Job.

There was no Burdock Blood Bitters in those days, so Job had to suffer in silence. Now-a-days no one need endure the misery of boils.

Boils are simply evidences of the bad blood within coming to the surface and just when you get rid of one, another seems ready to take its place and prolong your misery.

All the poulticing and lancing you may do will not stop more coming.

What you have to do is take

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS and the blood will be cleansed of all its impurities, and then every boil will disappear.

Mr. Roy McSwain, High Bank, P. E. I., writes: "I was troubled with boils for some time, and had as many as fifteen on my neck at once. After taking one bottle of Burdock's Blood Bitters they commenced to get better, and after I had taken two bottles was relieved of them and felt much better. I think B. B. is a grand blood medicine, and can recommend it highly."

For the past 45 years B. B. has been manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Lady Astor Gives Advice to Husbands

Baltimore, May 1—Lady Astor compared herself to a six day bicycle rider last night as she started out to make her second speech of the evening to an overflow meeting of women attending the convention of the National League of Woman Voters.

"My husband looks mild mannered she said but when I told him that I felt more like going to sleep than making a speech tonight he suggested that I could put my head in water."

The enormous crowd which had packed the Century Roof so that the city authorities posted policemen at the doors to bar the entry of another person cheered the woman M. P. to the limit and called for a speech from Lord Astor who was standing a little back, trying to pull his wife away from one crowd so that she might hurry to the Belvedere Hotel where an equally enthusiastic gathering was waiting to see and hear her.

"Speech speech!" cried the 2,000 delegates alternates and guests of the convention who had been able to crowd into the hall.

"I suppose you want to see the man who's lucky enough to be Lady Astor's husband," said Lord Astor.

"There is a word I'd like to say here in Baltimore. I want to give a word of assurance to nervous husbands. I've been sort of hanging around the outskirts of the convention this last few days. And I've noticed that a great many men are looking worried. They are afraid their wives are going into politics, that their homes will be broken up, that they themselves will be forgotten and their children will be ignored."

"But it seems to me that there are many women in all large cities who spend a great deal of time at bridge and other 'frivolities' and who think a great deal about their clothes. They have no interest in public affairs and they never think of politics. Some of these women hardly know their children by sight and they are even a little hazy about their husbands."

"Brother husbands, it depends upon the woman. My wife knows a great deal more about her home and her children than many women I have met know about their home and children although they never gave any of their time or their attention to public affairs."

"When you try to define the word 'Home' don't use a pocket dictionary. Don't think of a little bit of wood and mortar. Think of the homeland, a homeland where your daughters can have a proper education and your sons proper means of recreation. You can be glad to have your wife help along these things, brother husbands, if you only have the right wife."

As is usual with Lady Astor, the interjection and additions to the written speech which she had prepared were the parts of her address most. When she referred to herself at one point as Mrs. Astor she stopped to explain. "I was Mrs. Astor then and a respectable woman at home with my children."

Finds America Curious.

"I am glad I did not find myself forgotten like Rip Van Winkle when I came back to America. Instead I feel more like Alice in Wonderland."

COULDN'T DO HOUSEWORK HEART WAS SO BAD

Many women get weak and run down and unable to look after their household duties owing to the heart action becoming impaired or the nervous system unstrung.

Nature intended women to be strong healthy and happy instead of sick and wretched. But how can a woman be strong and healthy when day in and day out she has to go through the same routine of work, sweeping, dusting, cooking, washing, etc. Is it any wonder that the heart becomes affected and she gets irritable and nervous, has hot flushes, faint and dizzy spells, smothering and sinking spells and can't sleep at night.

To all women whose heart is weak and whose nerves are unstrung we would recommend

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS as the best remedy to tone up the system and strengthen the weakened organs.

Mrs. Daniel Bezanon, Loganville, N. S., writes: "As I was troubled with a weak heart for nearly two years I am writing to tell you what your great remedy, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, has done for me."

My heart was so bad at night I could not sleep. I would take smothering spells, and was so weak I could not do my housework. I tried two doctors, but got no results. A friend advised me to try your pills. I used six boxes and am completely relieved. I think they are the best remedy for heart trouble there is."

Price 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

Things get curiousest and curiousest.

In describing conditions in Plymouth, England, during the war she told of 2,000 American submarine chaser sailors, who were there.

"And it took some chasing on my part to keep them from chasing other things than submarines," she added. "But they were splendid boys and everybody loved them."

"What can we do, we English speaking women, and I cannot help thinking we have most of the other women of the world with us, to help the whole world on? We have been guilty only of weakness and feebleness in the past by letting the men try to govern us by themselves. We have always known in our hearts that they were the weaker sex but we have lacked the moral courage to tell 'em so. We cannot live for ourselves alone and get peace. We must somehow rectify the mistakes of the men when left alone and we must do it soon."

"When America went into the war Europe saw the dawn of a new hope. When America went out of the peace Europe was dumfounded. Idealism took America into the war. Idealism did not take her out of the peace no matter what politicians say."

National Selfishness

"The League of Nations has already prevented three wars and registered 100 treaties," she said. She urged the women to make their enthusiasm practical and assured them that they might have this country a league of nations or a league of peace if they had worked for it.

"It's just as bad to work only for your own country as for your own self," she said.

"As I understand it, you are not creating a new party, a woman's party to run sex candidates in opposition to the Democratic and Republican parties. I am sure you are right not to do so. But some people think you are and they are very frightened. Keep them frightened. Let the bosses know we are going to follow only, we women, when they lead us on the right road. See that you send neither windbags nor carpetbags to represent you."

"The League of Nations not only is concerned with preventing war. It has active humanitarian sections dealing with health, labor conditions and the white slave traffic."

"The great contribution that we women can make to politics and national life is to tackle the moral standards. Insist upon the single standard of morality, not by lowering our standard but by raising the men's standard to that of the women. Do that in America. We are working for it and are going to do it in England."

Be Real Companions.

"If America and England do it, then all the other countries must follow. In some countries women are still looked upon to much as physical companions merely instead of mental companions. It is partly the fault of the women. They will always be that until they get a higher sense of companionship. The right minded woman wants to be a companion in the truest sense of the word, and the right minded man wants to have her so."

"It is easy enough to attract the men. It is harder to help them. The single moral standard not only helps women; it helps men; it helps nations. You see it in Europe today."

"I do not believe that if the mothers of France who have suffered so much had the vote and had learned how to use it you would have been amazed at the French attitude at Genoa. That is one of the tragedies of France, and threatens to be one of the tragedies of the world. Poor France, blinded by her struggles and her sufferings, she can't see that the only way out is to look forward and not back."

"You cannot be material in your domestic life and be spiritual in your national life. You cannot be material in your national life and be idealistic in your international relations. Lust creates the spirit of war. It is incompatible with the spirit of peace. The material, lustful man lives and dies. It is the spiritual, moral man who never dies. So with nations. No material, lustful nation, however powerful has ever survived."

"The peace which the world wants is not the peace which comes from a smashing conquest. That sort of peace is apt to sow the seed of vengeance. I believe the women can help to bring the world to real peace, the spiritual peace, the peace which passeth all understanding."

"Always remember St. Paul's words they apply particularly to women:—'God hath not given us the spirit of fear but of power and of love and of a sound mind.'"
